UN Officers Say Talks' Hope Better

Security Zone Proposal Handed to Reds by Liaison Group, Who Will Study It

Would Keep Zone

Attack-Free Radius Is Set at 3 Miles, Instead of Previous Five

Munsan, Korea, Oct. 18 (AP)—Efforts to revive Korean truce talks took a hopeful turn today after the United Nations command submitted a compromise security zone proposal.

Communist liaison officers took the suggestion under consideration overnight.

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, official spokesman for the UN command, expressed "cautious optimism."

"Tangible progress definitely was made" in Thursday's conference between Red and allied liaison officers, Nuckols said. It was their eighth meeting at Panmunjom, a village in no-man's-land selected as the new site for armistice negotiations.

Col. Andrew J. Kinney, senior UN liaison officer, took an "optimistic view of the situation."

Kinney said the liaison delegations Thursday reached "substantial agreement on one or two points which had been in dispute." But, he cautioned, "we still have several fundamental questions remaining."

Very Little Difference

Referring to some of these points, Col. Chang Chun San, heading the Red delegation, remarked, "I find very little difference between us."

(In Washington the State Department said Moscow recently turned aside an American proposal for joint U. S.-Russian action to bring about a truce in Korea.

(U. S. Ambassador Alan G. Kirk made the proposal Oct 5. In his reply Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky blamed the U. S. for failure to arrive at an armistice.)

Chang said his delegation may reply to the UN neutral zone suggestion when the liaison officers meet at 10 a. m. Friday (8 p. m. Thursday, E.S.T.).

The new allied proposal would establish a three-mile attack-free radius around Communist truce headquarters at Kaesong and the UN advance camp at Munsan.

Would Keep 5 Miles

The Reds wanted to keep the five-mile zone which surrounded Kaesong when it was the site of truce talks. They had proposed a similar circle around Munsan.

Both sides already have agreed on a 1,000 yard protected sphere around the big tent at Panmunjom where negotiators are to meet.

The new allied offer ignored the Red proposal to create a protected strip along the road linking Kaesong, Panmunjom and Munsan. The UN has agreed to safe conduct of truce parties traveling on the road.

The new UN suggestion increased its proposed protected area from 20 square miles to about 30 square miles. It is far short of the Red proposal for 175 square miles.

Size of attack-free areas has been the major stumbling block in the way of reopening truce talks which the Reds broke off Aug. 23, on charges that UN violated the Kaesong neutral area.

Not Held as Hostile

Still unresolved was the question of whether airplanes would be permitted to fly over security areas. The UN command holds such flights are not an act of hos-

BPW Will Review Plan for Brewster, Levan St. Sewer

If Board Approves Ideas, They Will Go to Council Nov. 13

The Board of Public Works moved yesterday to expand facilities of another overtaxed sewer line in a central section of the city.

It voted to meet in special session Oct. 30 at 2:30 p. m., to act on plans for the improvement of the Brewster-Levan street system which carries sewage and storm water drainage from the high school and adjacent buildings, the MJM School, the city's two hospitals and many business buildings in that area.

City Engineer Arthur F. Hallinan said he could have the plans and required documents ready for inspection of the board by the end of the month so that they can be submitted to the Common Council at its November 13 meeting, if they are approved by the board.

The board authorized the city engineer to make a study of conditions in the area earlier this year, and it was stressed at the time that expansion of school and hospital facilities in the area along with a gradual growth of business along that section of Broadway which rims the section, requires larger sewer outlets.

'Has to Be Done'

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk said that this project and the one which will increase sewer facilities in the central industrial section were important and "had to be done" without too much delay. The Common Council Tuesday authorized $50,000 for the sewer in the central industrial area.

The board referred to the fire chief and public works superintendent a resolution offered by Alderman Paul J. Schatzel at the October council meeting asking for an investigation of the junk yard at 12 Hoffman street.

The resolution said that the accumulation of materials on the premises "is creating a fire hazard" and the piling of materials close to the sidewalk is dangerous to the public.

Another resolution offered at the October council meeting by Alderman James J. Carroll asked for an investigation of a barn to the rear of 20 Cedar street and this was referred to the fire chief and board of fire commissioners.

The Carroll resolution said the barn was badly in need of repair. Part of its roof and siding had been removed, it contained old hay, papers and boxes, "vagrants have been known to use it," and it was deemed a fire hazard.

To Pay Sums

The board moved to pay sums due to contractors on recommendation of the city engineer. It voted to pay $5,568.75 to the Raymond Conway Plumbing Co., and retain $835.37 for work done on

President Insists On Keeping Plans

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP) — President Truman said today he will not disclose whether he will run for reelection until after he completes the three major messages he will submit to Congress in January.

This was about the only definite thing the President said regarding his political future during a bantering exchange with reporters at a news conference.

Legion Demands Ouster of Acheson, Top Lieutenants

Would Thus Restore Confidence in U. S. Foreign Policy—Brings Fight

Miami, Fla., Oct. 18 (AP)—The American Legion today demanded removal of the entire leadership of the U. S. State Department to restore confidence in foreign policies.

The action came after a bitter and noisy floor fight on the resolution and after rejection of a minority report which would have eliminated all criticism of the State Department.

The demand was approved by a voice vote.

J. Joseph "Jiggs" Donohue, district commissioner of Washington, D. C., pleaded with the convention not "to turn this into a political convention."

Praises Record

He praised the record of Secretary of State Acheson — but when Acheson's name was mentioned there was a chorus of boos which drowned out the speaker's words.

The resolution said in part:

"We demand the immediate removal of the present corps of leaders whose every action has reflected incompetency, indecision and defeatism."

The resolution named no names, but left no doubt the Legion was referring not only to Secretary of State Acheson but also his top lieutenants.

Urging a harder-hitting war against the Reds, another resolution said:

"We again demand that our government use every possible means to bring the Korean war to a speedy and successful conclusion.

"In this connection, we urge that immediate authority be given the commander of the United Nations' forces now fighting in Korea to attack and destroy Communist bases and concentrations of troops, supplies, and

Advancing Men Given Heavy Curtain of Shells

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Oct. 18 (AP)—Chinese suddenly abandoned a series of key hills in western Korea to attacking Americans today. But they stuffened against allies crunching forward toward their Kumsong stronghold in the center.

Troops of the U. S. First Cavalry Division overran four hills northwest of Yonchon almost unopposed.

The Americans had been fighting for the ridge line for two weeks in one of the bloodiest small actions of the entire United Nations autumn offensive. Chinese deserted the western hills during the night after beating off a series of flame-throwing attacks Wednesday.

The doughboys fanned out over the charred, artillery-scarred ridge virtually without firing a shot.

The unopposed advance placed the cavalry troops about two miles in front of their positions of Oct. 3 when the UN western offensive started.

Curtain of Shells

From the center of the Korean front AP Correspondent Sam Summerlin reported a "curtain of smoke from bursting UN shells and bombs rose like a sweeping forest fire" in front of allied infantrymen advancing on Kumsong.

After flying over the area, Summerlin wrote:

"Kumsong looked like a ghost town. It was pock-marked with bomb craters. Allied planes had knocked out the spans from both the road and railway bridges across the river."

Observers said the Chinese apparently had pulled most of their

Congress Leaders Seek Compromise

Truman Hopes for Bill, but Says He's Not Confident

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—Administration leaders in Congress cast about for a new compromise on a multi-billion dollar tax increase today with a nudge from the White House to seek all possible speed.

While the conferences were going on at the Capitol, President Truman told reporters he was concerned about the situation and about the delay in enacting tax legislation.

Delay may make a considerable difference in the amount of additional revenue collected this year from any bill finally written into law.

Asked if he is confident Congress will pass a tax bill, Mr. Truman said he hoped so but was

Alsop Says He Is Ready to Prove Louis Budenz Lied

Columnist Says Story on Wallace Wrong —Sends Letter to McCarran

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP) — Columnist Joseph Alsop said he was prepared to prove to senators today that Ex-Communist Louis Budenz had lied about former Vice President Henry A. Wallace's 1944 mission to China.

The Senate's Internal Security subcommittee called a meeting to hear Alsop. Wallace yesterday told the group Budenz' testimony was "a grave slander" and "an affront to the dignity" of the senate.

Wallace testified that the recommendations he made to President Franklin D. Roosevelt as a result of his wartime trip to China were designed to help and strengthen Chiang Kai Shek, the Chinese Nationalist leader.

He denounced as "utter nonsense" testimony previously given by Budenz, now a Fordham University professor, that his recommendations jibed with the Communist line of the time and helped the Communists.

At the time of Wallace's trip, Alsop was a lieutenant serving as personal adviser to Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, commander of the Fourteenth Air Force in China.

Consulted Alsop

Wallace told the subcommittee he not only consulted Alsop about his key recommendation for the removal of Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell as the American commander in China but also was dissuaded by Alsop from proposing Chennault as Stillwell's successor.

The subcommittee, under the chairmanship of Senator McCarran (D.-Nev.), is probing for possible subversive influences on U. S. policies in the Far East.

In an open letter to McCarran to be heard, Alsop said that events in China in which he played a part "prove that Budenz has lied to your subcommittee."

Alsop had been scheduled to testify yesterday. But when the questioning of Wallace continued late into the afternoon he asked that his appearance be put over until today. He said he had a lengthy and complex presentation to make.

Diplomats Wonder How Sincere Kremlin Is in Proposals

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—President Truman said today he is sticking to his statement that a Russian agreement is not worth the paper it is written on.

That was the President's only comment on Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky's statement that U. S.-Soviet relations could hardly be worse than they are now after Mr. Truman had said in a speech that Soviet agreements are not worth the paper on which they are written.

Vishinsky made the crack in a note rebuffing a secret U. S. proposal that Moscow act to bring about an armistice in Korea. He suggested instead talks on the general causes of East-West conflict.

Mr. Truman told a news conference he had not yet seen the Soviet note and couldn't comment on it.

Refusal Is Given

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—Moscow has rebuffed a secret U. S. proposal that she act to bring about an armistice in Korea, offering instead to talk over the general causes of east-west tension.

Initial State Department reaction was that this offer was propaganda, but the wording of the Russian note was such as to set off guessing among diplomats as to whether the Kremlin is sincere.

Moscow and the State Department disclosed last night that Ambassador Alan G. Kirk on Oct. 5 made the approach for Soviet intervention to end the deadlock between United Nations negotiators and the Communists.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky gave no direct reply, but he noted that Russia is "not a party to these negotiations."

He also: (1) charged the UN command created the cease-fire stalemate with "all kinds of incidents"; (2) supported the North Korean-Chinese position regarding a truce line in the area of the 38th Parallel; and (3) offered the Soviet's "full and energetic support" of measures for "the successful conclusion of negotiations" —successful presumably from the Red viewpoint.

Questions Good Faith

Vishinsky also questioned the good faith of assurances from Kirk that the U. S. and its western allies are arming only for defense and have no "aggressive designs" on Russia or any nation.

Vishinsky commented tartly that "this sort of statement" is contradicted by actions "which show that the government of the U.S.A. is not at all concerned with the maintenance of peace."

As examples, he complained of economic measures the U. S. has taken recently against Russia and the Soviet bloc and of President Truman's statement that agreements with Russia aren't worth the paper they are written on.

The rebuff convinced top American officials that at the moment Moscow is not interested in confidential negotiations like those which ended the Berlin blockade. They tabbed Vishinsky's response "propaganda."

Says It's Characteristic

Charles E. Bohlen, State Department counselor and Secretary Acheson's principal adviser on relations with the Kremlin, told reporters: "It is characteristic of Soviet procedure that when they are seriously interested in any subject they don't publicize it the way they did this."

At the same time some officials thought they detected two possible hints that Moscow may be willing both to reach a settlement in Korea and to discuss the settlement of other east-west issues. They noted:

1. Vishinsky reaffirmed that Russia is standing by its proposal of last June which initiated the Korean armistice talks. This was that Moscow had in mind an armistice on a military basis with

FBI Reports 22 Arrested in Frauds

Hoover Says More Than $350,000 Involved in Activity

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP) — The FBI today announced the arrest of 22 persons on charges of fraud against the government in connection with the G.I. educational program.

Fourteen arrests were made in Miami, Fla., two in Detroit, one in Dayton, O., two in New York city and three in the Newark, N. J., area.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover identified those arrested as employes, officials, and owners of five vocational schools, including the Berlitz School of Languages of America, Inc., at Miami.

Hoover said the alleged frauds total more than $350,000.

Hoover's statement did not name the 22 but identified three language schools in Miami and Miami Beach, the Dayton Television Institute, Inc., and the Lincoln Gregory Trade School, Inc., of Linden, N. J., as the five schools involved. He said names of those arrested would be made public locally.

More Than 300 Arrested

In the past 10 months, he added, FBI investigations have resulted in the arrest of more than 300 persons charged with veterans school frauds totaling close to $1,000,000.

Under the GI plan, the government foots the bill for a veteran's tuition and other school expenses. Hoover said the alleged frauds involved in today's arrests included faked records of student enrollment and attendance.

He said most of those arrested today in Miami are present and former employes and officials of the Berlitz School of Languages of Miami and Miami Beach and the Miami School of Languages. He estimated frauds in the Miami area involved $250,000.

Forged Names Used

"Attendance records for G.I. students were certified by forged names of legitimate teachers, relatives, acquaintances and neighbors to reflect these persons taught the veterans whereas no instruction was given," Hoover said telling of the Miami operations.

"Some students were marked in attendance for non-existent sessions on Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays. Instructors and students were induced to sign for lessons they neither gave nor received."

In one school, Hoover said, a person was hired for the express purpose of placing names of instructors on student records, falsely indicating veterans had received

British Seize Bridge, Cairo Paper Says, Then Relinquish Their Hold

Cairo, Egypt, Oct. 18 (AP)—British and Egyptian troops clashed yesterday along the Suez Canal and the British seized the only bridge crossing it. Two Egyptian soldiers were killed in the fighting.

The Cairo newspaper Al Misri said that by seizing the bridge the British had cut the canal area off from the rest of Egypt. But the Arabic newspaper Al Zaman later said the British had withdrawn from the bridge—called El Ferdan —and that Ekyptian troops had resumed guard duty in the area.

Egyptian censors held up news of yesterday's clash for 24 hours. It started about 2 a. m., according to the British version, and lasted 15 minutes. The Egyptian version was that resistance continued into mid-morning.

2,000 Demonstrate

Today in Cairo, a shouting street mob of 2,000 demonstrated in front of Shepheards Hotel, displaying newspaper front pages carrying pictures of rioting at Ismailia and Port Said. The mob shouted anti-British and anti-western slogans.

The pictures showed a funeral procession in Port Said Wednesday for five civilians killed there, showed a dead Egyptian policeman lying in the street at Ismailia and other scenes showing British troops in the streets.

A British Army spokesman said the canal area was quiet again last night and today.

It was the second successive day the British had fought with Egyptians. They opened fire Tuesday on rioters and looters at Ismailia, where the Egyptian government said seven were killed. The British said they fired in self-defense.

Move to Ease Tension

But today the British moved to ease tension at Ismailia, site of a British Army sub-command. Egyptian officials said the Britons agreed to pull their troops out of the town of 50,000 and leave it in control of Egyptian police.

The British meanwhile, were due to complete today the transfer by air of 3,500 parachute troops from the Mediterranean island of Cyprus to the canal area where 40,000 or more British soldiers and airmen already were on the alert.

The commander of Britain's land forces in the Middle East, Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, left London by air today for the Suez area. He is due there tomorrow afternoon.

The El Ferdan bridge, scene of yesterday's battle, links Africa and Asia. Its eastern end is on the railway to the Holy Land. The bridge site is where the Holy Family reportedly crossed on its flight into Egypt.

The present bridge is a swinging structure that is pulled to the canal side when not in use.

Treasury Receipts

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—The position of the treasury Oct. 16: Net budget receipts, $77,109,737.13; budget expenditures, $214,438,854.95; cash balance, $4,675,850,850.02; customs receipts for month, $24,997,481.46; budget receipts fiscal year July 1, $13,729,926,579.89; budget expenditures fiscal year, $17,852,985,913.54; budget deficit, $4,123,059,333.65; total debt, $257,033,969,099.11; increase over previous day, $36,932,760.14; gold assets, $22,104,463,147.75.

Cars Damaged

Fenders on two automobiles were damaged about 11:20 p. m. Wednesday in a collision on Route 209 at the sharp curve near the Hurley Reformed Church, the sheriff's office reported. Deputy Sheriff Fred Brinkman said one automobile was driven by Ross Atkins, 38, of 35 Gill street, and the other by Mrs. Josephine A. Konyak, 32, of Dover, N. J. No personal injuries were reported.

Housing Authority Advertises Bids

The Kingston Housing Authority today advertised for four separate bids on the local housing project to be built on Flatbush avenue opposite Farrelly street and to be known as "Colonial Gardens."

The contract for general construction will include street and yard improvements, and the others will be for electric work, plumbing and heating.

Bids will be received until 2 p. m., Nov. 27, when they will be opened in the authority's office, city hall.

Second Victim of Beating Dies; Bible Passages Cited

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 18 (AP)—The second victim of a frenzied religious cultist died early today as members of the weird sect sought to explain their whipping rites by quoting Bible passages.

Her back a mass of bloody welts from repeated lashings with a three-foot-long whip, Mrs. Ardith Lennander, 35, succumbed. Mrs. Anna Halvorson, 64, who had also been whipped, was found dead yesterday.

Sheriff Thomas Gibbons was holding without charge Mrs. Lennander's husband, Curtis, 33, who the sheriff said, freely admitted in a tape-recorded statement that he whipped the two women during a sect meeting Monday night.

Sect members pointed to the words of Proverbs (20:30) in an effort to explain the whippings. The passage says, "the blueness of a wound cleanseth away evil and so do stripes the inward parts of the belly."

UN Officers Say Talks' Hope Better

Would Keep Zone

Attack-Free Radius Is Set at 3 Miles, Instead of Previous Five

Munsan, Korea, Oct. 18 (AP)—Efforts to revive Korean truce talks took a hopeful turn today after the United Nations command submitted a compromise security zone proposal.

Communist liaison officers took the suggestion under consideration overnight.

Brig. Gen. William P. Nuckols, official spokesman for the UN command, expressed "cautious optimism."

Kinney said the liaison delegations Thursday reached "substantial agreement on one or two points which had been in dispute." But, he cautioned, "we still have several fundamental questions remaining."

Very Little Difference

Referring to some of these points, Col. Chang Chun San, heading the Red delegation, remarked, "I find very little difference between us."

(In Washington the State Department said Moscow recently turned aside an American proposal for joint U. S.-Russian action to bring about a truce in Korea.

(U. S. Ambassador Alan G. Kirk made the proposal Oct 5. In his reply Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky blamed the U. S. for failure to arrive at an armistice.)

Chang said his delegation may reply to the UN neutral zone suggestion when the liaison officers meet at 10 a. m. Friday (8 p. m. Thursday, E.S.T.).

The new allied proposal would establish a three-mile attack-free radius around Communist truce headquarters at Kaesong and the UN advance camp at Munsan.

Would Keep 5 Miles

The Reds wanted to keep the five-mile zone which surrounded Kaesong when it was the site of truce talks. They had proposed a similar circle around Munsan.

Both sides already have agreed on a 1,000 yard protected sphere around the big tent at Panmunjom where negotiators are to meet.

BPW Will Review Plan for Brewster, Levan St. Sewer

If Board Approves Ideas, They Will Go to Council Nov. 13

The Board of Public Works moved yesterday to expand facilities of another overtaxed sewer line in a central section of the city.

It voted to meet in special session Oct. 30 at 2:30 p. m., to act on plans for the improvement of the Brewster-Levan street system which carries sewage and storm water drainage from the high school and adjacent buildings, the MJM School, the city's two hospitals and many business buildings in that area.

Alsop Says He Is Ready to Prove Louis Budenz Lied

Columnist Says Story on Wallace Wrong —Sends Letter to McCarran

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP) — Columnist Joseph Alsop said he was prepared to prove to senators today that Ex-Communist Louis Budenz had lied about former Vice President Henry A. Wallace's 1944 mission to China.

The Senate's Internal Security subcommittee called a meeting to hear Alsop. Wallace yesterday told the group Budenz' testimony was "a grave slander" and "an affront to the dignity" of the senate.

Wallace testified that the recommendations he made to President Franklin D. Roosevelt as a result of his wartime trip to China were designed to help and strengthen Chiang Kai Shek, the Chinese Nationalist leader.

He denounced as "utter nonsense" testimony previously given by Budenz, now a Fordham University professor, that his recommendations jibed with the Communist line of the time and helped the Communists.

At the time of Wallace's trip, Alsop was a lieutenant serving as personal adviser to Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, commander of the Fourteenth Air Force in China.

Consulted Alsop

Wallace told the subcommittee he not only consulted Alsop about his key recommendation for the removal of Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell as the American commander in China but also was dissuaded by Alsop from proposing Chennault as Stillwell's successor.

The subcommittee, under the chairmanship of Senator McCarran (D.-Nev.), is probing for possible subversive influences on U. S. policies in the Far East.

In an open letter to McCarran to be heard, Alsop said that events in China in which he played a part "prove that Budenz has lied to your subcommittee."

Alsop had been scheduled to testify yesterday. But when the questioning of Wallace continued late into the afternoon he asked that his appearance be put over until today. He said he had a lengthy and complex presentation to make.

Bill Is Signed

Diplomats Wonder How Sincere Kremlin Is in Proposals

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—President Truman said today he is sticking to his statement that a Russian agreement is not worth the paper it is written on.

That was the President's only comment on Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky's statement that U. S.-Soviet relations could hardly be worse than they are now after Mr. Truman had said in a speech that Soviet agreements are not worth the paper on which they are written.

Vishinsky made the crack in a note rebuffing a secret U. S. proposal that Moscow act to bring about an armistice in Korea. He suggested instead talks on the general causes of East-West conflict.

Mr. Truman told a news conference he had not yet seen the Soviet note and couldn't comment on it.

Refusal Is Given

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—Moscow has rebuffed a secret U. S. proposal that she act to bring about an armistice in Korea, offering instead to talk over the general causes of east-west tension.

Initial State Department reaction was that this offer was propaganda, but the wording of the Russian note was such as to set off guessing among diplomats as to whether the Kremlin is sincere.

Moscow and the State Department disclosed last night that Ambassador Alan G. Kirk on Oct. 5 made the approach for Soviet intervention to end the deadlock between United Nations negotiators and the Communists.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky gave no direct reply, but he noted that Russia is "not a party to these negotiations."

He also: (1) charged the UN command created the cease-fire stalemate with "all kinds of incidents"; (2) supported the North Korean-Chinese position regarding a truce line in the area of the 38th Parallel; and (3) offered the Soviet's "full and energetic support" of measures for "the successful conclusion of negotiations" —successful presumably from the Red viewpoint.

Questions Good Faith

Vishinsky also questioned the good faith of assurances from Kirk that the U. S. and its western allies are arming only for defense and have no "aggressive designs" on Russia or any nation.

Vishinsky commented tartly that "this sort of statement" is contradicted by actions "which show that the government of the U.S.A. is not at all concerned with the maintenance of peace."

As examples, he complained of economic measures the U. S. has taken recently against Russia and the Soviet bloc and of President Truman's statement that agreements with Russia aren't worth the paper they are written on.

The rebuff convinced top American officials that at the moment Moscow is not interested in confidential negotiations like those which ended the Berlin blockade. They tabbed Vishinsky's response "propaganda."

Says It's Characteristic

Charles E. Bohlen, State Department counselor and Secretary Acheson's principal adviser on relations with the Kremlin, told reporters: "It is characteristic of Soviet procedure that when they are seriously interested in any subject they don't publicize it the way they did this."

At the same time some officials thought they detected two possible hints that Moscow may be willing both to reach a settlement in Korea and to discuss the settlement of other east-west issues. They noted:

1. Vishinsky reaffirmed that Russia is standing by its proposal of last June which initiated the Korean armistice talks. This was that Moscow had in mind an armistice on a military basis with

FBI Reports 22 Arrested in Frauds

Hoover Says More Than $350,000 Involved in Activity

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP) — The FBI today announced the arrest of 22 persons on charges of fraud against the government in connection with the G.I. educational program.

Fourteen arrests were made in Miami, Fla., two in Detroit, one in Dayton, O., two in New York city and three in the Newark, N. J., area.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover identified those arrested as employes, officials, and owners of five vocational schools, including the Berlitz School of Languages of America, Inc., at Miami.

Hoover said the alleged frauds total more than $350,000.

Hoover's statement did not name the 22 but identified three language schools in Miami and Miami Beach, the Dayton Television Institute, Inc., and the Lincoln Gregory Trade School, Inc., of Linden, N. J., as the five schools involved. He said names of those arrested would be made public locally.

More Than 300 Arrested

In the past 10 months, he added, FBI investigations have resulted in the arrest of more than 300 persons charged with veterans school frauds totaling close to $1,000,000.

Under the GI plan, the government foots the bill for a veteran's tuition and other school expenses. Hoover said the alleged frauds involved in today's arrests included faked records of student enrollment and attendance.

He said most of those arrested today in Miami are present and former employes and officials of the Berlitz School of Languages of Miami and Miami Beach and the Miami School of Languages. He estimated frauds in the Miami area involved $250,000.

Forged Names Used

"Attendance records for G.I. students were certified by forged names of legitimate teachers, relatives, acquaintances and neighbors to reflect these persons taught the veterans whereas no instruction was given," Hoover said telling of the Miami operations.

"Some students were marked in attendance for non-existent sessions on Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays. Instructors and students were induced to sign for lessons they neither gave nor received."

In one school, Hoover said, a person was hired for the express purpose of placing names of instructors on student records, falsely indicating veterans had received

Housing Authority Advertises Bids

The Kingston Housing Authority today advertised for four separate bids on the local housing project to be built on Flatbush avenue opposite Farrelly street and to be known as "Colonial Gardens."

The contract for general construction will include street and yard improvements, and the others will be for electric work, plumbing and heating.

Bids will be received until 2 p. m., Nov. 27, when they will be opened in the authority's office, city hall.

British Seize Bridge, Cairo Paper Says, Then Relinquish Their Hold

Cairo, Egypt, Oct. 18 (AP)—British and Egyptian troops clashed yesterday along the Suez Canal and the British seized the only bridge crossing it. Two Egyptian soldiers were killed in the fighting.

The Cairo newspaper Al Misri said that by seizing the bridge the British had cut the canal area off from the rest of Egypt. But the Arabic newspaper Al Zaman later said the British had withdrawn from the bridge—called El Ferdan —and that Ekyptian troops had resumed guard duty in the area.

Egyptian censors held up news of yesterday's clash for 24 hours. It started about 2 a. m., according to the British version, and lasted 15 minutes. The Egyptian version was that resistance continued into mid-morning.

2,000 Demonstrate

Today in Cairo, a shouting street mob of 2,000 demonstrated in front of Shepheards Hotel, displaying newspaper front pages carrying pictures of rioting at Ismailia and Port Said. The mob shouted anti-British and anti-western slogans.

The pictures showed a funeral procession in Port Said Wednesday for five civilians killed there, showed a dead Egyptian policeman lying in the street at Ismailia and other scenes showing British troops in the streets.

A British Army spokesman said the canal area was quiet again last night and today.

It was the second successive day the British had fought with Egyptians. They opened fire Tuesday on rioters and looters at Ismailia, where the Egyptian government said seven were killed. The British said they fired in self-defense.

Move to Ease Tension

But today the British moved to ease tension at Ismailia, site of a British Army sub-command. Egyptian officials said the Britons agreed to pull their troops out of the town of 50,000 and leave it in control of Egyptian police.

The British meanwhile, were due to complete today the transfer by air of 3,500 parachute troops from the Mediterranean island of Cyprus to the canal area where 40,000 or more British soldiers and airmen already were on the alert.

The commander of Britain's land forces in the Middle East, Gen. Sir Brian Robertson, left London by air today for the Suez area. He is due there tomorrow afternoon.

The El Ferdan bridge, scene of yesterday's battle, links Africa and Asia. Its eastern end is on the railway to the Holy Land. The bridge site is where the Holy Family reportedly crossed on its flight into Egypt.

The present bridge is a swinging structure that is pulled to the canal side when not in use.

Cars Damaged

Fenders on two automobiles were damaged about 11:20 p. m. Wednesday in a collision on Route 209 at the sharp curve near the Hurley Reformed Church, the sheriff's office reported. Deputy Sheriff Fred Brinkman said one automobile was driven by Ross Atkins, 38, of 35 Gill street, and the other by Mrs. Josephine A. Konyak, 32, of Dover, N. J. No personal injuries were reported.

Second Victim of Beating Dies; Bible Passages Cited

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 18 (AP)—The second victim of a frenzied religious cultist died early today as members of the weird sect sought to explain their whipping rites by quoting Bible passages.

Her back a mass of bloody welts from repeated lashings with a three-foot-long whip, Mrs. Ardith Lennander, 35, succumbed. Mrs. Anna Halvorson, 64, who had also been whipped, was found dead yesterday.

Sheriff Thomas Gibbons was holding without charge Mrs. Lennander's husband, Curtis, 33, who the sheriff said, freely admitted in a tape-recorded statement that he whipped the two women during a sect meeting Monday night.

Sect members pointed to the words of Proverbs (20:30) in an effort to explain the whippings. The passage says, "the blueness of a wound cleanseth away evil and so do stripes the inward parts of the belly."

Social Security Law Provisions

George J. Johnson, manager of the Social Security field office here, writes another in a series of articles on the provisions of the new Social Security law:

Do you consider $39,000 a substantial payoff for an insurance policy? Well, we have a claim in our office right now that may eventually exceed that amount in payments to one family.

This does not mean that survivors insurance under social security should, or can supplant a private insurance estate. It is a basis for family protection which every foresighted person should supplement through other means to the best of his financial ability. Furthermore, old-age and survivors insurance under social security is a fixed amount based on the individual's earnings up to $3,600 a year. It cannot be increased. Also, it is well to bear in mind that age is a qualification restricting the duration of monthly benefit payments to survivors. When a dependent child reaches age 18 or marries, benefit payments cease; when a widow remarries, her payments end altogether.

However, survivors insurance under social security does give to the average surviving family a maximum of protection for a minimum of cost.

For example, take the case of that survivors insurance claim which we're handling now. It involves a young office manager for a New York state firm who died suddenly a few weeks ago. He had been earning good wages—at least $3000 a year—since he started working after he got out of college.

He left a widow in her middle twenties and three small children. The youngest is a boy of only five months old. There are also twin girls two years old.

The widow has just filed claim for survivors insurance under the federal social security program. Here's what her family gets:

First, a lump-sum death payment of $205.50 to help cover funeral expenses plus $150 a month ($45 for the widow, $35 for each child) until the twins are 18. Then $102.80 a month ($51.40 each for the widow and the boy) until the boy is 18. All payments stop then, until the widow reaches 65, when she can once again start drawing $51.40 a month for the rest of her life—and she has a life expectancy of 14 years at 65.

If you sit down with pencil and paper and start figuring, you'll find that social security payments to this family will total approximately $39,600. And remember, this is insurance, not charity!

FAT FOLKS!
Your Dream Has Come True!

If you are a normal, healthy, overweight man or woman by all means read about this amazing, new, clinically tested medical discovery, that is already creating a sensation all over the country.

Forget all about diets, hunger, calorie counting, massage, drugs, exercise and all other unpleasant, unnecessary things usually associated with reducing.

For a great medical discovery now makes it possible for you to lose pounds of excess fat safely—without dieting, without having a single hungry moment.

Doctors Discover Wafex

Most doctors agree that the best way to lose excess fat it to eat less—to go on a restricted diet. A group of New York doctors, making a special study of obesity, realized however, that while dieting was desirable it wasn't as easy or as simple as it sounds for most overweight people.

Hunger—The Fat Person's Enemy!

Dieting for most folks means hunger. And few people can resist hunger. So they appease it by eating between meals, by going off their diets. And back comes the unwanted pounds and inches.

So these New York doctors worked for years searching for a formula that would lick hunger and make people lose fat safely, without dieting. They finally announced success in a food adjunct called WAFEX.

Clinical Tests Proved Their Discovery

The doctors clinically tested WAFEX on a large group of non-glandular overweight men and women.

The group undergoing the tests were instructed by the doctors to chew or suck a tasty WAFEX half an hour before each meal but not to go on any special diet, not to cut out any special foods—just sit down at the table and eat until satisfied.

Results Amazing

Every member of the group lost 8 to 20 pounds in a short period of time; in fact satisfactory weight losses were noticed the very first week. And not a single person said she had a hungry moment.

Wafex as Harmless as a Glass of Water

A food adjunct not a drug

During the tests the doctors carefully checked the physical condition of each member of the group, took electro-cardiograms, and did not find a single case of ill effect. Everyone said she never felt better. So at last, the fat person's dream has come true—a way to lose excess fat without dieting, without hunger, without giving up the foods she likes.

Start slimming down your figure. Get WAFEX today. $3 for a month's supply. GUARANTEE: if you aren't pleased with the weight you lost after using one bottle of WAFEX you get your money back.

Wafex Stops Hunger

This Wafex Wafer has according to scientific calculations, the hunger satisfying capacity of 1 lb. boiled potatoes, 4 eggs or 5 slices of white bread. Yet contains only 5 calories.

FAT FOLKS! Your Dream Has Come True!

If you are a normal, healthy, overweight man or woman by all means read about this amazing, new, clinically tested medical discovery, that is already creating a sensation all over the country.

Forget all about diets, hunger, calorie counting, massage, drugs, exercise and all other unpleasant, unnecessary things usually associated with reducing.

For a great medical discovery now makes it possible for you to lose pounds of excess fat safely—without dieting, without having a single hungry moment.

Doctors Discover Wafex

Most doctors agree that the best way to lose excess fat it to eat less—to go on a restricted diet. A group of New York doctors, making a special study of obesity, realized however, that while dieting was desirable it wasn't as easy or as simple as it sounds for most overweight people.

Hunger—The Fat Person's Enemy!

Dieting for most folks means hunger. And few people can resist hunger. So they appease it by eating between meals, by going off their diets. And back comes the unwanted pounds and inches.

So these New York doctors worked for years searching for a formula that would lick hunger and make people lose fat safely, without dieting. They finally announced success in a food adjunct called WAFEX.

Clinical Tests Proved Their Discovery

The doctors clinically tested WAFEX on a large group of non-glandular overweight men and women.

The group undergoing the tests were instructed by the doctors to chew or suck a tasty WAFEX half an hour before each meal but not to go on any special diet, not to cut out any special foods—just sit down at the table and eat until satisfied.

Results Amazing

Every member of the group lost 8 to 20 pounds in a short period of time; in fact satisfactory weight losses were noticed the very first week. And not a single person said she had a hungry moment.

Wafex as Harmless as a Glass of Water

A food adjunct not a drug

During the tests the doctors carefully checked the physical condition of each member of the group, took electro-cardiograms, and did not find a single case of ill effect. Everyone said she never felt better. So at last, the fat person's dream has come true—a way to lose excess fat without dieting, without hunger, without giving up the foods she likes.

Start slimming down your figure. Get WAFEX today. $3 for a month's supply. GUARANTEE: if you aren't pleased with the weight you lost after using one bottle of WAFEX you get your money back.

Wafex Stops Hunger

This Wafex Wafer has according to scientific calculations, the hunger satisfying capacity of 1 lb. boiled potatoes, 4 eggs or 5 slices of white bread. Yet contains only 5 calories.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, OCTOBER 18, 1951

EIGHTY YEARS OLD

Eighty years ago today, the Daily Freeman made its first appearance. An original proposition with its editor and publisher, it was published to meet a demand for a daily newspaper. The Weekly Freeman was then in existence and had been for some time, but it was a tremendous undertaking for Horatio Fowks, who conducted the Weekly Freeman, to put out a daily newspaper. From the beginning, however, the venture proved successful.

Kingston eighty years ago, when the Daily Freeman was first issued, was far different than Kingston today. What now constitutes the City of Kingston then formed the villages of Kingston and Rondout, both with separate village government, and both were included in the township of Kingston.

First issued as The Rondout Daily Freeman, it became The Daily Freeman in 1872, when the old villages of Rondout and Kingston united in one city. In 1878 it became The Kingston Daily Freeman. The Freeman Publishing Company, the present owners, was organized in 1911.

The history of The Freeman and its predecessors in direct line reach back a long way in the history of Ulster county. The Daily Freeman was the natural outgrowth of The Weekly Freeman, which was established in 1860. The Kingston Journal, which became a part of The Freeman, had been established earlier, antedating the Weekly Freeman by 20 years.

In reading the news contained in the first issue of The Daily Freeman, one cannot but be impressed by the similarity of happenings then and now. Human nature demands to know what other people are doing and The Daily Freeman consistently has made it a business of supplying that demand every day. However, it is more than a business—it is a record of the times in which we live. Through news and comment it brings to its readers knowledge of what is going on at home as well as what is going on in the far flung corners of the world.

The late Jay E. Klock was responsible for the present size and influence of The Freeman. From a small paper he managed to make an institution respected and revered throughout the country and one of Kingston's largest and most successful businesses.

When a newspaper has been published as long as The Freeman, when it becomes a full-bodied member of the community, taking its place in the daily life of the people of the city and county and when it finds its sphere of influence broadening and deepening, it is fulfilling its mission to its subscribers of a progressive world.

We take this retrospect as a basis of what we hope to accomplish in the years to come, the foundation of yesterday upon which we build the finer structure of tomorrow.

Mutual helpfulness upon the part of subscribers and advertisers has operated to mutual satisfaction. Today The Freeman has a circulation of 13,356 and it is the earnest wish of the president that it may continue to grow in the way it was intended for it.

Its eightieth birthday is a joyous event in the life of The Freeman. Scenes have changed with the passing of years, old friends have passed on and new faces of new generations have appeared, but the relationship between the community and The Freeman continues cordial.

To all things which spell growth and progress, The Freeman pledges its diligent support.

Nearly sixty per cent of Americans have the ability to wake up in the morning without the assistance of alarm clocks, we hear. This talent is exceeded in desirability only by the ability to go to sleep without a lullaby.

NOBODY LOVES THE LEADER

Beginning with Woodrow Wilson's Fourteen Points and his advocacy to the League of Nations, the United States accepted, not without considerable internal opposition, the hole of leadership in world affairs. What that meant in practical terms has been that the United States succeeded to what had been, for at least two centuries, Great Britain's place in international affairs.

There has been no evidence that any large element of the American people aspired to this role. At no time since the defeat of the Paris treaty in the Senate in 1920 has any kind of referendum been submitted to the American people over the role this country is to play in international relations. In no political campaign since Warren Harding was elected President has an issue of peace or war, of international leadership, of imperialism been submitted to the American people. The grand-scale developments in this field, involving this nation in war and in bloodshed, are the result of day-by-day administrative decisions and acts which face our people as faits accomplis.

There is no use speculating on what might have happened had Willkie or Dewey debated these questions or if Senator Vandenberg had not pursued the bipartisan foreign policy. The fact is that by agreement between Democratic and Republican leadership, the foreign policy of this country and the actual implementation of that policy have never been submitted to the American people. Nor has the entire truth concerning it been documented so that the people understand what has happened and what the cost has been.

We have been going back and forth over the China situation with a bitterness and recrimination that is now strictly personal and is likely to be a principal issue in the next presidential campaign.

Yet, for most Americans that issue is not clear. Shall they believe Harold Stassen or Philip Jessup, Louis Budenz or Owen Lattimore? Are they to believe Gerard Swope about the Institute of Pacific Relations or the documents found in E. C. Carter's barn in Lee, Massachusetts? Is Joe McCarthy a liar or even crazy or is Dean Acheson hiding something that is itching to come out?

The public will have to know one day why they are stuck with the Korean war. They will have to know why to date there have been 90,000 casualties in what was obviously an avertible war. No brilliant publicity planning can save the architects of that error.

But that is not all that will have to be understood. This role of leadership is becoming burdensome. Here we are involved in Iranian oil. What are we going to do in Iran? Are we going to force the Persians to capitulate to the British? Are we proposing to make those people hate us? Do we plan to drive them into Russia's arms? Are we trying to convince the entire Moslem world that the United States is their enemy?

What decision of the American people, in Congress assembled or at an election, has authorized anyone to give the Moslem world from Casablanca to Pakistan cause to hate the United States? It was apparently intended to include Iran in the Truman containment document, which somehow was watered down to Turkey and Greece. Why Turkey and not Iran? Why Greece and not Formosa?

How deeply are we going into Egypt? Are we entering upon a police action on the Suez Canal? Will the British do it alone or shall we step in too? And what if the British go it alone and the Egyptians defeat them? After all, Israel beat the British and the Egyptians combined. There is no telling what can happen in these nationalistic days when some men fight for power and others for glory.

Is this Suez Canal just plain old-fashioned imperialism or is it one of those United Nations resolutions to maintain everywhere the status quo of 1945?

What happens if Iraq, Syria, Saudi Arabia, Jordan, Yemen and even distant Pakistan get into this quarrel between Islam and Britain, are we not involuntarily involved under the North Atlantic Pact? Should not NATO act, with Eisenhower, at the head of a European army consisting of American troops?

Leadership is not just words and speeches; it involves fighting, constant, interminable war. Leadership has brought to our shore the permanent war. We worry about Joe Stalin, but that is only one front. What of the Islam front? The Indian front? The Indo-Chinese front? The Philippines front?

It is a big world and nobody loves the leader.

WHAT IS MENTAL HEALTH?

Some years ago I was asked by the government to make a physical examination of the boys of a large reformatory. Associated with me was a professor of psychology and a judge of a juvenile court. Among the boys in the reformatory were a few whom we found much below normal mentality and had transferred to a hospital for mental defectives.

However, in examining the boys of the mental institution we were unable to find any that were sufficiently normal or near normal that we could recommend that they be transferred to an ordinary public school and civil life. One bright-looking boy, about 12 to 14 years of age, attracted my attention and I asked the superintendent about him. The superintendent said he was a good boy, interested in photography, helped the local photographer at times, thought he might help him and get paid for it. The photographer asked the boy what he would charge for his services. He said he thought he should get ten cents a week.

I am recounting this to show why it is necessary for mental patients to remain in institutions until they are able to mix and hold their own with their fellow men. I am reminded of this episode by an article by Dr. J. W. Smith which appeared recently in Nordish Medicine, Stockholm, on which the heading is "What Is Mental Hygiene?"

Dr. Smith outlines some of the main features of what is really meant by mental health. The aim of the mental health movement throughout the world today is to help the individual live harmoniously with his fellow men.

"The cultural patterns in large parts of the world will have to be modified or changed to a considerable extent. More considerate upbringing of children and kinder treatment of adults would probably decrease some of the social problems for many nervous borderline cases such as maladjustment of children, psychosomatic (mind affecting the body) diseases, neurosis, alcoholism and criminality."

The medical profession, to be adequate and up-to-date, must enter into the work of preventing ailments by giving all-round help to these individuals whose make-up makes it difficult for them to work harmoniously with others—shyness, inferiority complex, superiority complex. They need to be taken out of themselves and become part of the community.

"The evolution of medicine in the direction of prevention is shown by the establishment of the World Health Organization and the World Federation of Mental Health."

Neurosis

"Jump!---It Says Here"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—There are some interesting backstage reasons why Republican senators are so insistent that Guy Gabrielson resign as chairman of the Republican National Committee.

One is a comparison between the two RFC loans obtained by the two chairmen of the Republican and Democratic National Committees.

Democratic Chairman Bill Boyle's loan for American Lithofold in St. Louis totaled $565,000—a relatively small amount.

GOP Chairman Gabrielson's loan for Carthage Hydrocol was for $18,500,000—one of the bigger loans granted by the RFC.

Gabrielson drew a salary and fees totaling $201,000 for Carthage Hydrocol during the period that he was either Republican national committeeman from New Jersey or Republican national chairman. He has been president of Carthage Hydrocol since April 26, 1946, and did not resign after he became national chairman.

Boyle claimed he received a fee of only $1,250 from American Lithofold, though upon becoming Democratic chairman he sold his legal practice to his partner, Max Siskind, who paid him in annual instalments.

The Democrats, many Republicans feel, could score some points on this comparison during a campaign.

Actually, the RFC was established for the purpose of helping companies which could not obtain loans from private banks, and American Lithofold might have been in that category. However, it was not so much the RFC loan as the way American Lithofold wangled huge printing orders from the government and paid government officials on the side to get those orders that made the public hold its nose.

Blue-Chip Backers

But what worries Republican senators about the Gabrielson loan is that Carthage Hydrocol appeared not to have needed a loan at all. Its owners include some of the most powerful companies in the U.S.A., with top credit ratings, and the ability to borrow millions from the banks, insurance companies, or the public.

Instead they used politics to get an RFC loan of $18,500,000. They retained Gabrielson, then a rising figure in the Republican Party, just at a time when the Republicans were nearing their peak power in the 1946 election and appeared sure winners of the presidency in 1948.

Carthage Hydrocol was organized to make gasoline out of methane gas, which is the dry part of natural gas and which never before has been used for gasoline. However, the experiment, after four years operation near Brownsville, Texas, is reported unsuccessful and GOP leaders now fear a Democratic charge that the blue-chip backers of the concern are trying to let Uncle Sam share in their loss—through the RFC.

Chief backer of Cathage Hydrocol is the Texas Company, one of the largest oil companies in the world with gilt-edge credit. Another owner is United Gas, a holding company controlled by Electric Bond and Share, one of the biggest power companies in the world.

Another owner is Stone and Webster, hitherto never known to have been hard up for cash. Other owners are the Niagara Share Company, the Forest Oil Corp., La Gloria Corp., the Chicago Corp., Newmont Mining (a J. P. Morgan concern), Western Natural Gas, and White, Weld, and Co., the Boston bankers.

Another backer is Henry L. Shattuck, Boston blue-blood financial leader; Robert Winthrop, Boston banker and insurance mogul; William A. Coolidge, another blue-chip banker; and N. C. McGowan, one of the biggest gasmen in the business.

The amazing thing is that this group, with unlimited resources, not only wangled an RFC loan, but when the loan's first instalment was due, wanted to postpone payment. It was last month, when the first $250,000 was due to be repaid the RFC, that Chairman Gabrielson approached Stuart Symington and asked for a postponement. Later, when Symington demurred, the instalment was paid, but this postponement move left Gabrielson open to a possible charge that his blue-chip backers wanted to let Uncle Sam hold the bag.

These are some of the background factors which have caused GOP leaders to demand the ousting of genial Guy Gabrielson.

Jet-Plane Crisis

In fairness to the employes at General Electric's Lockland, Ohio, plant, it should be noted that the recent work stoppage there which delayed the production of jet engines was not due to a strike but to shortage of materials, which in turn was due to an Alcoa strike. The fact is that the UAW-CIO unit at the Lockland plant has a no-strike record for which they are to be congratulated.

Meanwhile, however, the entire jet-engine production picture continues bad, largely because of labor troubles at various factories making key parts. The strike at the Borg-Warner plants is one of them.

What this means in Korea boils down briefly to this: Our F-86's are the only jet plane we have that can match the MIG-15's. Yet today our F-86's are outnumbered five to one by the MIG's—due to lack of jet-plane production. Meanwhile, we are losing more jets in Korea than we are producing.

While there is usually something to be said on both sides in labor disputes, and while corporations have netted tremendous profits—as this column has frequently reported — nevertheless neither labor's case nor management's case is important enough to hold up jet production at this critical time.

Important Development at the Pentagon—Generals Ridgway and Van Fleet have now come around to the Air Force view in the bitter controversy over tactical air support. Hitherto, the Army has wanted most Air Force planes operating on close-up tactical support of troops. But now the two top Army commanders in Korea have told General Bradley that strategic bombing has crippled the Communists and prevented them from mounting a fall offensive. As a result General Van Fleet cut in half the number of planes to be called for tactical support of ground troops. In other words, both Ridgway and Van Fleet believe it's more important to bomb enemy bases and supply lines.

Favorite Device Is Being Used to Hide Administration Shortcomings

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 18 — Sometimes members of Congress inadvertently become humorists—but often they do it with straight faces.

Perhaps the most humorous document yet to be issued is the proposal of five senators that a national commission of inquiry be set up by Congress to study ethics in government. Since the administration lately has been under fire on this subject, the pro-administration group may be seeking to divert attention from the mishaps on the ethical front and to focus attention on everybody else's deviations from what are supposed to be ethical practices.

It's a favorite device—to draw a red herring so as to obscure what is going on inside the government by blaming persons outside the government.

This time, however, the five senators have outdone themselves in the scope of the inquiry they propose. It is not to be confined to any small circle. It is evidently to include the whole range of human behavior, thus poaching just a bit on what might be termed the province of the moralists, including the church, the home, and the school.

Congress, according to the latest plan advocated by the administration senators, would be asked to set up a commission which would report not merely on moral conduct in the federal government but on the moral standards in business and political activity and on "the moral standards generally prevailing in society which condition the conduct of public affairs, or which affect the strength and unity of the nation."

This takes in quite a lot of territory and proposes the use of public funds to find out what anybody can find out by reading the Ten Commandments. It will come as a surprise to most members of Congress and to most officials of the federal government, including the judiciary, that matters have come to such a sad pass that a national commission is needed to find out what's wrong with persons who hold office in their own government.

It will come as a surprise, too, to find four of the same five senators advocating a law requiring all public officials and legislators with salaries above $10,000 a year to make public annually "their incomes, assets, and all dealings in securities and commodities."

This is a strange way to impugn the integrity of American public officials who happen to earn more than $10,000 a year. The assumption that a person with less than $10,000 a year will not be tempted to do something unethical by taking a gift or a fee but that the moment he makes $10,000 he becomes suspect will hardly seem logical. Dishonesty knows no income bracket. But primarily it will raise many serious questions. The committee says:

"The revelation of such information will tend to deter individuals from accepting any income, holding any assets, or making any transactions which they believe are questionable."

But will it? Certainly the law wouldn't apply to the official's wife, brother-in-law, son, nephew, aunt, uncle or cousin who could carry on all these transactions if the official wanted to be dishonest.

The person without morality and honesty would not be deterred by any such law. As for the honest and ethical individual, he doesn't need any law to deter him. He knows what is honest and dishonest.

The so-called "ethical report" in a way is a kind of smear and inuendo against all officialdom and will be so regarded by many persons. As for the personnel of the national commission, they are to be 15 in number, but the President isn't to be trusted to appoint them all. The vice president is to appoint five and the speaker of the House is to appoint five. Of the four appointed from Congress, two are to be Democrats and two are to be Republicans. But who is to pass on the ethics of the commission itself and the personal incomes and holdings of its members? And where are such purists to be found? The first difficulty that has to be overcome is the scriptural injunction: "Let him who is without sin cast the first stone."

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Oct. 17 — Martin Quigley, who runs a moving picture magazine and swings some weight in the censorial phase of the movies as an unofficial spokesman for Catholic morality, is sputtering like a Roman candle over my comments on his implication in one of those letterhead groups holding forth in Arthur J. Goldsmith's apartment in the Waldorf Tower. I said in passing, that some prominent Catholic laymen overplayed their role for reasons not necessarily purely spiritual.

This certainly is true but, even though Quigley's prominence in this respect were profitable to his magazine, I couldn't say what goes on in his heart although many a rag on the other side of the fight freely imputes base and hypocritical motives to me. I don't need Quigley's help but I think it would indicate something if he would some time pick up a nickel ball-bat and take a few swings for us anti-Communists.

I have read over my remark four or five times and there is no application to Martin Quigley. But since he is so sensitive as to think so, I withdraw that part of my little essay but nothing else.

Martin wants to make an issue of the question whether he wanted me to go to lunch with him to hear him explain how he happened to throw in with this Goldsmith outfit.

I say he did.

He says he didn't. But he admits that he refused to tell me his reasons on the phone, so what does it matter whether he wanted me to discuss it over lunch or across a desk in his office or mine? What is the matter with the telephone? Tapped or not, why should he hesitate to declare himself?

The reasons why Quigley joined this thing which can be used to delouse a lot of Fellow-Travelers aren't worth any more of my time and diligence than it took to call him up and find him unwilling to tell me on the phone. A highly fastidious anxiety lest some innocent person be unfairly smeared as a former partisan of the Bolsheviki is one-sided and wrong-sided.

I never hear those parties who bemoan "McCarthyism" taking on with the same emotional fervor on behalf of Angela Calomiris, a spirited little American patriot who spent seven years in the Communist party as a spy for the F.B.I. and, as her reward, was insulted by John Morris, the picture editor of Ladies' Home Journal, on the ground that she might be a spy in his office, too. There was a wild hullaballoo when Jean Muir, an actress of minor distinction, if any, was dropped from a radio show because someone had said she was a Fellow-Traveler. But why is it so much more important to protect one accused of being a Red or sympathizing with the Communists than to uphold a loyal American girl who is placed under a boycott by the picture editor of Ladies' Home Journal?

I have known Martin Quigley for years and I freely state that I am impatient of men who enjoy deserved standing and public prominence as religious laymen and exemplars of the good life who commit their fair renown to outfits which would try to make it appear that Eleanor Roosevelt never had anything to do with the Communists or the Communist movement.

Lesser persons look up to the likes of Martin Quigley. That is the very reason why the people who organize letterhead groups always try to get themselves a Quigley or even a Priest for their rosters. The lesser people—and I am not now subscribing to the New Deal concept of Faceless Masses and a Hyde Park Elite—have faith in their Quigleys. It should be easy to see that an endorsement carelessly given might delude these many.

It seems to me that self-importance plays a part in many of these associations. I see names duplicated on rosters running down the lefthand margins of letterheads which are the total substantial entity of many such things. The same old names on the committee for this, the society for the prevention of that, the American Union of These and Those. And so on and on. They are mostly meaningless names which have come to sound impressive through repetition. And I recently discovered that the people on the left-hand margin never, or rarely, are the people who put up the money to defeat senators and congressmen and elect socialistic candidates, to say the best for them, thousands of miles from the Waldorf Tower. Their names seldom appear on the literature.

All this was prompted by a newspaper piece done by Louis Bromfield, the fictioneer who has a quaint fad of apple-knocking and sod-busting as a scientific farmer. Louis is a capitalist. Like every other fictioneer I ever knew, he is reasonably fond of money. But he has lent his name to one thing and another until he turns up 27 times in the reports of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

But now listen to the guy: "Recently it came to the notice of the

EIGHTY YEARS OLD

Eighty years ago today, the Daily Freeman made its first appearance. An original proposition with its editor and publisher, it was published to meet a demand for a daily newspaper. The Weekly Freeman was then in existence and had been for some time, but it was a tremendous undertaking for Horatio Fowks, who conducted the Weekly Freeman, to put out a daily newspaper. From the beginning, however, the venture proved successful.

Kingston eighty years ago, when the Daily Freeman was first issued, was far different than Kingston today. What now constitutes the City of Kingston then formed the villages of Kingston and Rondout, both with separate village government, and both were included in the township of Kingston.

First issued as The Rondout Daily Freeman, it became The Daily Freeman in 1872, when the old villages of Rondout and Kingston united in one city. In 1878 it became The Kingston Daily Freeman. The Freeman Publishing Company, the present owners, was organized in 1911.

The history of The Freeman and its predecessors in direct line reach back a long way in the history of Ulster county. The Daily Freeman was the natural outgrowth of The Weekly Freeman, which was established in 1860. The Kingston Journal, which became a part of The Freeman, had been established earlier, antedating the Weekly Freeman by 20 years.

In reading the news contained in the first issue of The Daily Freeman, one cannot but be impressed by the similarity of happenings then and now. Human nature demands to know what other people are doing and The Daily Freeman consistently has made it a business of supplying that demand every day. However, it is more than a business—it is a record of the times in which we live. Through news and comment it brings to its readers knowledge of what is going on at home as well as what is going on in the far flung corners of the world.

The late Jay E. Klock was responsible for the present size and influence of The Freeman. From a small paper he managed to make an institution respected and revered throughout the country and one of Kingston's largest and most successful businesses.

When a newspaper has been published as long as The Freeman, when it becomes a full-bodied member of the community, taking its place in the daily life of the people of the city and county and when it finds its sphere of influence broadening and deepening, it is fulfilling its mission to its subscribers of a progressive world.

We take this retrospect as a basis of what we hope to accomplish in the years to come, the foundation of yesterday upon which we build the finer structure of tomorrow.

Mutual helpfulness upon the part of subscribers and advertisers has operated to mutual satisfaction. Today The Freeman has a circulation of 13,356 and it is the earnest wish of the president that it may continue to grow in the way it was intended for it.

Its eightieth birthday is a joyous event in the life of The Freeman. Scenes have changed with the passing of years, old friends have passed on and new faces of new generations have appeared, but the relationship between the community and The Freeman continues cordial.

To all things which spell growth and progress, The Freeman pledges its diligent support.

Nearly sixty per cent of Americans have the ability to wake up in the morning without the assistance of alarm clocks, we hear. This talent is exceeded in desirability only by the ability to go to sleep without a lullaby.

"Opportunity knocks but once" is true only for him who doesn't open the door. For him who does, opportunity comes back again and again.

Officials of the Office of Price Administration think the folks who are complaining about meat prices have a legitimate beef.

'These Days'

NOBODY LOVES THE LEADER

Beginning with Woodrow Wilson's Fourteen Points and his advocacy to the League of Nations, the United States accepted, not without considerable internal opposition, the hole of leadership in world affairs. What that meant in practical terms has been that the United States succeeded to what had been, for at least two centuries, Great Britain's place in international affairs.

There has been no evidence that any large element of the American people aspired to this role. At no time since the defeat of the Paris treaty in the Senate in 1920 has any kind of referendum been submitted to the American people over the role this country is to play in international relations. In no political campaign since Warren Harding was elected President has an issue of peace or war, of international leadership, of imperialism been submitted to the American people. The grand-scale developments in this field, involving this nation in war and in bloodshed, are the result of day-by-day administrative decisions and acts which face our people as faits accomplis.

There is no use speculating on what might have happened had Willkie or Dewey debated these questions or if Senator Vandenberg had not pursued the bipartisan foreign policy. The fact is that by agreement between Democratic and Republican leadership, the foreign policy of this country and the actual implementation of that policy have never been submitted to the American people. Nor has the entire truth concerning it been documented so that the people understand what has happened and what the cost has been.

We have been going back and forth over the China situation with a bitterness and recrimination that is now strictly personal and is likely to be a principal issue in the next presidential campaign.

Yet, for most Americans that issue is not clear. Shall they believe Harold Stassen or Philip Jessup, Louis Budenz or Owen Lattimore? Are they to believe Gerard Swope about the Institute of Pacific Relations or the documents found in E. C. Carter's barn in Lee, Massachusetts? Is Joe McCarthy a liar or even crazy or is Dean Acheson hiding something that is itching to come out?

The public will have to know one day why they are stuck with the Korean war. They will have to know why to date there have been 90,000 casualties in what was obviously an avertible war. No brilliant publicity planning can save the architects of that error.

But that is not all that will have to be understood. This role of leadership is becoming burdensome. Here we are involved in Iranian oil. What are we going to do in Iran? Are we going to force the Persians to capitulate to the British? Are we proposing to make those people hate us? Do we plan to drive them into Russia's arms? Are we trying to convince the entire Moslem world that the United States is their enemy?

What decision of the American people, in Congress assembled or at an election, has authorized anyone to give the Moslem world from Casablanca to Pakistan cause to hate the United States? It was apparently intended to include Iran in the Truman containment document, which somehow was watered down to Turkey and Greece. Why Turkey and not Iran? Why Greece and not Formosa?

How deeply are we going into Egypt? Are we entering upon a police action on the Suez Canal? Will the British do it alone or shall we step in too? And what if the British go it alone and the Egyptians defeat them? After all, Israel beat the British and the Egyptians combined. There is no telling what can happen in these nationalistic days when some men fight for power and others for glory.

Is this Suez Canal just plain old-fashioned imperialism or is it one of those United Nations resolutions to maintain everywhere the status quo of 1945?

What happens if Iraq, Syria, Saudi Arabia, Jordan, Yemen and even distant Pakistan get into this quarrel between Islam and Britain, are we not involuntarily involved under the North Atlantic Pact? Should not NATO act, with Eisenhower, at the head of a European army consisting of American troops?

Leadership is not just words and speeches; it involves fighting, constant, interminable war. Leadership has brought to our shore the permanent war. We worry about Joe Stalin, but that is only one front. What of the Islam front? The Indian front? The Indo-Chinese front? The Philippines front?

It is a big world and nobody loves the leader.

WHAT IS MENTAL HEALTH?

Some years ago I was asked by the government to make a physical examination of the boys of a large reformatory. Associated with me was a professor of psychology and a judge of a juvenile court. Among the boys in the reformatory were a few whom we found much below normal mentality and had transferred to a hospital for mental defectives.

However, in examining the boys of the mental institution we were unable to find any that were sufficiently normal or near normal that we could recommend that they be transferred to an ordinary public school and civil life. One bright-looking boy, about 12 to 14 years of age, attracted my attention and I asked the superintendent about him. The superintendent said he was a good boy, interested in photography, helped the local photographer at times, thought he might help him and get paid for it. The photographer asked the boy what he would charge for his services. He said he thought he should get ten cents a week.

I am recounting this to show why it is necessary for mental patients to remain in institutions until they are able to mix and hold their own with their fellow men. I am reminded of this episode by an article by Dr. J. W. Smith which appeared recently in Nordish Medicine, Stockholm, on which the heading is "What Is Mental Hygiene?"

Dr. Smith outlines some of the main features of what is really meant by mental health. The aim of the mental health movement throughout the world today is to help the individual live harmoniously with his fellow men.

"The cultural patterns in large parts of the world will have to be modified or changed to a considerable extent. More considerate upbringing of children and kinder treatment of adults would probably decrease some of the social problems for many nervous borderline cases such as maladjustment of children, psychosomatic (mind affecting the body) diseases, neurosis, alcoholism and criminality."

The medical profession, to be adequate and up-to-date, must enter into the work of preventing ailments by giving all-round help to these individuals whose make-up makes it difficult for them to work harmoniously with others—shyness, inferiority complex, superiority complex. They need to be taken out of themselves and become part of the community.

"The evolution of medicine in the direction of prevention is shown by the establishment of the World Health Organization and the World Federation of Mental Health."

"Jump!...It Says Here"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Washington—There are some interesting backstage reasons why Republican senators are so insistent that Guy Gabrielson resign as chairman of the Republican National Committee.

One is a comparison between the two RFC loans obtained by the two chairmen of the Republican and Democratic National Committees.

Democratic Chairman Bill Boyle's loan for American Lithofold in St. Louis totaled $565,000—a relatively small amount.

GOP Chairman Gabrielson's loan for Carthage Hydrocol was for $18,500,000—one of the bigger loans granted by the RFC.

Gabrielson drew a salary and fees totaling $201,000 for Carthage Hydrocol during the period that he was either Republican national committeeman from New Jersey or Republican national chairman. He has been president of Carthage Hydrocol since April 26, 1946, and did not resign after he became national chairman.

Boyle claimed he received a fee of only $1,250 from American Lithofold, though upon becoming Democratic chairman he sold his legal practice to his partner, Max Siskind, who paid him in annual instalments.

The Democrats, many Republicans feel, could score some points on this comparison during a campaign.

Actually, the RFC was established for the purpose of helping companies which could not obtain loans from private banks, and American Lithofold might have been in that category. However, it was not so much the RFC loan as the way American Lithofold wangled huge printing orders from the government and paid government officials on the side to get those orders that made the public hold its nose.

Blue-Chip Backers

But what worries Republican senators about the Gabrielson loan is that Carthage Hydrocol appeared not to have needed a loan at all. Its owners include some of the most powerful companies in the U.S.A., with top credit ratings, and the ability to borrow millions from the banks, insurance companies, or the public.

Instead they used politics to get an RFC loan of $18,500,000. They retained Gabrielson, then a rising figure in the Republican Party, just at a time when the Republicans were nearing their peak power in the 1946 election and appeared sure winners of the presidency in 1948.

Carthage Hydrocol was organized to make gasoline out of methane gas, which is the dry part of natural gas and which never before has been used for gasoline. However, the experiment, after four years operation near Brownsville, Texas, is reported unsuccessful and GOP leaders now fear a Democratic charge that the blue-chip backers of the concern are trying to let Uncle Sam share in their loss—through the RFC.

Chief backer of Cathage Hydrocol is the Texas Company, one of the largest oil companies in the world with gilt-edge credit. Another owner is United Gas, a holding company controlled by Electric Bond and Share, one of the biggest power companies in the world.

Another owner is Stone and Webster, hitherto never known to have been hard up for cash. Other owners are the Niagara Share Company, the Forest Oil Corp., La Gloria Corp., the Chicago Corp., Newmont Mining (a J. P. Morgan concern), Western Natural Gas, and White, Weld, and Co., the Boston bankers.

Another backer is Henry L. Shattuck, Boston blue-blood financial leader; Robert Winthrop, Boston banker and insurance mogul; William A. Coolidge, another blue-chip banker; and N. C. McGowan, one of the biggest gasmen in the business.

The amazing thing is that this group, with unlimited resources, not only wangled an RFC loan, but when the loan's first instalment was due, wanted to postpone payment. It was last month, when the first $250,000 was due to be repaid the RFC, that Chairman Gabrielson approached Stuart Symington and asked for a postponement. Later, when Symington demurred, the instalment was paid, but this postponement move left Gabrielson open to a possible charge that his blue-chip backers wanted to let Uncle Sam hold the bag.

These are some of the background factors which have caused GOP leaders to demand the ousting of genial Guy Gabrielson.

Jet-Plane Crisis

In fairness to the employes at General Electric's Lockland, Ohio, plant, it should be noted that the recent work stoppage there which delayed the production of jet engines was not due to a strike but to shortage of materials, which in turn was due to an Alcoa strike. The fact is that the UAW-CIO unit at the Lockland plant has a no-strike record for which they are to be congratulated.

Meanwhile, however, the entire jet-engine production picture continues bad, largely because of labor troubles at various factories making key parts. The strike at the Borg-Warner plants is one of them.

What this means in Korea boils down briefly to this: Our F-86's are the only jet plane we have that can match the MIG-15's. Yet today our F-86's are outnumbered five to one by the MIG's—due to lack of jet-plane production. Meanwhile, we are losing more jets in Korea than we are producing.

While there is usually something to be said on both sides in labor disputes, and while corporations have netted tremendous profits—as this column has frequently reported — nevertheless neither labor's case nor management's case is important enough to hold up jet production at this critical time.

Important Development at the Pentagon—Generals Ridgway and Van Fleet have now come around to the Air Force view in the bitter controversy over tactical air support. Hitherto, the Army has wanted most Air Force planes operating on close-up tactical support of troops. But now the two top Army commanders in Korea have told General Bradley that strategic bombing has crippled the Communists and prevented them from mounting a fall offensive. As a result General Van Fleet cut in half the number of planes to be called for tactical support of ground troops. In other words, both Ridgway and Van Fleet believe it's more important to bomb enemy bases and supply lines.

Oct. 18, 1931—The Rev. Arthur S. Cole, pastor of the Albany Avenue Baptist Church, preached the sermon in observance of the church's 100th anniversary.

William Brown and Miss Beatrice Turner were married in the home of Mrs. James Ray on Ferry street.

Miss Catherine M. Ambrose, of Cordts street, and Frank M. Gabriele, of Athens, were married here.

Miss Syd Friedman, of Pine street, and Ralph Hinderstein, of Catskill, were married in New York.

Oct. 18, 1941—This date marked the 70th anniversary of the Freeman.

The movie, "Sergeant York," which was co-authored by Howard E. Koch, formerly of this city, opened at the Broadway Theatre.

The Kingston High School football team lost a DUSO contest to Middletown 19-7 at the municipal stadium.

Cooper Lake, the city's main reservoir, was reported nine feet below normal crest.

Earnings Are Higher

Albany, Oct. 18 (AP)—Average weekly earnings of production workers in manufacturing industries in New York state were $3.94 higher in August than a year ago, the State Labor Department reported today. The August average was $64.97, and that of August, 1950, was $61.03. The July, 1951, average was $64.70.

Favorite Device Is Being Used to Hide Administration Shortcomings

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Oct. 18 — Sometimes members of Congress inadvertently become humorists—but often they do it with straight faces.

Perhaps the most humorous document yet to be issued is the proposal of five senators that a national commission of inquiry be set up by Congress to study ethics in government. Since the administration lately has been under fire on this subject, the pro-administration group may be seeking to divert attention from the mishaps on the ethical front and to focus attention on everybody else's deviations from what are supposed to be ethical practices.

It's a favorite device—to draw a red herring so as to obscure what is going on inside the government by blaming persons outside the government.

This time, however, the five senators have outdone themselves in the scope of the inquiry they propose. It is not to be confined to any small circle. It is evidently to include the whole range of human behavior, thus poaching just a bit on what might be termed the province of the moralists, including the church, the home, and the school.

Congress, according to the latest plan advocated by the administration senators, would be asked to set up a commission which would report not merely on moral conduct in the federal government but on the moral standards in business and political activity and on "the moral standards generally prevailing in society which condition the conduct of public affairs, or which affect the strength and unity of the nation."

This takes in quite a lot of territory and proposes the use of public funds to find out what anybody can find out by reading the Ten Commandments. It will come as a surprise to most members of Congress and to most officials of the federal government, including the judiciary, that matters have come to such a sad pass that a national commission is needed to find out what's wrong with persons who hold office in their own government.

It will come as a surprise, too, to find four of the same five senators advocating a law requiring all public officials and legislators with salaries above $10,000 a year to make public annually "their incomes, assets, and all dealings in securities and commodities."

This is a strange way to impugn the integrity of American public officials who happen to earn more than $10,000 a year. The assumption that a person with less than $10,000 a year will not be tempted to do something unethical by taking a gift or a fee but that the moment he makes $10,000 he becomes suspect will hardly seem logical. Dishonesty knows no income bracket. But primarily it will raise many serious questions. The committee says:

"The revelation of such information will tend to deter individuals from accepting any income, holding any assets, or making any transactions which they believe are questionable."

But will it? Certainly the law wouldn't apply to the official's wife, brother-in-law, son, nephew, aunt, uncle or cousin who could carry on all these transactions if the official wanted to be dishonest.

The person without morality and honesty would not be deterred by any such law. As for the honest and ethical individual, he doesn't need any law to deter him. He knows what is honest and dishonest.

The so-called "ethical report" in a way is a kind of smear and inuendo against all officialdom and will be so regarded by many persons. As for the personnel of the national commission, they are to be 15 in number, but the President isn't to be trusted to appoint them all. The vice president is to appoint five and the speaker of the House is to appoint five. Of the four appointed from Congress, two are to be Democrats and two are to be Republicans. But who is to pass on the ethics of the commission itself and the personal incomes and holdings of its members? And where are such purists to be found? The first difficulty that has to be overcome is the scriptural injunction: "Let him who is without sin cast the first stone."

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York, Oct. 17 — Martin Quigley, who runs a moving picture magazine and swings some weight in the censorial phase of the movies as an unofficial spokesman for Catholic morality, is sputtering like a Roman candle over my comments on his implication in one of those letterhead groups holding forth in Arthur J. Goldsmith's apartment in the Waldorf Tower. I said in passing, that some prominent Catholic laymen overplayed their role for reasons not necessarily purely spiritual.

This certainly is true but, even though Quigley's prominence in this respect were profitable to his magazine, I couldn't say what goes on in his heart although many a rag on the other side of the fight freely imputes base and hypocritical motives to me. I don't need Quigley's help but I think it would indicate something if he would some time pick up a nickel ball-bat and take a few swings for us anti-Communists.

I have read over my remark four or five times and there is no application to Martin Quigley. But since he is so sensitive as to think so, I withdraw that part of my little essay but nothing else.

Martin wants to make an issue of the question whether he wanted me to go to lunch with him to hear him explain how he happened to throw in with this Goldsmith outfit.

I say he did.

He says he didn't. But he admits that he refused to tell me his reasons on the phone, so what does it matter whether he wanted me to discuss it over lunch or across a desk in his office or mine? What is the matter with the telephone? Tapped or not, why should he hesitate to declare himself?

The reasons why Quigley joined this thing which can be used to delouse a lot of Fellow-Travelers aren't worth any more of my time and diligence than it took to call him up and find him unwilling to tell me on the phone. A highly fastidious anxiety lest some innocent person be unfairly smeared as a former partisan of the Bolsheviki is one-sided and wrongsided.

I never hear those parties who bemoan "McCarthyism" taking on with the same emotional fervor on behalf of Angela Calomiris, a spirited little American patriot who spent seven years in the Communist party as a spy for the F.B.I. and, as her reward, was insulted by John Morris, the picture editor of Ladies' Home Journal, on the ground that she might be a spy in his office, too. There was a wild hullaballoo when Jean Muir, an actress of minor distinction, if any, was dropped from a radio show because someone had said she was a Fellow-Traveler. But why is it so much more important to protect one accused of being a Red or sympathizing with the Communists than to uphold a loyal American girl who is placed under a boycott by the picture editor of Ladies' Home Journal?

I have known Martin Quigley for years and I freely state that I am impatient of men who enjoy deserved standing and public prominence as religious laymen and exemplars of the good life who commit their fair renown to outfits which would try to make it appear that Eleanor Roosevelt never had anything to do with the Communists or the Communist movement.

Lesser persons look up to the likes of Martin Quigley. That is the very reason why the people who organize letterhead groups always try to get themselves a Quigley or even a Priest for their rosters. The lesser people—and I am not now subscribing to the New Deal concept of Faceless Masses and a Hyde Park Elite—have faith in their Quigleys. It should be easy to see that an endorsement carelessly given might delude these many.

It seems to me that self-importance plays a part in many of these associations. I see names duplicated on rosters running down the lefthand margins of letterheads which are the total substantial entity of many such things. The same old names on the committee for this, the society for the prevention of that, the American Union of These and Those. And so on and on. They are mostly meaningless names which have come to sound impressive through repetition. And I recently discovered that the people on the left-hand margin never, or rarely, are the people who put up the money to defeat senators and congressmen and elect socialistic candidates, to say the best for them, thousands of miles from the Waldorf Tower. Their names seldom appear on the literature.

All this was prompted by a newspaper piece done by Louis Bromfield, the fictioneer who has a quaint fad of apple-knocking and sod-busting as a scientific farmer. Louis is a capitalist. Like every other fictioneer I ever knew, he is reasonably fond of money. But he has lent his name to one thing and another until he turns up 27 times in the reports of the House Committee on Un-American Activities.

But now listen to the guy: "Recently it came to the notice of the

Weekly Food Review

WEEKLY FOOD REVIEW
(By The Associated Press)

Many butchers and storekeepers looking around for a meat bargain to lure food shoppers settled on pork for this weekend.

Taking advantage of lower hog prices as livestock marketings increased seasonally, several chains and major independents announced retail price cuts ranging to six cents a pound on items like hams, loin roasts and smoked shoulders.

Scattered reductions on roasting chickens, turkeys and ducks also were reported, but for the most part meats other than pork were little changed.

Eggs Show Advance

Top grade large eggs advanced two cents a dozen in many places, chiefly because there were not enough of that size and quality to meet demands. Some market analysts believe the downturn in egg prices which usually comes about now may be delayed for weeks by this exceptional demand stimulated largely by high meat prices.

Butter also edged up a penny or two a pound. The Agriculture Department reported that the nation's butter stocks are only about half as big as a year ago, but officials said the reserves probably would be adequate since consumption has lagged below last year. People are eating more margarine. And butter output is lower because consumers are buying more fluid milk.

Most Changes Minor

Most of the price changes in the produce department this week were minor. Improved demand for apples pushed their price tags higher. Eastern iceberg lettuce, potatoes, eggplant, onions and Persian melons advanced slightly. Cabbage, cauliflower and grapefruit eased somewhat.

Agriculture Department Market reporters said spinach was probably as low as it will get this season in many places. They listed pears and grapes, especially tokays, as good buys and said the first Emperor winter grapes had reached distant markets.

The Production and Marketing Division spotlighted turkeys and honey as the week's most-plentiful foods for thrifty buying. This year's turkey crop has been estimated at 52,800,000 birds—about one-sixth larger than last year's crop which was a record.

More Smaller Turkeys

Shoppers will find many more of the smaller or "apartment oven-sized" turkeys available this fall. A growing percentage are being offered as fryers — tender young turkeys under 16 weeks of age.

Other food notes:

Wholesale prices of most nationally-advertised brands of family flour were advanced 20 to 30 cents a hundred pounds this week, with millers blaming recent price hikes in wheat. The boost eventually will be passed along to consumers.

The government cut back the amount of sugar which may be sold in the domestic market for the rest of this year, saying demand has dropped considerably since early summer and the price has fallen below the fair price goal of the sugar law. The cut in the quotas was expected to bolster wholesale prices but officials said it probably would not cause any change at retail.

Wholesale food prices, as measured by the Dun & Bradstreet food index, eased this week to a level equalling the year's low reached a month ago. The index at $6.77 compared with $6.79 last week, with $6.48 a year ago, and with the year's high to date of $7.31, on Feb. 20. The index represents the total wholesale cost of one pound each of 31 general use foods.

Translucent Blinds

New venetian blinds have a sleek glass-like surface—no pits or crevices to catch or hold dust. Lighter than metal blinds, the slats are extremely flexible and will withstand rough treatment without sagging, bending or cracking. Available in nine colors including yellow, pale blue, terra cotta and green.

THE RUMINATOR

By HUMPHREY B. NEILL

A Column of Contrary Opinion

As has happened so often in the past five or six years, "talk" of a recession or slump again seems to be spreading.

It is a peculiar phenomenon in a country envied by the rest of the world for its prosperity that businessmen and people generally have been so quick to turn pessimistic as we have been since the close of the World War. You recall no doubt that in 1947 and 1948 there was a good deal of wise-cracking about the "most advertised recession in history"—which didn't come off. Again in the forepart of 1949 there was widespread talk about a real slump that was to occur. Instead, there was a modest slowing down which was followed by a brisk and prolonged upturn.

As a matter of fact, these waves of caution are a good thing, because they prevent the excesses of optimism to which we as a people are prone.

It has been known for months, of course, that inventories were piling up and that the "people" were not buying as enthusiastically as they were expected to. Those observers and analysts who predict from income statements, and similar statistical findings, had it all figured out that "by fall" consumer trade would be brisk again.

Well, trade isn't brisk and so the talk begins to spread that we are to have a recession.

Nothing, of course, could be healthier than to have a quieting down of buying because this also retards inflation.

Also, so long as businessmen are in a cautionary mood again production of consumers' goods will be curtailed somewhat which, in turn, will permit inventories to be worked off—and reports show that inventories have been gradually worked down during the summer months. Cut-price sales and impressive merchandising have moved a lot of goods that were piled up on shelves in stores and in factory warehouses. There is still a lot of "moving" to be done, however, before inventories are down in the proper proportion to sales.

It seems to the Ruminator that the spreading talk about a possible recession is a very encouraging development. When "opinions" become fairly widespread and common then we can look ahead to the "opposite" conditions with considerable confidence.

Inasmuch as this writer has taken the contrary position all year that inflation would not "run away"—although nothing has been more talked about—it is comforting to see opinions become somewhat recession-minded at this juncture.

At the same time, we need not fear that we are heading into a severe slump or into a serious deflation. The caution now in evidence is an assurance against a bust, coupled with the production program for defense purpose.

So, contrary to all previous expectations we may rock along for some months without any big surprises, one way or the other—subject, of course, to the always present "if": If a new war does not break out, or if an all-out peace is not negotiated. Either one or the other would cause further jolts to public thinking and to business planning.

The spreading talk about a business recession is also accompanied by increasing discussions about the probability of the stock market's having a "corrective downward movement," as they call it. Just this past week-end, the Ruminator noticed this tendency to expect stock prices to fall off, rather plainly emphasized in several business publications of fairly large circulation. One "Letter" that reaches tens of thousands of business executives speaks of a likely correction downward. "Business Week" hoads its market comment with "Wall Street Get a Warning"—and starts off by saying that "Wall Street's speculative thermometer shows that the bull market has reached a risky stage." And so on.

Advisory services, too, seem loaded with caution advice, some with outright bearishness.

A contrary-minded observer, therefore, ruminates over what is likely to happen with so many writers talking about the same thing.

What could happen, as a matter of fact, would be for the stock market to fool both the bulls and bears and ride along for months without going either up or down. It has done this before: For eight months prior to the fall of France, in 1939-1940, and for a year in 1943-1944, and at other times. It will be interesting to see what happens this time.

Eva Peron 'Sainthood' Marked by Holiday

Buenos Aires, Oct. 18 (AP)—Eva Peron, wife of Argentina's president, was hailed as "Saint Evita" today and her husband declared a national holiday to mark the event.

President Juan D. Peron announced the honor yesterday at Argentina's annual celebration of "Loyalty Day," which developed into a mass eulogy of his ailing wife.

At the close of the ceremonies Peron declared today would be "Saint Evita" day. For the past four years, he has given the extra holiday as "Saint Peron" day.

Senora Peron, ill with anemia since Sept. 21, left her sickbed to take part in the festivity. It was the subject of Argentina's first television broadcast.

As Pegler Sees It

writer that his name was included in some of the preposterous lists issued from (these) shady and sometimes undercover groups."

You bet your sweet life his name was included and for good reasons and I would not concede that the lists are preposterous, either.

And when Louis peers down his proud snoot at "shady and sometimes undercover groups" he could be speaking about the nasty little private gestapo with a force of disreputable gum-shoe dicks which is operated by Isidore Lipschutz through the so-called anti-Nazi League. This backfires on Bromfield when you remember that he lent his own name to another group operated by the same Lipschutz called Society for the Prevention of World War 3 which can out-vilify and out-smear any shady, undercover group on the anti-Communist side that has been getting in some licks on Louis.

Although Bromfield is, as I have said, no Communist, he has earned his lumps and he comes not into court with clean hands with his protest against "shady and sometimes undercover groups." Mark Van Doren, a Columbia professor, the so-called president of this Lipschutz outfit, was so furtive that he even pretended not to know whether it had a constitution or where it held its meetings and kept its roster.

Iowa Farm Ownership

Des Moines (AP) — More Iowa farmers owned the farms they operated in 1950 than any previous time in 23 years of record keeping, the annual state farm census shows. For the whole state, 17,201,421 acres were owned by farmer-operators. That's 49.6 per cent of the farm land.

Green Says U. S. Sanctions Price Gouges and Profits

Miami, Oct. 18 (AP)—President William Green of the American Federation of Labor charged today that Congress has sanctioned "ruthless profiteering and price-gouging" in the present price control laws.

He told the final session of the American Legion national convention the twin evils of inflation and a housing crisis are threatening to undermine the morale of American defense workers.

Green gave his views in a speech prepared for delivery in the closing hours of the convention which yesterday heard Gen. Douglas MacArthur deliver a bitter attack against the Truman administration's military, domestic and foreign policies.

The delegates appeared ready to elect Don R. Wilson of Clarksburg, W. Va., as their new national commander to succeed Erle Cocke, Jr., of Georgia. Mrs. E. A. Campbell of Homer, La., will be the new president of the American Legion Auxiliary. She had no opposition.

Green said the American workers are supporting the mobilization effort. But he added:

"If this popular spirit and morale is to be maintained, none must be permitted to exploit the pressures of emergency for their own selfish purposes * * * to profit from the sacrifices of their neighbors.

"* * * We have an act (price control) which lends the sanction of Congress to the ruthless profiteering and price gouging which has occurred since the outbreak of the war in Korea."

Dairy Farming Is Holstein Topic For October 24th

Frank Kelder of Accord, president of the Ulster Sullivan-Orange, USO Holstein Club announced today that Professor Stanley Warren of Cornell University will be the speaker at the monthly dinner meeting of the tri-county club.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—Trading was quiet today in the stock market as the list drifted about with indecision.

Losses ran a little past a point at the most. At the same time there were strong spots going to between 3 and 4 points at the extreme.

Hardly a single major division moved concertedly either way, and trading activity was not concentrated in any particular section.

Commercial Solvents was higher after the company announced it was ready to market its new penicillin development which doesn't produce unfavorable side reactions experienced by some patients from the drug.

Aluminum Ltd. stepped ahead. First Boston Corp announced it intended to offer today about 95,000 shares of common subject to market conditions.

American Woolen added a fraction. It reported earnings for nine months equal to $10.22 a share as compared with $1.40 for the comparable period last year.

U. S. Rubber was strong again today. There are estimates that its sales and earnings this year will set new records.

United Corp. opened on a block of 27,000 shares up 1/8 at 4 3/8 and traded actively at that price.

American Zinc common and preferred both hit new highs. The preferred was up as much as 5 points on top of its climb yesterday of 9 1/4. Also strong at new highs were Texas Pacific Land Trust and Amerada Petroleum.

Kingstonians Are Called by Defense

Kingston residents were called as witnesses in a hearing in Greene County Court, Catskill, Wednesday in the attempt of Mrs. Bertha F. Bangs, 58, of East Jewett and Kingston, to controvert the finding of psychiatrists who examined her following her arrest last July for allegedly having fired a shot at the car of Mrs. James Hyer, wife of an Athens attorney.

The Kingston witnesses included Raymond W. Garraghan, Lucia Newcomb and Robert C. Murray, cashier of the State of New York National Bank. Hugh R. Elwyn of Kingston, is Mrs. Bangs' attorney.

Greene County Judge Paul Fromer said today that testimony had been completed in the hearing and that a decision was expected in about a week or ten days. He said Mrs. Bangs had been examined by psychiatrists from the Hudson River State Hospital, and the hearing was to controvert their findings.

Mrs. Bangs was indicted last month. It was charged that she fired a shot at the car driven by Mrs. Hyer as she was driving children to her summer home which is near a property owned by Mrs. Bangs in the East Jewett area.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Oct. 18—Elder Amasa Slauson of Kingston preached in the Olive & Hurley O. S. Baptist Church last Sunday. The elder was here bright and early to start the meetinghouse fire. Hewitt Osborn, West Athens man who usually gets the church warm, was unable to come here until later in the morning, due to an accident as he was about to leave home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Spencer of Bridgeport, Conn., spent the week-end at their place on the Onteora Trail.

Callers here Friday included Gertrude Secor of New York who came to take her mother, Mrs. John Secor, back to the city.

Oldest voter in the First Olive election district is Homer Markle, Sr., 90, of Twin Maples, and next oldest is Aner Longyear, a cousin of Homer who also has passed her 90th milestone.

Mrs. William Bartholmess of Albany avenue extension called on friends in the village center early in the week. Margie, who with Willie operated the Pheasant Inn here for several years, reports that the latter has been ill in a hospital. The couple own the Lincoln Park Inn and also have a country home on the Moonhaw road in Olive.

October 19 marks the 46th wedding anniversary of Irving and Coral (Everett) Cornish, Stone Ridge couple who were married at Olive Bridge. Mrs. Cornish, a sister of Mrs. Arthur Wicks of Kingston, and her husband both were brought up in the Olive Bridge sector . . . Having a birthday this Thursday is Judith A. Dolce, two-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Dolce of Ashokan.

Mr. and Mrs. Thord Fredenholm of the village center returned home Wednesday from a trip to New York.

Geese Pay Dividends

Oakanagan Falls, B. C. (AP) — Geese are laying "golden eggs" for one fruit farmer near here. Charles Oliver, who has a 150-acre stone fruit farm near here, tried 200 head of geese this year as controllers of orchard weeds and grass, and as revenue getters. The geese have a habit of camping at the edge of a pear orchard at night, Oliver says. The three rows of trees effected look like a different variety, with greener, larger and thicker foliage than their neighbors. The fruit also "sized" much better, he said.

Jessup Voted Down

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—A Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee today voted against Senate confirmation of Ambassador Philip C. Jessup as a United Nations delegate. The vote was 3 to 2.

Water Rent Payment

The office of the Kingston Water Department, city hall will remain open until noon Saturday, for the paying of water rent. This is the last opportunity to pay without the 10 per cent penalty.

Lester Hutton Is Hurt by Tractor

Lester Hutton, 36, was injured about 8:45 a. m. today when he was pinned beneath the tractor on which he was working on his property overlooking the Hudson River near West Park, state police reported.

The full extent of Hutton's injuries had not been determined up until early this afternoon, Kingston Hospital authorities said. He was conscious and was able to talk to those who assisted in freeing him from his position beneath the tractor.

Trooper Elliot Johnson of Highland reported Hutton was driving his tractor up a steep grade when it turned end over end, pinning him beneath its steering wheel. Gersh's wrecker was summoned from Highland, and with the help of neighbors was successful in lifting the tractor and freeing Hutton within an hour after the accident. Drs. Arthur Friedman and L. E. Sanford were notified and a W. N. Conner, Inc., ambulance was called to convey Hutton to the hospital.

Kingstonians Are Called by Defense

Kingston residents were called as witnesses in a hearing in Greene County Court, Catskill, Wednesday in the attempt of Mrs. Bertha F. Bangs, 58, of East Jewett and Kingston, to controvert the finding of psychiatrists who examined her following her arrest last July for allegedly having fired a shot at the car of Mrs. James Hyer, wife of an Athens attorney.

The Kingston witnesses included Raymond W. Garraghan, Lucila Newcomb and Robert C. Murray, cashier of the State of New York National Bank. Hugh R. Elwyn of Kingston, is Mrs. Bangs' attorney.

Greene County Judge Paul Fromer said today that testimony had been completed in the hearing and that a decision was expected in about a week or ten days. He said Mrs. Bangs had been examined by psychiatrists from the Hudson River State Hospital, and the hearing was to controvert their findings.

Mrs. Bangs was indicted last month. It was charged that she fired a shot at the car driven by Mrs. Hyer as she was driving children to her summer home which is near a property owned by Mrs. Bangs in the East Jewett area.

SHOKAN

Shokan, Oct. 18—Elder Amasa Slauson of Kingston preached in the Olive & Hurley O. S. Baptist Church last Sunday. The elder was here bright and early to start the meetinghouse fire. Hewitt Osborn, West Athens man who usually gets the church warm, was unable to come here until later in the morning, due to an accident as he was about to leave home.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Spencer of Bridgeport, Conn., spent the week-end at their place on the Onteora Trail.

Callers here Friday included Gertrude Secor of New York who came to take her mother, Mrs. John Secor, back to the city.

Oldest voter in the First Olive election district is Homer Markle, Sr., 90, of Twin Maples, and next oldest is Aner Longyear, a cousin of Homer who also has passed her 90th milestone.

Mrs. William Bartholmess of Albany avenue extension called on friends in the village center early in the week. Margie, who with Willie operated the Pheasant Inn here for several years, reports that the latter has been ill in a hospital. The couple own the Lincoln Park Inn and also have a country home on the Moonhaw road in Olive.

October 19 marks the 46th wedding anniversary of Irving and Coral (Everett) Cornish, Stone Ridge couple who were married at Olive Bridge. Mrs. Cornish, a sister of Mrs. Arthur Wicks of Kingston, and her husband both were brought up in the Olive Bridge sector . . . Having a birthday this Thursday is Judith A. Dolce, two-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Dolce of Ashokan.

Mr. and Mrs. Thord Fredenholm of the village center returned home Wednesday from a trip to New York.

Legionnaire MacArthur

News of Interest to Fraternal Organizations

The regular meeting of Craftsmen's Club of Kingston Lodge 10, F. & A.M., will be held in Masonic Temple, Monday, Oct. 22, at 7:30 p. m. at which special guests will be members of Craftsmen's Club from Rondout Lodge 343, F. & A.M. There will be entertainment, community singing and refreshments. Large delegations are expected from each club.

A regular meeting of Charles DeWitt Council, 91, JOUAM, will be held Friday at 8 p. m. at Mechanics' Hall, 14 Henry street. A social hour with refreshments will follow the business meeting. A large attendance of members is anticipated.

Geese Pay Dividends

Oakanagan Falls, B. C. (AP) — Geese are laying "golden eggs" for one fruit farmer near here. Charles Oliver, who has a 150-acre stone fruit farm near here, tried 200 head of geese this year as controllers of orchard weeds and grass, and as revenue getters. The geese have a habit of camping at the edge of a pear orchard at night, Oliver says. The three rows of trees effected look like a different variety, with greener, larger and thicker foliage than their neighbors. The fruit also "sized" much better, he said.

Jessup Voted Down

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—A Senate Foreign Relations Subcommittee today voted against Senate confirmation of Ambassador Philip C. Jessup as a United Nations delegate. The vote was 3 to 2.

Water Rent Payment

The office of the Kingston Water Department, city hall will remain open until noon Saturday, for the paying of water rent. This is the last opportunity to pay without the 10 per cent penalty.

Lester Hutton Is Hurt by Tractor

Lester Hutton, 36, was injured about 8:45 a. m. today when he was pinned beneath the tractor on which he was working on his property overlooking the Hudson River near West Park, state police reported.

The full extent of Hutton's injuries had not been determined up until early this afternoon, Kingston Hospital authorities said. He was conscious and was able to talk to those who assisted in freeing him from his position beneath the tractor.

Trooper Elliot Johnson of Highland reported Hutton was driving his tractor up a steep grade when it turned end over end, pinning him beneath its steering wheel. Gersh's wrecker was summoned from Highland, and with the help of neighbors was successful in lifting the tractor and freeing Hutton within an hour after the accident. Drs. Arthur Friedman and L. E. Sanford were notified and a W. N. Conner, Inc., ambulance was called to convey Hutton to the hospital.

About the Folks

This Boy Likes Dogs

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—Fourteen-year-old Joe McLennon likes dogs. That's why he risked his life to save one in the Harlem river yesterday. Older folks, seeing the mongel pup whirling in the strong currents, said "somebody ought to call a cop." But not Joe. Stripping off his clothes, he plunged in and maneuvered the dog to shore. A cop finally had to help both to land. The dog shook himself vigorously and scampered away. "Shucks," said Joe when patted on the back. "Dogs are my favorite pets."

Speaks Tonight

REV. ASHER B. CASE

The Rev. Asher B. Case, missionary from Siam, French Indo-China, will be the speaker at the opening of the missionary convention scheduled tonight at the Alliance Gospel Church, corner of Franklin and Pine streets.

Also appearing during the convention which will continue nightly through Sunday, Oct. 21, will be the Rev. Walter Oldfield of Toronto, Canada, who is a missionary to China. All services will be held at 7:45 p. m.

Following the opening of the convention tonight, the Rev. Mr. Asher will show slides of his missionary work in Siam during the Friday night service.

The Siam missionary began his missionary career in September, 1924, and has completed four terms in Eastern Siam.

During their last term, the Rev. and Mrs. Case were responsible for two large provinces with a total population of over 700,000 and saw a few pre-war Christians grow into two churches and eight groups scattered over the entire district.

Being a second-generation missionary, the Rev. Mr. Case's knowledge of the language enabled him to prepare study courses and supervise 25 new missionaries of the church in their acquisition of Siamese. He also assisted in the preparation of two Siamese hymnals and other literature and in the revision of the Siamese New Testament.

The public is invited to tonight's opening services and the others to follow.

10 Persons Killed

Bombay, India, Oct. 18 (AP)—Passengers, panicked by harmless engine fumes flooding the electric train in which they were riding last night, pulled the emergency cord and jumped to the tracks. Ten of them were killed and five maimed by a train coming in the other direction.

Horse Trade Brings Jail

Berlin, Oct. 18 (AP)—A horse trade landed a Soviet zone farmer in jail for a year today as a "threat" to the people's economy. The Brandenburg newspaper Maerkische Union said the farmer brought two small pigs, a cow and his 30-year-old plow horse to West Berlin and swapped them for a young horse. On his return he was arrested by the Communist police. The court ruled the farmer violated the law by taking livestock out of the East zone. But because he appeared to get the best of the deal, he "got off" with only a year's imprisonment, the paper said.

Campaigns in Britain

Lewes, Eng., Oct. 18 (AP)—A slight case of American intervention in the British national election cropped up here today. Janet Stevenson Beamish, whose home town is Yonkers, N. Y., is campaigning openly for the Conservative party candidate. The Laborites haven't made anything of it, however. Mrs. Beamish's candidate is her husband, Maj. Tufton Beamish, whom she wed last Dec. 15.

Martin Carr Injured

Martin Carr, 13, of 47 Abbey street, was injured slightly in a bicycle-car collision last night at Wall and Main streets. Raymond E. Pardee, of Connelly, driver of the car, reported at 8:05 p. m. to police headquarters that he was headed south on Wall street and turning into Main street, and the boy was headed north on Wall street at the time of the mishap. The boy was treated by a doctor for a knee injury, the report said.

Two in Iceland

Two Kingston men are serving with an element of the Third Battalion, 278th Infantry attached to the Iceland Defense Force. They are Pvt. Austin D. Cullen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin J. Cullen of 61 Maple street and Pfc. William E. Krom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Krom of 85 John street. Commanded by Brig. Gen. E. J. McGraw, the new unified army, navy and air force command is based at Keflavik, 35 miles from Iceland's capital city of Reykjavik. The Iceland defense force was recently formed through the United States-Iceland agreement of May 5, 1951 to provide for the joint defense of the North Atlantic Treaty area by NATO members. Iceland, a nation of 145,000 people, has no armed forces or fortifications of its own.

Woolly Worms Say Winter to Be Mild

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—If you were just about to return your neighbor's lawnmower and borrow his snow shovel, wait up a bit. The experts predict a mild winter.

Dr. C. H. Curran, curator of insects and spiders at the American Museum of Natural History here, says there are no experts like the "woolly bears," a type of caterpillar with a brown band around the middle.

Yesterday, Dr. Curran went up the Hudson river to Bear Mountain and measured the brown bands of 51 caterpillars.

The bands were wide. That means you wear a topcoat almost to Christmas. Narrow bands on the caterpillar mean howling winds and snow drifting in through the cracks in the storm windows.

Dr. Curran says he has measured the caterpillars for the past three years and found them correct every time.

Predicts Cotton Plantations

A more long-range prediction came from Dr. George H. T. Kimble, director of the American Geographical Society. He went so far as to predict cotton plantations in upstate New York.

Speaking at a publicists' meeting yesterday, Dr. Kimble said temperature records over the past 30 or 40 years show a tendency toward milder winters in this part of the world.

This may or may not keep up, he said, but if it does, uninhabitable areas in northern Canada may become cornfields. He said the forest line in upper Canada already has started "migrating into hitherto barren tundra, which may give promise of more newsprint in the future.

Says Divorce Sought

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—Clifford Odets, 45, a playwright and actor, said today that his second wife, the former actress Betty Grayson, 32, had gone to Nevada to get a divorce. In a statement issued through his lawyer, Louis Nizer, Odets said the divorce would be sought on the grounds of incompatibility. The statement said he and his wife "continue to hold each other in high regard, despite the ending of their marriage." They have two children, Nora and Walter. Odets' marriage to actress Luise Rainer in 1937 ended in divorce in 1941. He wed Miss Grayson on May 14, 1943. Odets wrote the plays, "Awake and Sing," "Waiting for Lefty," "The Big Knife" and "The General Dies at Dawn."

Sets Flight Record

Tokyo, Oct. 18 (AP)—A C-124 Globemaster today carried 165 wounded from Korea to Japan to set a single-flight record for evacuating war casualties. The giant transport also carried 35 crew members, nurses and medical technicians. The 200 total aboard also set a record. The wounded included 103 litter patients and 62 ambulatory cases. Maj. Rolland Urquhard of East Greenwich, R. I., piloted the plane. Among the medical personnel was Maj. Maynard Tinkham, Levittown. En route to Korea the Globemaster carried 40,000 pounds of rockets and bomb fuses and 35 passengers.

Boy Is Taken Home

Robert Anthony Spicer, 14, of Watertown, picked up here early today as a runaway, was taken home by his father at noon. A police report at 12:10 a. m. said the boy was picked up by Officers George Dougherty and Meyer Levy at the Kingston Diner, and that a teletype to the effect that he was missing was on file from Watertown. He was taken to the Volunteers of America home on Barmann avenue, pending arrival of his father.

Campaigns in Britain

Lewes, Eng., Oct. 18 (AP)—A slight case of American intervention in the British national election cropped up here today. Janet Stevenson Beamish, whose home town is Yonkers, N. Y., is campaigning openly for the Conservative party candidate. The Laborites haven't made anything of it, however. Mrs. Beamish's candidate is her husband, Maj. Tufton Beamish, whom she wed last Dec. 15.

Martin Carr Injured

Martin Carr, 13, of 47 Abbey street, was injured slightly in a bicycle-car collision last night at Wall and Main streets. Raymond E. Pardee, of Connelly, driver of the car, reported at 8:05 p. m. to police headquarters that he was headed south on Wall street and turning into Main street, and the boy was headed north on Wall street at the time of the mishap. The boy was treated by a doctor for a knee injury, the report said.

Two in Iceland

Two Kingston men are serving with an element of the Third Battalion, 278th Infantry attached to the Iceland Defense Force. They are Pvt. Austin D. Cullen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Austin J. Cullen of 61 Maple street and Pfc. William E. Krom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Krom of 85 John street. Commanded by Brig. Gen. E. J. McGraw, the new unified army, navy and air force command is based at Keflavik, 35 miles from Iceland's capital city of Reykjavik. The Iceland defense force was recently formed through the United States-Iceland agreement of May 5, 1951 to provide for the joint defense of the North Atlantic Treaty area by NATO members. Iceland, a nation of 145,000 people, has no armed forces or fortifications of its own.

Hard Luck Isn't Only Way to Lose

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

I ran into Hard Luck Joe the other day, but fortunately I saw him before he saw me. It was at the Cavendish Club in New York, and Joe was busy mangling the hand shown today.

West opened the three of spades, and East won with the king. East continued with the ace of spades, and dummy ruffed. Joe then drew trumps, discovering that there was no trump entry to dummy since the trumps were 3-1.

Joe next laid down the ace and king of clubs to unblock the suit and tried to get into dummy with the queen of hearts. This attempt failed, so Joe lost three heart tricks and was therefore set two tricks.

Would you play it the same way and then complain about your hard luck? It's an unlucky hand, all right, since you make the contract with a 2-2 trump break or if the king of hearts is held by West. But there's a way to make the hand despite the hard luck. Can you see it?

The correct play is to refuse to ruff the second spade. Just discard a low heart from dummy and let the enemy do their worst.

If East shifts to spades, diamonds, or clubs, you can win and draw trumps. That leaves the six of trumps in the dummy as an entry to the long clubs. You just take the ace and king of clubs and lead the five of diamonds to dummy's six. Then dummy has three good clubs to take care of your three small hearts.

If East leads a third spade at the third trick, you must ruff with the eight of diamonds. And of course, you discard another heart from dummy. Now you can draw trumps, clear the clubs, and lead the five of diamonds to dummy's six.

Five Soldiers Injured

Tokyo, Oct. 18 (AP) — Five American soldiers were slightly injured by the typhoon that struck Okinawa Saturday, the army said today. It also said 29 Okinawans were dead or missing and damage to military installations exceeds $3,000,000. From Okinawa the typhoon roared north to Japan where it killed at least 448 persons.

British Election Is Viewed As Tossup at Present Time

London, Oct. 18 (AP)—The British national election a week from today looks like a virtual tossup now.

There are no indications of a big or developing trend at this point. Various public opinion polls still report on advantage for Winston Churchill's Conservatives over the Labor Party, but the margin of sentiment has been diminishing steadily for a week. It has narrowed now to the dimension where it actually indicates only a very close race.

Independent observers are beginning to forsee the same thing.

Events abroad are moving fast, and nobody yet has been able to assess the effects for or against either party of the assassination of Pakistan's Premier Liaquat Ali Khan and the outbreak of violence in the Suez Canal area, Britain's "lifeline" to the Orient.

In consequence, the "floating" vote is even less predictable than it was a few days ago. It is estimated at more than 2,000,000 uncommitted voters and liberals who will have no candidates in many constituencies.

Uncertainty Increases

The net result is a thickening fog of uncertainty.

You get that feeling strongly in any attempt at a grass roots survey of public opinion.

Within the past few days this reporter has gone canvassing with a team of Conservatives, and stood in crowds that gathered in three cities to hear and question Socialist Prime Minister Clement Attlee. All soundings were in constituencies considered "doubtful" by both parties.

Attlee, riding in an automobile driven by his wife, has been making a tour that resembles in many ways the whistle stop trip of President Truman in 1948. He has been drawing large crowds and his simple homely manner gets respect, if not in every case agreement.

He is inevitably applauded when he speaks of "fair shakes for everybody" and says it is not only the "privileged few" who have seen living standards rise since the war.

Doesn't Tell Much

But the applause doesn't tell much. It appeared to come in each case from about half the audience. The other half was silent.

Questions give an index to the people's thinking.

At Aylesbury a man shouted, "how about the dollar deficit?"

Attlee replied that it was due to rising prices in world markets and to the cost of rearmament.

At Wolverton a trench-coated listener grated out one word—"Groundnuts." That's British for peanuts, and the reference was to an expensive and abortive Labor government effort to cultivate large tracts of land in Africa to produce oil and fats from peanuts.

The prime minister replied bluntly: "It was a failure."

But he went on to say the government got its advice on the scheme from private interests and that the advice had been bad. He added that the path of capitalistic enterprise was, as he put it, "strewn with failures."

Audience Sympathetic

His audience there appeared to be largely sympathetic. Wolverton is an industrial city, but there was a dull, sodden silence after his explanation about the groundnuts fiasco.

At high Wycombe as well he was applauded on some points. On others the reaction seemed unfavorable. There was no marked, unmistakable crowd response to indicate he had either won or lost any support.

In short, there appeared in all three audiences to be a very large percentage of people who, while not necessarily opposed, were simply uncommitted. They seemed not to have made up their minds.

The more personal interviews, by the Conservative doorbell-ringing team in the Wandsworth section of London, brought out this uncertainty even more clearly. Wandsworth gave the Labor candidate a 2,000 plurality last year out of a total of some 52,000 votes cast. It houses large chunks of both industrial and white collar workers.

The question was, "Can we count on you for support?"

The answers, where no definite party affiliation was stated, inevitably were "I haven't decided yet;" or "I'd rather not say at this time;" or "yes, I'd like to have your literature, but I wouldn't want you to take that as a commitment to the conservatives."

The district will have no Liberal candidate at this time. More than a dozen erstwhile Liberal voters had not known that.

The canvassers put forth a special effort with those people, but in no single instance did a voter agree therefore to vote conservative. One man said, "maybe," but most said, "I'll have to think it over."

Hard Luck Isn't Only Way to Lose

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

I ran into Hard Luck Joe the other day, but fortunately I saw him before he saw me. It was at the Cavendish Club in New York, and Joe was busy mangling the hand shown today.

West opened the three of spades, and East won with the king. East continued with the ace of spades, and dummy ruffed. Joe then drew trumps, discovering that there was no trump entry to dummy since the trumps were 3-1.

Joe next laid down the ace and king of clubs to unblock the suit and tried to get into dummy with the queen of hearts. This attempt failed, so Joe lost three heart tricks and was therefore set two tricks.

Would you play it the same way and then complain about your hard luck? It's an unlucky hand, all right, since you make the contract with a 2-2 trump break or if the king of hearts is held by West. But there's a way to make the hand despite the hard luck. Can you see it?

The correct play is to refuse to ruff the second spade. Just discard a low heart from dummy and let the enemy do their worst.

If East shifts to spades, diamonds, or clubs, you can win and draw trumps. That leaves the six of trumps in the dummy as an entry to the long clubs. You just take the ace and king of clubs and lead the five of diamonds to dummy's six. Then dummy has three good clubs to take care of your three small hearts.

If East leads a third spade at the third trick, you must ruff with the eight of diamonds. And of course, you discard another heart from dummy. Now you can draw trumps, clear the clubs, and lead the five of diamonds to dummy's six.

Five Soldiers Injured

Tokyo, Oct. 18 (AP) — Five American soldiers were slightly injured by the typhoon that struck Okinawa Saturday, the army said today. It also said 29 Okinawans were dead or missing and damage to military installations exceeds $3,000,000. From Okinawa the typhoon roared north to Japan where it killed at least 448 persons.

British Election Is Viewed As Tossup at Present Time

London, Oct. 18 (AP)—The British national election a week from today looks like a virtual tossup now.

There are no indications of a big or developing trend at this point. Various public opinion polls still report on advantage for Winston Churchill's Conservatives over the Labor Party, but the margin of sentiment has been diminishing steadily for a week. It has narrowed now to the dimension where it actually indicates only a very close race.

Independent observers are beginning to forsee the same thing.

Events abroad are moving fast, and nobody yet has been able to assess the effects for or against either party of the assassination of Pakistan's Premier Liaquat Ali Khan and the outbreak of violence in the Suez Canal area, Britain's "lifeline" to the Orient.

In consequence, the "floating" vote is even less predictable than it was a few days ago. It is estimated at more than 2,000,000 uncommitted voters and liberals who will have no candidates in many constituencies.

Uncertainty Increases

The net result is a thickening fog of uncertainty.

You get that feeling strongly in any attempt at a grass roots survey of public opinion.

Within the past few days this reporter has gone canvassing with a team of Conservatives, and stood in crowds that gathered in three cities to hear and question Socialist Prime Minister Clement Attlee. All soundings were in constituencies considered "doubtful" by both parties.

Attlee, riding in an automobile driven by his wife, has been making a tour that resembles in many ways the whistle stop trip of President Truman in 1948. He has been drawing large crowds and his simple homely manner gets respect, if not in every case agreement.

He is inevitably applauded when he speaks of "fair shakes for everybody" and says it is not only the "privileged few" who have seen living standards rise since the war.

Doesn't Tell Much

But the applause doesn't tell much. It appeared to come in each case from about half the audience. The other half was silent.

Questions give an index to the people's thinking.

At Aylesbury a man shouted, "how about the dollar deficit?"

Attlee replied that it was due to rising prices in world markets and to the cost of rearmament.

At Wolverton a trench-coated listener grated out one word—"Groundnuts." That's British for peanuts, and the reference was to an expensive and abortive Labor government effort to cultivate large tracts of land in Africa to produce oil and fats from peanuts.

The prime minister replied bluntly: "It was a failure."

But he went on to say the government got its advice on the scheme from private interests and that the advice had been bad. He added that the path of capitalistic enterprise was, as he put it, "strewn with failures."

Audience Sympathetic

His audience there appeared to be largely sympathetic. Wolverton is an industrial city, but there was a dull, sodden silence after his explanation about the groundnuts fiasco.

At high Wycombe as well he was applauded on some points. On others the reaction seemed unfavorable. There was no marked, unmistakable crowd response to indicate he had either won or lost any support.

In short, there appeared in all three audiences to be a very large percentage of people who, while not necessarily opposed, were simply uncommitted. They seemed not to have made up their minds.

The more personal interviews, by the Conservative doorbell-ringing team in the Wandsworth section of London, brought out this uncertainty even more clearly. Wandsworth gave the Labor candidate a 2,000 plurality last year out of a total of some 52,000 votes cast. It houses large chunks of both industrial and white collar workers.

The question was, "Can we count on you for support?"

The answers, where no definite party affiliation was stated, inevitably were "I haven't decided yet;" or "I'd rather not say at this time;" or "yes, I'd like to have your literature, but I wouldn't want you to take that as a commitment to the conservatives."

The district will have no Liberal candidate at this time. More than a dozen erstwhile Liberal voters had not known that.

The canvassers put forth a special effort with those people, but in no single instance did a voter agree therefore to vote conservative. One man said, "maybe," but most said, "I'll have to think it over."

Brian Meredith Will Speak Wednesday; Rotary District Governor Here

Brian Meredith of the United Nations Radio Division will be the featured speaker at a joint meeting of the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions Club on Wednesday, October 24 at the Hotel Stuyvesant, Program Chairman John Henry Martin announced at the Rotary Club luncheon on Wednesday.

Meredith returned from Korea in July, having spent 10 months there as chief information officer for the United Nations in that theatre. He has been heard on such programs as "UN Today" and "Spotlight on the United Nations." Prior to his Korean assignment, Meredith served in the same capacity in Kashmir, being attached to the staff of the United Nations Representative in India and Pakistan.

The program is being held by the local service clubs in observance of United Nations Day.

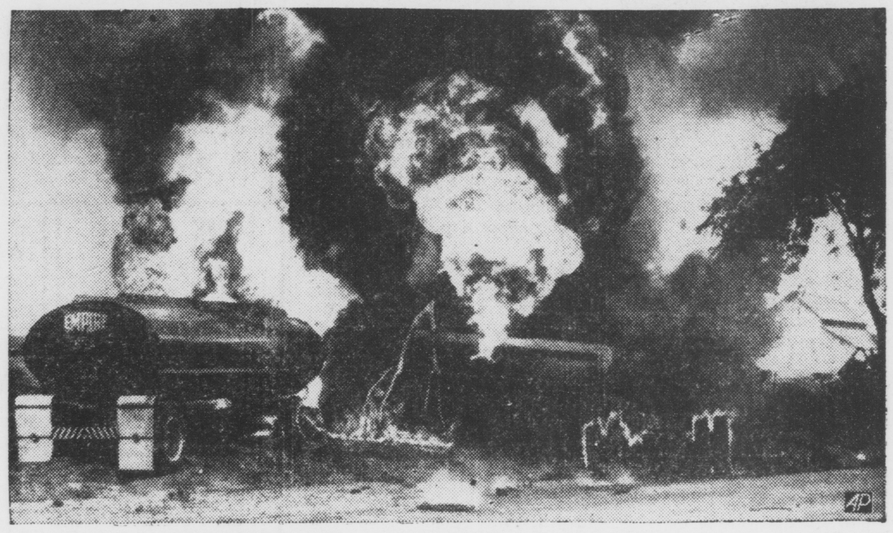
In a stirring message before the local Rotary Club on Wednesday, District Governor Kaemmerling of the 255th District of Rotary Internation re-emphasized the program and objects of Rotary throughout the world. Actively participated in by over 350,000 members in 83 countries Rotary offers a practical means of enlarging friendships, participating in community-betterment undertakings promoting high standards in business and professional life and advancing international understanding, good will and peace, he said.

Wherever Rotary Clubs are located, the district governor asserted, the activities of the clubs are based on the same general objectives—the development of acquaintance as an opportunity for service; high ethical standards in business and professions; the application of the ideal of service by every Rotarian to his personal, business and community life; the advancement of international understanding, good will and peace through a world fellowship of business and professional men united in the ideal of service.

He congratulated the local service club on its program of civic work and community welfare.

Announcement also was made that next Wednesday evening at Williams Lake Hotel, beginning at 6:30, Rotary Ladies' Night will be held.

Funeral Pyre for One Driver



The crash of a truck and this gasoline filled tank truck and trailer resulted in the death of the truck driver, Ralph Lopez, 23, who apparently failed to obey a stop sign before entering a main highway three miles east of Tracy, Calif. Lopez was thrown from his truck to the pavement within the path of the flames. Clyde Lint, 45, driver of the gasoline truck escaped by breaking a window of his cab. (AP Wirephoto)

Little Liz, The Freeman's Ambassador Of Good Cheer, Will Brighten Your Day

Little Liz, a gay litle girl with a cheery word for everyone, makes her debut in The Freeman Monday, October 22, and will be a daily visitor from now on.

Little Liz

She's the star of a merry new featurette created to brighten your day and offset the blues in the news. LITTLE LIZ is an ambassador of good humor in this tough old world — a cheerful little earful and eyeful.

While LITTLE LIZ hopes to give you a quick laugh when you read her witty expressions, she also mixes in some clever philosophy which you'll find quite true to life. A pert little pixie, she will amuse you with her performances as well as with what she says.

LITTLE LIZ is the result of a pleasant blending of homespun Hoosier humor and sprightly illustrations. The feature is written by Mrs. Marjorie Johnson, well known in the midwest for her sharp-edged wit. She began her career as a satirist while on the staff of the college humor magazine at Northwestern University, and has been writing sparkling quips and jokes ever since.

The daily drawings of LITTLE LIZ's antics are by Walt Scott, versatile NEA Service staff artist. His portrayal of Dickens' "A Christmas Carol" in story-strip form won him wide acclaim last year, and he has illustrated other holiday features and fiction stories for newspapers throughout the country.

Take time out from your troubles and plan to enjoy an extra bit of entertainment every day when you see the bright spot in The Freeman — LITTLE LIZ.

Items Are for Sale

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—A large collection of items that adorned and furnished the late President Roosevelt's cottage at Hyde Park, has been consigned for sale at the Hammer Galleries, in Manhattan, by Elliott Roosevelt and Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. The consignment includes the late president's coin cabinet, his collection of miniature books, caricatures and sketches of him, china, silver and glassware and other household items. The sale is expected to last three weeks. It will open with a preview Nov. 5, and will continue with a $1 admission charge. The money from the admissions will go to the Warm Springs Foundation in Georgia.

Pay Gamble Puts Plant in Operation

Detroit, Oct. 18 (AP) — A two-weeks pay "gamble" by 300 unionists and company officers put a 92-year-old packing plant back in operation here today.

The 300 union workers at the Hammond Standish Co., closed since Aug. 14, agreed to return to work without pay for two weeks in an effort to get the firm back on its financial feet.

Company officers also have agreed to work without pay until the firm is making a profit. They will consult with a union committee on how the plant should be run.

Under the agreement worked out yesterday, the employes, members of the CIO Packing House Workers Union, will work for three weeks. If the company is showing a profit then, they'll get their first week's pay.

Wages for the second week will be paid at the end of the fourth week, etc. The agreement is to run for nine weeks, but may be terminated by mutual consent.

The packing company blamed its August closing on government controls, saying it was caught in a squeeze by ceilings on pork but no ceiling on live hogs. It asked a receivership and five years to pay its debts.

Velde Says Lawyer Paid by Red Fund

Washington, Oct. 18 (AP)—Rep. Velde (R.-Ill.) has asserted that an attorney for William Remington was paid $20,000 out of a fund created "for almost the sole benefit of the Communist Party."

The charge, made in a House speech yesterday, drew prompt denials from the attorney and the Robert Marshall Civil Liberties Trust which said, however, that it contributed to Remington's defense.

Remington, former Commerce Department official, was convicted on a perjury charge based on his denial that he had ever been a Communist, but his conviction was reversed by the U. S. Court of Appeals. The Appeals Court ordered a new trial.

Velde, a member of the House Un-American Activities Committee, said Remington's attorney, Joseph L. Rauh, Jr., of Washington, received two checks for $10,000 each from the Marshall Trust which he described as "a huge million dollar Communist front bank or trust."

Rauh conceded that the money was made available for Remington's defense but added that "not one cent" of it went for attorneys' fees. And the trust, he said, has "consistently taken an anti-Communist attitude."

James Marshall, chairman of the trust, said in New York last night that contributions were made to Remington's defense "on the recommendation of the president of the Bar Association of New York and several other distinguished lawyers who thought that the case ought to be fought."

Little Weather Change

(By The Associated Press)

The weather pattern showed little change over most of the nation today—cool and cloudy from the Rockies to the midwest and mild and fair in the eastern and southern states. The cool weather also hit the Pacific Northwest and the New England states. Lowest readings were in Montana and the Northern Plains with temperatures below freezing. Snow was reported in Montana, northern Wyoming and the Dakotas. Rain hit areas from Kansas northeastward into Michigan. Top reading at Cutbank, Mont., yesterday was 20 above. In contrast, the high at Yuma, Ariz., was 94.

Testimony Ended In Masten Suit

Testimony on behalf of plaintiff, Elmira W. Masten of Wallkill, administratrix of the estate of her husband, Bert Masten who was killed in an automobile accident at Newburgh on February 25, 1950, was concluded Wednesday afternoon in Supreme Court before Justice Hamm and a jury. Defense, after moving for a dismissal of the complaint which was denied by the court, proceeded with the defendant's case.

Bert Master, an employe of St. Luke's Hospital, was instantly killed on the early morning of February 25, 1950, as he was riding to work on a truck owned by the Queen City News Service which was being operated by Alonzo C. Morehouse. That truck was in collision with a tanktruck owned by the Provan Transportation Company and operated by Joseph S. Vasco of Pine Bush. The accident happened at the junction of South street and Robinson avenue.

Frederick H. Stang and Arthur A. Davis, Jr., appear for plaintiff and Cook & Cook appear for Provan and Leo F. Potts for Queen City News Service.

Wife Was in Truck

Morehouse on the stand Wednesday afternoon stated that at the time of the accident he was en route from his home to the Newburgh station and with him was his wife and Masten. He said after the accident he had told his wife to go home and her presence in the truck had not been reported until the hearing before the motor vehicle commissioner some time after the accident. He said as he approached the corner where the accident happened he noticed snow on the pavement where a wall about a house shaded the area. He shifted to second gear and tapped his brake to slow up his Dodge truck which was used in delivery of papers. The two cars collided at the intersection and Masten was thrown from the truck. The news truck continued on up the street some distance and came to rest in a snow bank. The gasoline tractor-trailer went over the intersection, struck a pole and came to a halt partly on the street and partially on the walk. The accident happened at 5:15 a. m.

Blames News Car

Joseph S. Vasco, driver of the tanker which was en route to Albany with 5,800 gallons of aviation gasoline, claims he was traveling about 8 miles an hour as he approached the intersection, saw the lights of the approaching news truck and then came the crash. He claims the news truck was traveling at a fast clip. On examination before trial he said the news truck struck his tanker on the left side and the front of the news truck was damaged. When the impact came he lost his brakes and his vehicle continued over the intersection and halted when it struck a tree.

Mrs. Masten was recalled and questioned as to an antique business she conducts. She said it was a small business conducted on a porch of her home. She is 62 years old and has been unable to work since the accident except for two days.

Hubert Masten, a son of deceased, operator of a garage and gas station at Pine Bush said his father had assisted him at the place of business and also had assisted in financing purchase of the business when he returned from service and entered business. He said his father had contributed his services to the business and had also assisted in work about the home by painting and doing other work. This type of testimony was admitted when the court held that in the prayer for relief it was alleged that Mrs. Masten and the "next of kin" had suffered loss through the death of Masten.

No Dismissal

At the conclusion of the testimony on behalf of plaintiff, Attorney Cook moved to dismiss the complaint as against Provan and the motion was denied by Justice Hamm. A similar motion on behalf of Queen City News was also denied when made by Mr. Potts.

Sergeant Joseph J. Brady of the Newburgh police force was called and testified to position of the vehicles and the position of the body of Masten after the crash. He said there was snow on South street but Robinson avenue, which is route 9W through Newburgh, was free from snow or ice.

Joseph J. Brady, Howard F. Haight and Richard J. Presutti also testified for defendants prior to adjournment of the case until 10 o'clock today.

Quick Getaway

Singapore (AP) — Edmund Grey Wheatley is a 20th Century Noah who will ride the floodtide of Communism in an ark built by himself should the Reds get here. Wheatly, a 58-year-old British surveyor, became a Jap prisoner of war when Singapore fell in 1942. He says he's taking no more chances. He built his 34-ton ketch six months ago at a cost of $5,000, fitted it with a 30-horse-power diesel engine and christened it "Chips." He says it will be "goodbye, Mr. Chips", at a steady nine knots per hour with Australia the destination if the Communists come Singapore way.

Dollars Into Africa Mines

Brussels (AP)—U. S. investors are showing growing interest in the untapped mineral resources of French Equatorial Africa. American dollars have helped reopen several abandoned copper, zinc and lead mines. Workers are recruited through a "labor airlift." Due to a labor shortage in the Middle Congo, 25 families a week are flown into the Mayumbe mountain area of the Middle Congo from Northern villages. Charles Denton, chief of the African division of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, recently came here for conversations with the French Equatorial Africa Mining Service.

Produce Firm Has Grand Opening

Their new warehouse at 36 O'Neil street was opened by Zwick & Schwartz, Wednesday night, when more than 1,000 merchants served by the wholesalers of fruits and vegetables, and their friends, attended the grand opening for a tour of the spacious store rooms and gigantic cooler. On the reception committee were (l. to r.) Harry Weisman, Moe Schwartz and Michael Sarkies, salesmen; William Zwick and Louis M. Schwartz, partners in the business and Mrs. Rosemarie Hogan, secretary. There was a buffet luncheon and other refreshments for the visitors who came from the entire Hudson valley area to inspect the new establishment, considered one of the most modern between New York and Albany, with an attractive and comfortable office to transact business. (Freeman Photo)

McBrides to Close Out Their Drug Business After 58 Years

McBride Drug Stores, Inc., is selling out its stock and will discontinue its business which was operated in this city by one family for more than 58 years, William A. McBride, Sr., announced today.

The corporation, which at one time operated three separate stores here, since 1937 has done business exclusively from its building at 634 Broadway, where Charles L. McBride started his first store in 1893.

The present proprietor stated today he has no set plans for the future. Whether the building will be leased or sold has not been decided, he said.

Charles L. McBride learned the pharmacist's profession working at the F. J. R. Clark Drug Store, located where Dedrick's Drug Store is now. He then became a pharmacist with Reynold's Drug Store in Plainfield, N. J. In 1893 he returned to his home town and opened his own business in its present building at what is now 634 Broadway. At that time Broadway was Union avenue and his labels bore the inscription, "Chas. L. McBride, Pharmacist, Union avenue, near O'Neil street."

Had Candy Business

The building at that location was in the McBride family even before the drug store was started. The founder's father, Bernard McBride, had conducted a candy and ice cream store at that location. There, he made his own old fashioned hard candy, cocoanut cakes and "haystacks." Bernard McBride, who had been superintendent of the Sunday school at the Clinton Avenue M.E. Church for 38 years, died in 1915.

Meanwhile, the retail drug business continued to grow, and in 1917 a branch store was opened at 323 Wall street, where Walter Reade's Kingston Theatre is located today. It was in that year that a son, William A. McBride, present proprietor, joined the business on his graduation from Columbia University with bachelor of science, graduate pharmacist and pharmacy chemist degrees. The first dollar, a large greenback, was spent at the branch store by Aaron Cohen on June 20, 1917.

In 1924, the McBride family took over the former Charles C. Ten Broeck store at 322 Wall street and opened a third store. This store they moved for a time to 43 North Front street, where it operated until 1932.

The other uptown branch continued in the theatre building until 1928, when it moved to 312 Wall street, a building the McBride corporation still owns and leases to the National Shoe Store operators. This store was discontinued as a drug store in 1937, and William McBride has concentrated since on the Broadway location.

Charles L. McBride died in 1933. Another son, F. Bernard McBride was also in the business until his death in 1925.

Among the others deserving credit for many years in the organization is William H. Van Dyke, porter for more than 25 years.

Charles McBride's wife, Henrietta, took an active part with her husband in conducting the business and when the firm was incorporated she became a stockholder along with her husband and son, William.

Among the founder's early jobs was the operation of the pharmacy at Grand Hotel at Highmount during the summer seasons in 1888 and 1889. Prior to his entrance into pharmacy, he was employed in the Ulster and Delaware Railroad freight department.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. McBride reside at 40 Janet street. They have one son, William A., Jr., in the U. S. Navy. For nine months he was in the Korean area on the U.S.S. Missouri, and presently plays solo trumpet with a unit band at the Philadelphia Navy Station.

Washigton, Oct. 18 (AP)—House-Senate conferees agreed today on a new compromise $5,700,000,000 tax bill. The proposed individual income tax increases are slightly smaller than in the bill turned down by the House earlier this week.

Half a dozen other minor changes were made, but the new bill remained in most details essentially the same as the measure the House rejected.

The Senate will vote first on the new bill and action is possible late today.

Senator George (D.-Ga.) said he planned to call it up in the Senate about 4 p. m. (E.S.T.) if possible.

If the Senate approves it, the bill will then go to the House.

Passage by both chambers would clear the way for probable adjournment of this session of Congress on Saturday.

Testimony Ended In Masten Suit

Testimony on behalf of plaintiff, Elmira W. Masten of Wallkill, administratrix of the estate of her husband, Bert Masten who was killed in an automobile accident at Newburgh on February 25, 1950, was concluded Wednesday afternoon in Supreme Court before Justice Hamm and a jury. Defense, after moving for a dismissal of the complaint which was denied by the court, proceeded with the defendant's case.

Bert Master, an employe of St. Luke's Hospital, was instantly killed on the early morning of February 25, 1950, as he was riding to work on a truck owned by the Queen City News Service which was being operated by Alonzo C. Morehouse. That truck was in collision with a tanktruck owned by the Provan Transportation Company and operated by Joseph S. Vasco of Pine Bush. The accident happened at the junction of South street and Robinson avenue.

Frederick H. Stang and Arthur A. Davis, Jr., appear for plaintiff and Cook & Cook appear for Provan and Leo F. Potts for Queen City News Service.

Wife Was in Truck

Morehouse on the stand Wednesday afternoon stated that at the time of the accident he was en route from his home to the Newburgh station and with him was his wife and Masten. He said after the accident he had told his wife to go home and her presence in the truck had not been reported until the hearing before the motor vehicle commissioner some time after the accident. He said as he approached the corner where the accident happened he noticed snow on the pavement where a wall about a house shaded the area. He shifted to second gear and tapped his brake to slow up his Dodge truck which was used in delivery of papers. The two cars collided at the intersection and Masten was thrown from the truck. The news truck continued on up the street some distance and came to rest in a snow bank. The gasoline tractor-trailer went over the intersection, struck a pole and came to a halt partly on the street and partially on the walk. The accident happened at 5:15 a. m.

Blames News Car

Joseph S. Vasco, driver of the tanker which was en route to Albany with 5,800 gallons of aviation gasoline, claims he was traveling about 8 miles an hour as he approached the intersection, saw the lights of the approaching news truck and then came the crash. He claims the news truck was traveling at a fast clip. On examination before trial he said the news truck struck his tanker on the left side and the front of the news truck was damaged. When the impact came he lost his brakes and his vehicle continued over the intersection and halted when it struck a tree.

Mrs. Masten was recalled and questioned as to an antique business she conducts. She said it was a small business conducted on a porch of her home. She is 62 years old and has been unable to work since the accident except for two days.

Hubert Masten, a son of deceased, operator of a garage and gas station at Pine Bush said his father had assisted him at the place of business and also had assisted in financing purchase of the business when he returned from service and entered business. He said his father had contributed his services to the business and had also assisted in work about the home by painting and doing other work. This type of testimony was admitted when the court held that in the prayer for relief it was alleged that Mrs. Masten and the "next of kin" had suffered loss through the death of Masten.

No Dismissal

At the conclusion of the testimony on behalf of plaintiff, Attorney Cook moved to dismiss the complaint as against Provan and the motion was denied by Justice Hamm. A similar motion on behalf of Queen City News was also denied when made by Mr. Potts.

Sergeant Joseph J. Brady of the Newburgh police force was called and testified to position of the vehicles and the position of the body of Masten after the crash. He said there was snow on South street but Robinson avenue, which is route 9W through Newburgh, was free from snow or ice.

Joseph J. Brady, Howard F. Haight and Richard J. Presutti also testified for defendants prior to adjournment of the case until 10 o'clock today.

Singapore (AP) — Edmund Grey Wheatley is a 20th Century Noah who will ride the floodtide of Communism in an ark built by himself should the Reds get here. Wheatly, a 58-year-old British surveyor, became a Jap prisoner of war when Singapore fell in 1942. He says he's taking no more chances. He built his 34-ton ketch six months ago at a cost of $5,000, fitted it with a 30-horse-power diesel engine and christened it "Chips." He says it will be "goodbye, Mr. Chips", at a steady nine knots per hour with Australia the destination if the Communists come Singapore way.

Dollars Into Africa Mines

Brussels (AP)—U. S. investors are showing growing interest in the untapped mineral resources of French Equatorial Africa. American dollars have helped reopen several abandoned copper, zinc and lead mines. Workers are recruited through a "labor airlift." Due to a labor shortage in the Middle Congo, 25 families a week are flown into the Mayumbe mountain area of the Middle Congo from Northern villages. Charles Denton, chief of the African division of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, recently came here for conversations with the French Equatorial Africa Mining Service.

Produce Firm Has Grand Opening

McBrides to Close Out Their Drug Business After 58 Years

McBride Drug Stores, Inc., is selling out its stock and will discontinue its business which was operated in this city by one family for more than 58 years, William A. McBride, Sr., announced today.

The corporation, which at one time operated three separate stores here, since 1937 has done business exclusively from its building at 634 Broadway, where Charles L. McBride started his first store in 1893.

The present proprietor stated today he has no set plans for the future. Whether the building will be leased or sold has not been decided, he said.

Charles L. McBride learned the pharmacist's profession working at the F. J. R. Clark Drug Store, located where Dedrick's Drug Store is now. He then became a pharmacist with Reynold's Drug Store in Plainfield, N. J. In 1893 he returned to his home town and opened his own business in its present building at what is now 634 Broadway. At that time Broadway was Union avenue and his labels bore the inscription, "Chas. L. McBride, Pharmacist, Union avenue, near O'Neil street."

Had Candy Business

The building at that location was in the McBride family even before the drug store was started. The founder's father, Bernard McBride, had conducted a candy and ice cream store at that location. There, he made his own old fashioned hard candy, cocoanut cakes and "haystacks." Bernard McBride, who had been superintendent of the Sunday school at the Clinton Avenue M.E. Church for 38 years, died in 1915.

Meanwhile, the retail drug business continued to grow, and in 1917 a branch store was opened at 323 Wall street, where Walter Reade's Kingston Theatre is located today. It was in that year that a son, William A. McBride, present proprietor, joined the business on his graduation from Columbia University with bachelor of science, graduate pharmacist and pharmacy chemist degrees. The first dollar, a large greenback, was spent at the branch store by Aaron Cohen on June 20, 1917.

In 1924, the McBride family took over the former Charles C. Ten Broeck store at 322 Wall street and opened a third store. This store they moved for a time to 43 North Front street, where it operated until 1932.

The other uptown branch continued in the theatre building until 1928, when it moved to 312 Wall street, a building the McBride corporation still owns and leases to the National Shoe Store operators. This store was discontinued as a drug store in 1937, and William McBride has concentrated since on the Broadway location.

Charles L. McBride died in 1933. Another son, F. Bernard McBride was also in the business until his death in 1925.

Charles McBride's wife, Henrietta, took an active part with her husband in conducting the business and when the firm was incorporated she became a stockholder along with her husband and son, William.

Among the founder's early jobs was the operation of the pharmacy at Grand Hotel at Highmount during the summer seasons in 1888 and 1889. Prior to his entrance into pharmacy, he was employed in the Ulster and Delaware Railroad freight department.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. McBride reside at 40 Janet street. They have one son, William A., Jr., in the U. S. Navy. For nine months he was in the Korean area on the U.S.S. Missouri, and presently plays solo trumpet with a unit band at the Philadelphia Navy Station.

Oil Man Says He Was Told General Would Be Nominee

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 18 (AP)—A member of the Republican National Finance Committee says Gen. Dwight Eisenhower told him last year "he would accept the presidential nomination if tendered."

Marrs McLean, San Antonio oil man and political leader, was quoted in a copyrighted story of the San Antonio Express today.

McLean said Eisenhower arranged a meeting in McLean's San Antonio office last year and the two discussed Eisenhower's chances as a presidential candidate in 1952.

"He told me," McLean said, "that he was a Republican and had been all his life and that he would accept the presidential nomination if tendered him. But he gave me the impression that he would not walk across the street to get the nomination."

"I told Eisenhower that I did not think the nomination would come his way without a fight," said McLean, who added that he always supported Sen. Robert A. Taft.

"I believe a majority of the Texas Republican organization is for Taft. I believe Eisenhower will drop out rather than engage in a knockdown, drag-out fight in the convention. Eisenhower is pictured as a winner if he gets the nomination, I don't think so. * * *"

McLean said he believed Taft would run a better race against President Truman than Eisenhower.

Two Are Voted Raises

Chicago, Oct. 18 (AP)—Two top officers of the AFL International Hod Carriers Building and Common Laborers Union were voted pay raises of $18,000 a year each yesterday. The salary boosts of more than 100 per cent were approved by delegates to the union's convention. The annual pay of Joseph V. Moreschi, Chicago, was increased from $12,000 to $30,000, and that of Peter Fosco, Chicago, secretary-treasurer, from $10,000 to $28,000 a year. Moreschi has been president of the union, which claims a membership of 400,000, since 1926.

Lethbridge, Alta. (AP)—It would take a lot of cream to do justice to the strawberry that Mrs. Halvorson picked in her garden at Coaldale. It weighed three-quarters of an ounce, and was 5⅜ inches in circumference.

Oil Man Says He Was Told General Would Be Nominee

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 18 (AP)—A member of the Republican National Finance Committee says Gen. Dwight Eisenhower told him last year "he would accept the presidential nomination if tendered."

Marrs McLean, San Antonio oil man and political leader, was quoted in a copyrighted story of the San Antonio Express today.

McLean said Eisenhower arranged a meeting in McLean's San Antonio office last year and the two discussed Eisenhower's chances as a presidential candidate in 1952.

"He told me," McLean said, "that he was a Republican and had been all his life and that he would accept the presidential nomination if tendered him. But he gave me the impression that he would not walk across the street to get the nomination."

"I told Eisenhower that I did not think the nomination would come his way without a fight," said McLean, who added that he always supported Sen. Robert A. Taft.

"I believe a majority of the Texas Republican organization is for Taft. I believe Eisenhower will drop out rather than engage in a knockdown, drag-out fight in the convention. Eisenhower is pictured as a winner if he gets the nomination, I don't think so. * * *"

McLean said he believed Taft would run a better race against President Truman than Eisenhower.

William Wadhams Is Named Speaker For Junior League

One of President Woodrow Wilson's liaison officers, who worked with him at the League of Nation, will speak here at the Governor Clinton Hotel Monday for the Kingston Junior League's guest meeting in honor of United Nations Week. Six years ago, on October 24, the United Nations' Charter, which had been drafted that year between April and June at the San Francisco Conference, was ratified by the majority of the attending nations, and the UN, as a working organization, officially came into existence.

The Junior League's guest, Judge William H. Wadhams of New York, is known as a speaker "of international note." His address will concern The International Peace Effort, and the UN.

Since his graduation from Harvard University, Judge Wadhams has devoted his life to public service. In 1907 he became a judge of the City Court of New York. Later he served for seven years as a judge of the Court of General Sessions of the State of New York, a position from which he resigned in 1921 to practice International Law abroad. He was in Berlin until 1925 and the next 15 years were spent in Paris. He is known for his broad experience, and for his affiliations with both civic and relief organizations throughout Europe and this country.

Art Exhibition At New Paltz College

The opening of the State University of New York art exhibition at the Teachers College in New Paltz, Sunday, October 14, was attended by well over 350 people. Tea was served by the faculty wives of the college under the chairmanship of Mrs. George W. Angell, Mrs. Donald S. Allen and Mrs. Alfred Maurice. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. John H. Jacobson, Mrs. Benjamin Karp, Mrs. John G. Vett, Jr., and Mrs. Larry Argiro.

Works in the exhibition represent the work of art faculties of colleges and institutes of the state University completed since 1948. About 120 pieces cover a wide diversity of subject, media, and techniques, including watercolor and oil paintings, drawings, prints, sculptures, ceramics, medical renderings, furniture, photographs and examples of the commercial arts.

The works will remain on display in the Student Union Building of the State Teachers College in New Paltz through Friday, October 27. Visitors are welcome any day between the hours of 8 a. m. and 10 p. m. Following its showing at New Paltz, the state university exhibition is scheduled to travel throughout the state for exhibit at various other units.

YMCA Youth Center To Sponsor Hayride

The YMCA's Friday Nighter Co-ed Club will meet tonight at the YM at 7 o'clock for a hayride to the Ashokan Reservoir. Trucks for the event are being supplied by Smith-Parish Roofing and Supply Co.

The group, which will return by 10 p. m., will be chaperoned by Clarence W. Corell of the YMCA Youth Center staff, Miss Kay Austin of the YWCA staff, and Miss Patricia Zimmerman.

Both Friday and Saturday night Youth Center dances have been cancelled this week, Mr. Corell announced, due to the football game Friday and Saturday's Harvest Moon Dance at the MJM School.

At a meeting of the Youth Center Committee Tuesday night, final plans, to be announced, were made for the Halloween party October 31.

Ulster County Historical Society Elects Officers

Mrs. W. S. Hasbrouck Chosen President Of History Group

Mrs. William S. Hasbrouck was elected president of the Ulster County Historical Society at a dinner meeting held last evening in the Crystal Room, Governor Clinton Hotel, when Carl Carmer, noted author, was the guest speaker. More than 125 persons were present to hear Mr. Carmer speak on "The American Fancy."

Election of officers took place during the business meeting following the dinner. The new officers include four vice presidents, William Schultz, Kingston, Mrs. Richard Thibaut, Woodstock, Louis Bevier, Woodstock, and Jay LeFevre, New Paltz; secretary, Mrs. Leroy Van Der Burgh, Stone Ridge; treasurer, Miss Sarah Lounsbery, Stone Ridge. Past President Lloyd LeFevre presided at the meeting.

In developing his topic, Mr. Carmer told his large group of interested listeners that in the early days in this country an effort was made to superimpose the culture of the Europeans upon the American people. This he claimed is borne out by the many castles which stand high on the banks overlooking the Hudson river. This was true, too, of the early poetry written in this country. In time, however, the early Americans began to develop a culture of their own. Mark Twain was a fine example of American thinking, he said.

It was a surprise to many to hear from Mr. Carmer that Kingston had been his birthplace. Later, his family moved farther north in New York state where he lived for many years on a farm. His present home is known to many of his neighbors as "The Octagonal House" in Irvington-on-Hudson where he writes his books, including "Hudson River" and "Stars Fell on Alabama."

The speaker developed the progress of all the arts in his talk and showed how little by little the European influence was practically obliterated, until today America has her own culture which is recognized throughout the world.

The speaker was presented to the audience by Mrs. Hollister Sturges, Stone Ridge, who was chairman of the entertainment committee.

Mrs. William Hasbrouck called upon the members to assist her during the coming year, and particularly with regard to the plans being made for the tea to be given at the Bevier House, Town of Marbletown, during the celebration of Kingston's 300th Anniversary. For the benefit of those not familiar with the work of the Ulster County Historical Society, Mrs. Hasbrouck gave a brief resume of their efforts to preserve items and places of historic importance to Ulster county.

Entertainment Planned

Plans for a tea to be followed by a gala evening of entertainment were made by the Women's group of the Congregation Agudas Achim during the first meeting of the season held Wednesday afternoon at the home of the chairman, Mrs. George Farber.

The event will take place in the vestry of the synagogue on Wednesday, November 14, at 7 p. m. and will include modern and folk dances, fashion shows, community sing, as well as the tea which will be served during the evening.

Committee members present at the meeting included Mesdames Robert Abelove, Samuel Barnovitz, Cople Barnovitz, Joseph Epstein, Harry Katzoff, Raphael Klein, Abe Mandel, Irving Meyers, Ben Werbalowsky, and Hyman B. Reher. Refreshments were served following the meeting, with Mrs. Irving Meyers and Mrs. Abe Mandel at the tea table.

One of President Woodrow Wilson's liaison officers, who worked with him at the League of Nation, will speak here at the Governor Clinton Hotel Monday for the Kingston Junior League's guest meeting in honor of United Nations Week. Six years ago, on October 24, the United Nations' Charter, which had been drafted that year between April and June at the San Francisco Conference, was ratified by the majority of the attending nations, and the UN, as a working organization, officially came into existence.

The Junior League's guest, Judge William H. Wadhams of New York, is known as a speaker "of international note." His address will concern The International Peace Effort, and the UN.

Since his graduation from Harvard University, Judge Wadhams has devoted his life to public service. In 1907 he became a judge of the City Court of New York. Later he served for seven years as a judge of the Court of General Sessions of the State of New York, a position from which he resigned in 1921 to practice International Law abroad. He was in Berlin until 1925 and the next 15 years were spent in Paris. He is known for his broad experience, and for his affiliations with both civic and relief organizations throughout Europe and this country.

Art Exhibition At New Paltz College

The opening of the State University of New York art exhibition at the Teachers College in New Paltz, Sunday, October 14, was attended by well over 350 people. Tea was served by the faculty wives of the college under the chairmanship of Mrs. George W. Angell, Mrs. Donald S. Allen and Mrs. Alfred Maurice. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. John H. Jacobson, Mrs. Benjamin Karp, Mrs. John G. Vett, Jr., and Mrs. Larry Argiro.

Works in the exhibition represent the work of art faculties of colleges and institutes of the state University completed since 1948. About 120 pieces cover a wide diversity of subject, media, and techniques, including watercolor and oil paintings, drawings, prints, sculptures, ceramics, medical renderings, furniture, photographs and examples of the commercial arts.

The works will remain on display in the Student Union Building of the State Teachers College in New Paltz through Friday, October 27. Visitors are welcome any day between the hours of 8 a. m. and 10 p. m. Following its showing at New Paltz, the state university exhibition is scheduled to travel throughout the state for exhibit at various other units.

YMCA Youth Center To Sponsor Hayride

The YMCA's Friday Nighter Co-ed Club will meet tonight at the YM at 7 o'clock for a hayride to the Ashokan Reservoir. Trucks for the event are being supplied by Smith-Parish Roofing and Supply Co.

The group, which will return by 10 p. m., will be chaperoned by Clarence W. Corell of the YMCA Youth Center staff, Miss Kay Austin of the YWCA staff, and Miss Patricia Zimmerman.

Both Friday and Saturday night Youth Center dances have been cancelled this week, Mr. Corell announced, due to the football game Friday and Saturday's Harvest Moon Dance at the MJM School.

At a meeting of the Youth Center Committee Tuesday night, final plans, to be announced, were made for the Halloween party October 31.

Ulster County Historical Society Elects Officers

Mrs. W. S. Hasbrouck Chosen President Of History Group

Mrs. William S. Hasbrouck was elected president of the Ulster County Historical Society at a dinner meeting held last evening in the Crystal Room, Governor Clinton Hotel, when Carl Carmer, noted author, was the guest speaker. More than 125 persons were present to hear Mr. Carmer speak on "The American Fancy."

Election of officers took place during the business meeting following the dinner. The new officers include four vice presidents, William Schultz, Kingston, Mrs. Richard Thibaut, Woodstock, Louis Bevier, Woodstock, and Jay LeFevre, New Paltz; secretary, Mrs. Leroy Van Der Burgh, Stone Ridge; treasurer, Miss Sarah Lounsbery, Stone Ridge. Past President Lloyd LeFevre presided at the meeting.

In developing his topic, Mr. Carmer told his large group of interested listeners that in the early days in this country an effort was made to superimpose the culture of the Europeans upon the American people. This he claimed is borne out by the many castles which stand high on the banks overlooking the Hudson river. This was true, too, of the early poetry written in this country. In time, however, the early Americans began to develop a culture of their own. Mark Twain was a fine example of American thinking, he said.

It was a surprise to many to hear from Mr. Carmer that Kingston had been his birthplace. Later, his family moved farther north in New York state where he lived for many years on a farm. His present home is known to many of his neighbors as "The Octagonal House" in Irvington-on-Hudson where he writes his books, including "Hudson River" and "Stars Fell on Alabama."

The speaker developed the progress of all the arts in his talk and showed how little by little the European influence was practically obliterated, until today America has her own culture which is recognized throughout the world.

The speaker was presented to the audience by Mrs. Hollister Sturges, Stone Ridge, who was chairman of the entertainment committee.

Mrs. William Hasbrouck called upon the members to assist her during the coming year, and particularly with regard to the plans being made for the tea to be given at the Bevier House, Town of Marbletown, during the celebration of Kingston's 300th Anniversary. For the benefit of those not familiar with the work of the Ulster County Historical Society, Mrs. Hasbrouck gave a brief resume of their efforts to preserve items and places of historic importance to Ulster county.

Entertainment Planned

Plans for a tea to be followed by a gala evening of entertainment were made by the Women's group of the Congregation Agudas Achim during the first meeting of the season held Wednesday afternoon at the home of the chairman, Mrs. George Farber.

The event will take place in the vestry of the synagogue on Wednesday, November 14, at 7 p. m. and will include modern and folk dances, fashion shows, community sing, as well as the tea which will be served during the evening.

Committee members present at the meeting included Mesdames Robert Abelove, Samuel Barnovitz, Cople Barnovitz, Joseph Epstein, Harry Katzoff, Raphael Klein, Abe Mandel, Irving Meyers, Ben Werbalowsky, and Hyman B. Reher. Refreshments were served following the meeting, with Mrs. Irving Meyers and Mrs. Abe Mandel at the table tea.

Health for All

Diabetes

All human ills are more easily treated when they are discovered early. That is why the advice that everyone have a medical examination including a chest X-ray at least once a year cannot be repeated too often. With such regular checkups, diseases such as tuberculosis and diabetes would be more frequently detected in an early stage.

It is estimated that hundreds of thousands of people in this country have undetected diabetes. And diabetes which is allowed to progress untreated can ruin a person's health and cause serious attacks of unconsciousness, or coma, any one of which may result in sudden death.

On the other hand, a diabetic under the care of a physician can keep his disease under control and give himself every chance of leading a long, useful life. Of course, medical treatment does not guarantee that a diabetic will never suffer from coma. But coma or unconsciousness need not take place if a patient is under the doctor's care and follows the doctor's orders.

Diabetes results when the gland known as the pancreas fails to perform its function properly. In a well person, the pancreas provides a substance called insulin which helps the body convert the sugar content of the diet into the warmth and energy necessary for the body's existence. With diabetes, however, the sugar goes into the bloodstream or leaves the body in urine. The abnormal loss of sugar makes the diabetic hungry and thirsty, but despite his appetite, he is usually underweight because the body cannot benefit fully from the food eaten.

Although some children have diabetes, the disease usually develops between the ages of 40 and 60. While many people lose a great deal of weight once diabetes takes hold, the disease seems to strike most frequently among the overweight.

Basic in the treatment of diabetes is a regulated diet and, where necessary, injections of insulin (taken from the pancreas of healthy animals). The doctor will also advise the diabetic to take his exercise in moderation, because the needs of the body must be kept in balance. Since the diabetic has less resistance against infection than a well person, he should avoid as far as possible cuts and abrasions, particularly about the feet where gangrene is likely to develop. In addition to danger of external infection, there are indications that diabetics may be more vulnerable to serious chronic illnesses like tuberculosis than those who have never had diabetes.

This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association, 74 John street.

Public Meeting to Be Held in West Park

Residents of Esopus township are invited to attend a meeting on Saturday, October 20, at 7:30 p. m., in the home of Miss Hilda Smith, Route 9W at the crossroads to the West Park railroad station. The purpose of the meeting is to discuss the advisability of accepting an offer on the part of Miss Smith, of a river dock located on her property in West Park as a location for a recreation area for the residents where they might swim, fish and hold picnics.

Second Victim

I was in a frenzy; I beat them down," the sheriff quoted Lennander as saying. "Whipping is needed for wrong-doing and almost always a person who gets it admits it. It drives out the devil."

Dr. A. M. Lundholm, deputy coroner, said an autopsy showed all of Mrs. Halvorson's right ribs were broken as well as one on the left side, and her breastbone. He said her body was covered with welts and blood clots.

Gibbons said Lennander used a 3-foot whip to beat his wife and Mrs. Halvorson at the Monday night meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Doyle in suburban Lauderdale. About a dozen members of the cult were present. Mrs. Doyle, a daughter of the dead woman, is held as a material witness.

Gibbons said he asked Mrs. Doyle, "How could you stand by and see your mother beaten to death, didn't you do anything about it?" He said she replied:

"No, why should I?"

Gibbons said that after Mrs. Halvorson ceased to move, Doyle stopped Lennander from beating her further. Doyle then obtained a length of hose from the basement and whipped Lennander, whose body is also covered with welts.

The coroner said Mrs. Halvorson had been dead at least 24 hours when a private physician was summoned to the Doyle home yesterday. Mrs. Lennander, near loss of consciousness, was discovered at the same time and rushed to the hospital.

Mrs. Elizabeth Halvorson, sister-in-law of the dead woman, said:

"We're not a church group, not an organization at all, really, and there is no prayer at our gatherings. We just get together, a bunch of relatives and friends, looking for answers for problems so we can face life."

Pleas Are Considered

Zurich, Switzerland, Oct. 18 (AP)—The Swiss Department of Justice considered today political asylum pleas from two Yugoslav airline pilots who turned their plane—and 22 passengers—off an internal Yugoslav route and fled to Switzerland. The pilots asked refuge for their families, who were aboard the plane.

They landed at Zurich airport yesterday. Swiss Police reported one pilot said they could no longer endure "the Communist terror regime in Yugoslavia." Three other members of the plane crew and all its passengers except the pilots' families said they wanted to return to Yugoslavia. A new pilot was flown in to take them and the fugitive plane home.

Rumba King's Full Show Coming Here For Ahavath Ball

Every fall as the leaves turn, Herman G. Rafalowsky's locks get a bit grayer, but in his case it's not due to the change of seasons.

As chairman of Congregation Ahavath Israel, the uptown clothier assumes the assignment of promoting a bigger and better Thanksgiving Eve ball for the synagogue and non-sectarian charities.

He's been at it for 14 years and just can't quit. He has decided to many times, but the congregation drafts him. And, he might as well try refusing a ticket from a traffic cop as to say no.

So the "little giant," whose hobby is selecting bands and shows, is off again, this time with Xavier Cugat.

In his time, Rafalowsky has signed some of the biggest name bands, and there's always a Thanksgiving Eve crowd at the municipal auditorium. And with them he ties in shows that have earned him the reputation of being the best connoisseur of entertainment outside the field of professional bookers.

Agents agree it's a pleasure to deal with him as far as prices go, but admit they get the jitters when he makes his demands for talent. They know what he'll say, "Nothing but the top-notchers for Kingston."

Rafalowsky breathed easier after he had Cugat's name on a contract, but there was no relaxing—he had a show to book. He's working on it, now.

Coming with the King of the Rumba is Abbe Lane, the Latin Bombshell, and the rest of Cugie's own show: The Barrancos, world's greatest mambo team; Dulcina, who sings and dances South American style; El Gringo, tambourine virtuoso; Otto Bolivar with his Afro-Cuban songs and George Lopez, Datin trumpet virtuoso.

Cugat and his ensemble have been featured in movies, as recording artists and on radio shows like Spotlight Bands, Camel Show, Dubonnet Wine Show, Fitch Bandwagon, Show of the Week and others.

General chairmen of such affairs usually have to worry about the sale of tickets, but not Rafalowsky. When he takes over, it's the patrons who go into a dither. And, this year the demand is expected to begin immediately, assuring a record turnout Thanksgiving Eve at the municipal auditorium.

instructions. One veteran in this school, which Hoover did not specifically identify, was recruited in a Miami bar and became a "student," Hoover said.

He never attended classes, never received a book, and did not know the school's location, Hoover said.

Second Victim

I was in a frenzy; I beat them down," the sheriff quoted Lennander as saying. "Whipping is needed for wrong-doing and almost always a person who gets it admits it. It drives out the devil."

Dr. A. M. Lundholm, deputy coroner, said an autopsy showed all of Mrs. Halvorson's right ribs were broken as well as one on the left side, and her breastbone. He said her body was covered with welts and blood clots.

Gibbons said Lennander used a 3-foot whip to beat his wife and Mrs. Halvorson at the Monday night meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Doyle in suburban Lauderdale. About a dozen members of the cult were present. Mrs. Doyle, a daughter of the dead woman, is held as a material witness.

Gibbons said he asked Mrs. Doyle, "How could you stand by and see your mother beaten to death, didn't you do anything about it?" He said she replied:

"No, why should I?"

Gibbons said that after Mrs. Halvorson ceased to move, Doyle stopped Lennander from beating her further. Doyle then obtained a length of hose from the basement and whipped Lennander, whose body is also covered with welts.

The coroner said Mrs. Halvorson had been dead at least 24 hours when a private physician was summoned to the Doyle home yesterday. Mrs. Lennander, near loss of consciousness, was discovered at the same time and rushed to the hospital.

Mrs. Elizabeth Halvorson, sister-in-law of the dead woman, said:

"We're not a church group, not an organization at all, really, and there is no prayer at our gatherings. We just get together, a bunch of relatives and friends, looking for answers for problems so we can face life."

Pleas Are Considered

Zurich, Switzerland, Oct. 18 (AP)—The Swiss Department of Justice considered today political asylum pleas from two Yugoslav airline pilots who turned their plane—and 22 passengers—off an internal Yugoslav route and fled to Switzerland. The pilots asked refuge for their families, who were aboard the plane.

They landed at Zurich airport yesterday. Swiss Police reported one pilot said they could no longer endure "the Communist terror regime in Yugoslavia." Three other members of the plane crew and all its passengers except the pilots' families said they wanted to return to Yugoslavia. A new pilot was flown in to take them and the fugitive plane home.

Geary Chosen Again for Post

John S. Geary of Wawarsing was re-elected chairman of the Ulster County Production and Marketing Administration committee at the county convention held in Kingston on Monday.

Edward M. Wood, Milton, was elected vice-chairman. The third committee member elected was Valentine Garrison, Wallkill. Alternates elected were Stanley Osterhoudt and Philip L. DiStasi.

The committeemen, elected by delegates from each farming community in the county, will administer the 1952 agricultural conservation program, price support operations and the apple purchase program.

Little Rhode Island had 20,000 milch cows on its farms during 1949.

Forest fires destroy about 300,000,000 cubic feet of timber in the southern United States each year.

Petticoats for Quick-Change Fashions

These are the versatile petticoats that are worn on the outside this year. Black velvet pants (left) are topped by a Chinese silk flower-printed gold cloth circle skirt. Matador pants in red wool jersey (above) come to the knee, are worn with plaid petticoat that opens down the front. Sweater slip in green wool jersey (right) is full length, is worn with striped petticoat.

New York — (NEA)—Stretching a wardrobe, with the aid of the new petticoats designed to be worn outside, is easy as pie. A single petticoat can be transferred from leotards to sheath dress or a single sheath dress can change its appearance with each new petticoat.

The advantages, then, are obvious. Several of these petticoats will work such magic that not even other women will guess that you're employing just one or two basic costumes.

Black velvet, when it's seamed into leotards, takes readily to a petticoat. Designed for speed in donning, the leotards are sleeveless, have a zippered fastening that makes it possible to get into them and petticoat as well in just 60 seconds. Petticoat is a Chinese silk flower-printed gold cloth circle skirt.

Leotards in red wool jersey are cut like a sweater, zippered down the back, terminate just below the knee. Sleeves have a full and easy cut, are worn shoved up above the elbow. The petticoat is red, blue and white plaid. It opens down the front and is lined with blue taffeta.

For the girl with petticoat fever, a very useful investment would be a sweater slip in wool jersey. Cut straight up and down and sleeveless, it has a sweater neck. It's done in green, among other colors, and is worn with a bright red, white and green striped petticoat. But the color choices are up to the wearer, to be mixed as basic ingredients in a petticoat wardrobe.

Hoshona Rabba, Sunday, Oct. 21: Service at the synagogue at 8 a. m. Sunday school at 10 a. m.

Eighth day of Succoth: Sunday evening service at 5 p. m. and Monday morning at 9. Rabbi Weinberg will preach at the Monday morning service at 10:30 on Yiskor for the Living. Yiskor memorial service at 11 a. m.

Simchas Torah: Gala affair at synagogue Monday at 5 p. m. Tuesday services at 9 a. m. and 5:15 p. m.

Temple Emanuel

Services will be held in Temple Emanuel on Friday evening at 7:45. Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom will preach on the theme, Jewish Practice and Daily Living—Is There Any Relationship?

Youth services are held on Saturday at 10 a. m. There will be no Sunday school this week. A children's and adults' service will be held on Sunday evening at 7:45 in the Temple. All the young people are expected to be present. A service of rejoicing will be held.

On Monday morning, Oct. 22, a final Succoth service with memorial prayers will be held at 10 o'clock in the temple. Rabbi Bloom and Cantor Bornstein will officiate.

Tonight there will be a Men's Club meeting in the temple at 8 o'clock.

Rabbi and Mrs. Bloom will hold open house in their Succah (Booth) on Sunday, Oct. 21, from 2 to 6 p. m.

Fall Bible Parley

A fall Bible conference will be held at the Gospel Tabernacle, 124 Canal street, Ellenville, Wednesday, Oct. 24, starting at 2:30 p. m. The speakers will be the Rev. Charles Hess, a missionary to Africa; and the Rev. Montreville Seely of Saugerties. Song services are planned for 2:30 p. m. and again at 7:30 p. m. The public is invited to both services as well as a covered dish supper starting at 6:30 p. m.

Sour Note

Montreal (AP)—A speaker at the Notre Dame Community Council, discussing the train whistle nuisance, said some residents of the district suspect that some of the "unnecessary tooting" may simply be signals such as one train engineer telling a pal down the line that he won $10 in the poker game the night before. He said they communicated by a sort of Morse code.

THE FAMILY'S OWN CHILDREN

A reader asks: "Please tell us what you think about my sister's plans to exclude her sister and brother's children (ages: 5, 7 and 8) at her wedding reception? We have always been a close family and the children are thrilled about the wedding. As the reception will be very small—about 30 relatives and as many family friends—we do not see that the children would be out of place. Her reasoning, however, is that young children do not belong at a reception and always cause trouble and if she invites these three then all the others will feel they should come, too."

It is an unbreakable rule that children of the immediate families are never barred from weddings. In fact they are a part of the accepted picture, and their presence does not mean that other children should have been invited.

Fingers Instead of Forks

Dear Mrs. Post: Can you give any advice, or comfort, to a wife whose husband persists in taking chicken up in his fingers and says "he doesn't care who sees him do it"? Recently he did this in a restaurant when people who were present who are supposed to be social leaders, and pretty soon that husband followed suit. I'm getting where these things no longer embarrass me because so many people seem to be happier using their fingers.

Answer: All right at a picnic supper, but impossible at dinner table!

Wearing Rings Matter of Choice

Dear Mrs. Post: Are divorced women supposed to wear their marriage rings on the right hand after divorce the way a widow does here?

Answer: Widows or divorced women do this only when they wish people to know that they have no husband.

Carve at Table

Dear Mrs. Post: Since my husband refuses to learn to carve would it be better for me to do the carving in the kitchen rather than at the dining table?

Answer: At the table is certainly more practical.

Events Scheduled For Ulster County CYO Observance

Several special events have been planned locally by the Catholic Youth Organization of Ulster county to help commemorate National CYO Week from October 21 to October 28, it was announced today.

The local observance will start with a religious demonstration at St. Mary's Church, Sunday at 3:30 p. m. A big dance program has been planned for Thursday, Oct. 25, at 7:30 p. m. for all Catholic teen-age youth at St. Joseph's Church.

Closing out the array of events will be an invitation cross country meet at the municipal stadium Sunday, Oct 28, starting at 2:30 p. m. A special invitation has been extended to all non-Catholic groups to participate in the track event.

Francis Cardinal Spellman will inaugurate CYO Week, which will be held for the first time in the United States, with a national radia broadcast over WCBS Sunday at 1:15 p. m. Cardinal Spellman's broadcast will be made from the stage of the Cardinal Hayes High School auditorium with boys and girls representing parishes throughout the diocese. Following the broadcast, a reception is planned at the high school.

An appeal is being made to the youth of the diocese to join in communion crusade during the week for a special intention, For the Enslaved Youth in Iron Curtain Countries.

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk will issue a proclamation of CYO Week for Kingston.

BEWITCH HALLOWEEN GUESTS

PLAN A "BEWITCHMENT PARTY" for Hallowe'en with a soft-drink cauldron and hobgoblin apples.

By GAYNOR MADDOX
NEA Food and Markets Editor

On Halloween, witches, spooks and small fry must have their fun. So give a "Bewitchment Party."

Let the menu include Hobgoblin Apples, Hot Dog Ghosts, Spook sandwiches, Doughnuts, and a Soft Drink Magic Cauldron that never dries up.

Hobgoblin Apples

Allow one large apple for each guest. Cut off top, remove core, and hollow out apple, leaving shell about ½ inch thick. Chop portion of apple removed, combine with raisins or small seedless grapes, walnut meats and mayonnaise.

With small sharp knife, draw triangular eyes, nose, and a half-moon mouth on side of apple cutting deeply enough so that peel can be removed. Replace peel with cream cheese. Stuff apple with chopped fruit and nut mixture, and replace top as hat.

Magic Cauldron

Use a large preserving kettle or a pail for the cauldron. If desired, cover with orange or dark green crepe paper. Make three "logs" of rolled newspaper and cover with brown crepe paper. Arrange logs in a triangle. Place a low dish upside down in center, on which cauldron can actually rest.

Fill cauldron with bottles of soft drinks, and surround with ice cubes or cracked ice. If bottles are well-chilled in advance, ice can be omitted and cauldron can be stuffed with just enough tissue paper to hold bottles in place. Against side of Magic Cauldron, stand a small "witches broom" (you can make one by attaching a rolled paper handle to a clean whisk broom). Have extra bottles of soft drinks in refrigerator so that cauldron can be kept full.

Spook Sandwiches

Cut rounds from slices of bread with cookie cutter. Cut eyes, nose and mouth in half the rounds using small sharp pointed scissors. Spread remaining rounds of bread with softened butter and jelly, and top with "face."

TOMORROW'S MENU

BREAKFAST: Sliced bananas, ready-to-eat cereal, whole-wheat toast, butter or fortified margarine, marmalade, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Creamed tuna, and peas on toast, whole-wheat bread, butter or fortified margarine, canned grapefruit sections, tea, milk.

Three Trails Cleared

Albany, Oct. 18 (AP) — Forest rangers have cleared three Adirondack trails of trees felled in last fall's big blow. The woodland routes, opened for the first time since the Nov. 25 storm, were: Part of the Northville-Lake Placid trail between Piseco and Indian Lake, the trail from Perkins Clearing to Cedar Lake via Pillsbury Lake and the trail from Pillsbury Lake to West Canada Lake.

Sharkey Resigns Job

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—Acting Mayor Joseph T. Sharkey, Democratic candidate for City Council president, resigned his $7,500-a-year job with a contracting firm yesterday. He maintained, however, that under the city charter he had the right "to have and to hold" the job as salesman for the General Builders Supply Company. Rudolph Halley, candidate of the Liberal, Independent, and city fusion parties, has charged that the company did business with the city and that it was illegal for Sharkey to hold the job while serving as mayor in the absence of Mayor Vincent R. Impellitteri, who is in Europe. Sharkey said: "I resigned the position immediately upon ascertaining that my company had done $100 of business (with the city) in a two-year period."

Letter Necessary To Get Regular Veterans' Help

Helpless veterans who may be entitled to the new increased pension rate of $120 per month when they need the regular aid and attendance of another person will have to apply by letter to receive it, Veterans Administration said today.

There will be no automatic review of cases now on the pension rolls to determine whether they qualify for the increase from the present rates of $60 and $72 per month, V.A. said.

The new rate results from Public Law 149, 82nd Congress, and becomes effective November 1, 1951 for claims filed prior to that date. Where claim is filed after that date, the award becomes effective as of the date of filing.

Pension is payable to war veterans, subject to certain limitations, who become permanently and totally disabled from causes not due to service. The basic rate is $60, which is increased to $72 after ten years of continuous receipt or when the veteran reaches age 65.

The new $120 rate is not applicable during periods when the veteran is being hospitalized or furnished domiciliary care by V.A.

Threatened Her, She Says

Los Angeles, Oct. 18 (AP)—Actress Kay Williams says her estranged husband, Adolph Spreckels, 2nd, threatened last month to "throw bombs at the house and smoke me out." She asked Superior Court yesterday to cite the sugar heir for violation of an order restraining him from molesting her. Miss Williams is living in Spreckels' Bel-Air home pending trial of her divorce suit.

Reds Leave . . .

forces out of the once bustling road junction.

South of the city Chinese resistance stiffened against attacking allied infantrymen. UN troops captured two key hills south and southwest of Kumsong and inched forward against Reds on a ridge blocking their way to the town.

Gains Punched Out

A front line dispatch reported at least 200 Chinese were killed trying to escape from a trap on encircled Fortress Mountain. "Many" others were killed in their bunkers.

In rugged mountains to the east allied infantrymen attacked a towering, craggy peak. Their morning assault was unsuccessful.

500 Reds Killed

The navy reported the battleship New Jersey, flagship of the Seventh Fleet, killed more than 500 Reds Wednesday while supporting allied troops. The battleship sent 150 tons of high explosives hurtling from its big guns against Red concentrations 18 miles inland.

A belated naval report told of a brief battle Tuesday between Red shore guns at the east coast port of Wonsan and besieging warships. Before the Red artillery was silenced, six large caliber salvoes straddled the U. S. destroyer Stormes. The navy made no mention of damage to the destroyer.

Twenty-two B-29 Superforts rained their big bomb loads on three Red air fields and two other North Korean targets Thursday. The air force said Red jets made no attempt to challenge them.

A big C-124 Globemaster carried 165 wounded men from Korea to Japan today. It was the largest number of wounded ever carried on a single flight. With the 35 crew members, nurses, and medical technicians the plane had a total of 200 aboard, another record for Korea-Japan flights.

Wounded of Many Nations

The wounded were American, French, Belgian, Turkish, Canadian, British, Greek, Colombian and Puerto Rican.

The air forces reported 1,040 sorties were flown Wednesday, "with fight-bombers continuing a relentless campaign against main Red supply routes in northern Korea."

The Fifth Air Force sent Mustangs and Marine Corsairs on 110 flights in support of front line troops. They rocketed, firebombed and strafed the Reds.

Kumsong is the last really important road and rail town held by the Communists on the central front. Allied guns are so close to the town that it now is useless to the Reds except as a small-unit supply point.

UN forces are in position to train their mortars on Kumsong or fire into the city with long range rifles.

If the allies move into the city, it would be the first town they have taken since June. At that time they took Chorwon and Kumhwa, southern anchors of the Reds' iron triangle.

Moscow Rebuffs

political considerations to be left for the future.

2. The foreign minister wound up his 2,000-word statement by saying Russia "agrees to examine with the participation of the government of the U.S.A. all important and unsettled questions and to discuss measures for the improvement of international relations, including relations between the Soviet Union and the U.S.A."

Speculation Arises

Some authorities speculated this referred to the announcement last month by Acheson and the British and French foreign ministers rather than to anything Kirk said. This was that the western powers held to the view that a peaceful settlement of east-west issues is possible. And that the meeting of the United Nations General Assembly at Paris next month would afford an opportunity for discussions.

Kirk's approach was made with the advance knowledge of Britain and France and of Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, the UN commander, officials said. It was decided on as a means of taking the Kremlin's temperature because Kirk was preparing to leave Moscow before retiring as ambassador, and could talk with Vishinsky in a farewell call.

Because the Kremlin took advantage of a similar confidential approach made by former Ambassador Walter Bedell Smith when he left Moscow in 1948, the State Department was wary. It had ready for publication — in case Russia broke the confidence — its version of what Kirk said orally, and the reply Vishinsky turned over last Monday to Hugh S. Cumming, Jr., in charge of the embassy since Kirk departed. When the Moscow radio started broadcasting Vishinsky's statement last night the department quickly made public the entire exchange.

Not Following Understanding

Kirk complained to Vishinsky that the North Korean and Chinese negotiators were not following the understanding he received from Acting Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko last June that Russia favored an armistice on a military basis alone.

This referred mainly to the Communist insistence that the truce line be established along the 38th Parallel instead of the existing military line as demanded by the UN negotiators. If the Communists sincerely want an armistice, he said, they would agree to a "reasonable" truce line affording safety to both sides, permit inspection to assure compliance, and provide for satisfactory disposition of war prisoners.

Then he went on to assure Vishinsky that the west is rearming "for defense and defense alone."

In conclusion Kirk said the U. S. hoped that an armistice can be worked out and that "the Soviet government will act to that end."

Vishinsky's response was to pin the blame for the Korean war and for the deadlock of armistice talks on the U. S.

Congress Leaders

Desires 10 Billions

The President also said he thinks there should be a $10,000,000,000 tax increase. This is the amount he has asked all along.

The senators and House members who have the job of clearing up the present muddle on tax legislation appeared to be hopeful of an early solution.

Although surface indications of any agreement were lacking, the peacemakers seemed cautiously optimistic of working out a measure mutually acceptable to the Senate and to the Republican-northern Democrat combination that trounced the original $5,732,000,000 compromise tax bill in the House Tuesday.

The conferees were called back into session at 10 a. m. after an exploratory meeting yesterday which produced no tangible results.

Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts told the House after that meeting "it is hoped" that a new compromise will be ready by Friday. If that happens, and if prompt Senate and House approval are forthcoming, adjournment would still be possible on Saturday, as originally planned.

UN Officers . . .

tility or armed force. The Reds say they are.

Communists apparently have abandoned their stand that the ground rules be settled by the full truce delegations. They are going along with the UN plan to settle these conditions on a liaison level with the truce negotiators later ratifying major points.

Nuckols said the Reds have indicated a willingness to accept the liaison agreement for the duration of truce talks.

Other points at issue included such things as definition of "partisans or irregulars" who could cause incidents in security areas but are not under official control of either side. These points are included in "mutual understandings," to which Chang referred when he saw "very little difference between us."

forces out of the once bustling road junction.

Gains Punched Out

Three allied divisions punched out gains of a quarter to three-quarters of a mile in the heaviest action of the week-old offensive.

A front line dispatch reported at least 200 Chinese were killed trying to escape from a trap on encircled Fortress Mountain. "Many" others were killed in their bunkers.

American and South Korean troops advancing along a 22 mile front toward Kumsong were within three miles of the town.

In rugged mountains to the east allied infantrymen attacked a towering, craggy peak. Their morning assault was unsuccessful.

500 Reds Killed

The navy reported the battleship New Jersey, flagship of the Seventh Fleet, killed more than 500 Reds Wednesday while supporting allied troops. The battleship sent 150 tons of high explosives hurtling from its big guns against Red concentrations 18 miles inland.

Ex-Major, Minor Leaguers to Face Berra-Rizzuto Here Sunday

Gorman, Yankee Pitching Prospect With Cuccinello

Mickey Witek Also Is Scheduled to Play

Ex-major and minor league players will be featured in the lineup of Al Cuccinello's All Stars (Bushwicks) when they meet the Yogi-Berra-Phil Ruzzuto All Stars at municipal stadium Sunday at 2:05 p. m., Fred Davi announced this morning.

Sunday's contest is being sponsored by Davi and Cordts Hose. In addition to a power-packed Cuccinello combine, the Berra-Rizzuto team will be highlighted by a flock of .300 hitters mostly from the Eastern League.

Cuccinello will have three sturdy pitchers available for duty Sunday including Tom Gorman of Beaumont of the Texas League who was recently recalled by the Yankees. Others on the mound staff are Andy Pane of Oklahoma City and Pete Rafferty.

Gorman, a righthander, has been a member of the Yankee farm system since 1946, won 12 and lost eight with Beaumont this year. In the process, he established a Texas League record by pitching 42 consecutive scoreless innings. Gorman, no relation to the Tommy Gorman formerly with the Giants, is from Valley Stream, L. I.

Witek in Lineup

Mickey Witek, war-time second sacker for Mel Ott's Giants, will be with Cuccinello's club Sunday and appearing at the keystone slot.

The rest of the infield will be Jack DiGrace of Trenton at first, Cuccinello at third and Gar Del Savio, formerly of the Cincinnati Reds, at short.

In the outfield will be Johnny Simmons, of the Dodgers and Senators, in left; Mike Overduke, Scranton, in center and Danny Gardella, war-time Giant player, in right.

Tony DePhillips, a landmark for the famous Bushwicks, will be back of the plate again Sunday for Cuccinello's club. George Cheverko, who was a star receiver at Fordham University during his college days, also will be available for catching duties Sunday.

The roster for the Berra-Rizzuto club already has been released for Sunday's game and judging from the list of top-notch stars on both squads there should be a lot of good baseball at the stadium.

Betting Sets Mark

Saratoga Springs, Oct. 18 (AP)—A total of 75,441 harness racing fans wagered a record-breaking $2,706,713 at Saratoga Raceway's fall meeting. The average of $100,248 for the 27 racing nights also represented a new record. Three programs were rained out during the season that ended Saturday. The new figures, released yesterday by the sponsoring Orange County Driving Association, rubbed out marks set in 1948 when a total pari-mutuel handle of $2,633,136 and an average of $94,040 were recorded in 28 racing nights.

Ready for Tour

Tokyo, Oct. 18 (AP)—Joe DiMaggio goes up against Giant pitching again Saturday — the Yomiuri Giants. The Yankee Clipper and other American baseball stars open their 15-game tour of Japan against the champion of Japan's professional leagues. The Americans took it easy today with a light workout. Both DiMaggio and Lefty O'Doul, manager of the All-Stars, were here last year on a visit to military installations in Japan and Korea.

Stick to Your Painting, Boys

Ine one of those bowling matches in which the men are alway sticking out their chins (to the ladies, of course), a band of inspired Canfield Supply Company keglerettes convinced a group of Shults Paint male employes that as bowlers they make good paint salesmen.

To heap further ignominy on tne stronger sex (?), the gals won two of the three sets without the aid of the handicap to which the males had gratuitously consented.

With Dottie Bell socking 463 in the anchor slot, the Canfield lassies totaled 2074 on games of 745, 640 and 689. The painters who were caught with their brushes down managed a feeble 1970. Their big gun was R. Phillips with 409.

A return match? Anytime, say the gals.

Home TV Is Planned For Louis-Marciano

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—The Joe Louis-Rocky Marciano fight will be seen on home television Oct. 26—with seven TV manufacturers and the Gillete Safety Razor Company footing the bill.

The fight will be telecast coast-to-coast over the National Broadcasting Company network.

The sponsorship, disclosed yesterday, will be the second time that TV manufacturers have united to assure home viewers a seat at a top sports event.

Otherwise, the fight might have been seen only on theatre TV screens.

It was reported unofficially that the seven TV makers and Gillette paid more than $100,000 for the TV rights.

Caldwell Experiments

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 18 (AP)—Head Football Coach Charlie Caldwell experimented yesterday with possible Princeton line-up shifts for Saturday's game with Lafayette. He moved reserve offensive players Joe Masi of Greenwich, Conn., a passing quarterback, and Ned Janotta of Kenilworth, Ill., sub for All-American Dick Kazmaier at half, into the defensive secondary. The squad was restored to virtually full strength with return of offensive ends John Emery of Montclair and Len Lyons of Bronxville, N. Y., to duty.

Bears, Arkansas, Maryland Tabbed As Winners in Saturday's Big Games

String of Upsets Makes Picking Rough

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—Four weeks of upsets have convinced most gridiron followers that footballs, and football forecasters, are made of some animal, some vegetable and many minerals such as can be found in the air.

With that warning, here are this week's winners:

California over Southern California: Southern California engineered one minor miracle by beating Washington. It is asking too much of them to repeat the event against a team that includes both Les Richter and John Olszewski.

Tennessee over Alabama: On Sept. 1 there was every indication that this would be the game of the year. But it has lost a lot of its luster because Alabama has dropped its last three games. Too much Hank Lauricella.

Spartans Will Need TDs

Michigan State over Penn State: The Spartans have won their last two with fourth quarter scoring outbursts. They had better have an outburst per quarter against Penn State.

Arkansas over Texas: This selection definitely is against all the odds but the choice is made in the belief that Arkansas is hopped up for this contest.

Georgia Tech over Auburn: The biggest surprise here is that both clubs go into this one undefeated, Auburn having lost 10 straight last year.

Texas A & M over Texas Christian: Fullback Bobby Smith makes the difference.

Maryland over North Carolina: Few teams in the country have the all-around talent of Maryland.

Illinois over Washington: Johnny Karas and Don Stevens give the unbeaten Illini too much punch for Washington, still without its great Don Heinrich.

Princeton over LaFayette: The nation's longest current winning streak moves to No. 17.

Baylor over Texas Tech: Too much Isbell.

Friday Night

Boston College over Detroit, College of Pacific over Boston University, Miami over Washington and Lee, The Citadel over Furman, Wake Forest over George Washington, Xavier over Louisville.

Saturday

Army over Harvard, Brown over Colgate, Cornell over Yale, Holy Cross over New York University, Penn over Columbia, Rutgers over Lehigh, San Francisco over Fordham, Syracuse over Dartmouth, Temple over Delaware.

South: Davidson over Richmond, Duke over Virginia Tech, Kentucky over Villanova, Louisiana State over Georgia, Mississippi over Tulane, North Carolina State over William & Mary, Vanderbilt over Florida, Virginia over Virginia Military.

Midwest: Bradley over New Mexico A & M, Cincinnati over Western Reserve, Colorado over Kansas State, Iowa State over Missouri, Iowa over Michigan, Minnesota over Nebraska, Northwestern over Navy, Notre Dame over Pittsburgh, Ohio State over Indiana, Oklahoma A & M over Drake, Oklahoma over Kansas, Tulsa over Marquette, Wisconsin over Purdue.

Southwest: Houston over Hardin-Simmons, Texas Western over New Mexico.

Far West: Denver over Utah, Idaho over San Jose State, Oregon State over Washington State, Stanford over Santa Clara, UCLA over Oregon, Wyoming over Brigham Young.

Red Sox Renew Oneonta Pact

The Oneonta Red Sox are ready—if the Canadian-American League decides to operate in 1952.

Officials of the Can-Am club announced yesterday that the parent Boston Red Sox have agreed to extend the working agreement between the teams for another season.

Details of the transaction were not disclosed. Oneonta officials said merely that it was "the same as in 1951."

The Oneonta announcement leaves the Can-Am League with one up and five to go . . . maybe seven.

Stengel's Wife Favors Casey's Return to Yanks

Los Angeles, Oct. 18 (AP)—If Mrs. Casey Stengel has her way, the manager of the New York Yankees will stay in baseball next year and try to make it four world championships in a row.

"Casey hasn' t conferred with the Yankee officials yet about his future plans," Mrs. Stengel said yesterday in an interview, "but I feel he wants to continue in baseball and this is the first time I agree with him.

"For the last 10 years I've urged Casey, even threatened him, to quit baseball. He has everything he wants and baseball can never bring him the financial satisfaction he can realize in other, less demanding fields. But now I think he owes it to baseball to go on. Baseball needs him more than I do."

Ex-Major, Minor Leaguers to Face Berra-Rizzuto Here Sunday

Gorman, Yankee Pitching Prospect With Cuccinello

Mickey Witek Also Is Scheduled to Play

Ex-major and minor league players will be featured in the lineup of Al Cuccinello's All Stars (Bushwicks) when they meet the Yogi-Berra-Phil Ruzzuto All Stars at municipal stadium Sunday at 2:05 p. m., Fred Davi announced this morning.

Sunday's contest is being sponsored by Davi and Cordts Hose. In addition to a power-packed Cuccinello combine, the Berra-Rizzuto team will be highlighted by a flock of .300 hitters mostly from the Eastern League.

Cuccinello will have three sturdy pitchers available for duty Sunday including Tom Gorman of Beaumont of the Texas League who was recently recalled by the Yankees. Others on the mound staff are Andy Pane of Oklahoma City and Pete Rafferty.

Gorman, a righthander, has been a member of the Yankee farm system since 1946, won 12 and lost eight with Beaumont this year. In the process, he established a Texas League record by pitching 42 consecutive scoreless innings. Gorman, no relation to the Tommy Gorman formerly with the Giants, is from Valley Stream, L. I.

Witek in Lineup

Mickey Witek, war-time second sacker for Mel Ott's Giants, will be with Cuccinello's club Sunday and appearing at the keystone slot.

The rest of the infield will be Jack DiGrace of Trenton at first, Cuccinello at third and Gar Del Savio, formerly of the Cincinnati Reds, at short.

In the outfield will be Johnny Simmons, of the Dodgers and Senators, in left; Mike Overduke, Scranton, in center and Danny Gardella, war-time Giant player, in right.

Tony DePhillips, a landmark for the famous Bushwicks, will be back of the plate again Sunday for Cuccinello's club. George Cheverko, who was a star receiver at Fordham University during his college days, also will be available for catching duties Sunday.

The roster for the Berra-Rizzuto club already has been released for Sunday's game and judging from the list of top-notch stars on both squads there should be a lot of good baseball at the stadium.

Betting Sets Mark

Saratoga Springs, Oct. 18 (AP)—A total of 75,441 harness racing fans wagered a record-breaking $2,706,713 at Saratoga Raceway's fall meeting. The average of $100,248 for the 27 racing nights also represented a new record. Three programs were rained out during the season that ended Saturday. The new figures, released yesterday by the sponsoring Orange County Driving Association, rubbed out marks set in 1948 when a total pari-mutuel handle of $2,633,136 and an average of $94,040 were recorded in 28 racing nights.

Ready for Tour

Tokyo, Oct. 18 (AP)—Joe DiMaggio goes up against Giant pitching again Saturday — the Yomiuri Giants. The Yankee Clipper and other American baseball stars open their 15-game tour of Japan against the champion of Japan's professional leagues. The Americans took it easy today with a light workout. Both DiMaggio and Lefty O'Doul, manager of the All-Stars, were here last year on a visit to military installations in Japan and Korea.

Stick to Your Painting, Boys

Ine one of those bowling matches in which the men are alway sticking out their chins (to the ladies, of course), a band of inspired Canfield Supply Company keglerettes convinced a group of Shults Paint male employes that as bowlers they make good paint salesmen.

To heap further ignominy on tne stronger sex (?), the gals won two of the three sets without the aid of the handicap to which the males had gratuitously consented.

With Dottie Bell socking 463 in the anchor slot, the Canfield lassies totaled 2074 on games of 745, 640 and 689. The painters who were caught with their brushes down managed a feeble 1970. Their big gun was R. Phillips with 409.

A return match? Anytime, say the gals.

Home TV Is Planned For Louis-Marciano

New York, Oct. 18 (AP)—The Joe Louis-Rocky Marciano fight will be seen on home television Oct. 26—with seven TV manufacturers and the Gillete Safety Razor Company footing the bill.

The fight will be telecast coast-to-coast over the National Broadcasting Company network.

The sponsorship, disclosed yesterday, will be the second time that TV manufacturers have united to assure home viewers a seat at a top sports event.

Otherwise, the fight might have been seen only on theatre TV screens.

It was reported unofficially that the seven TV makers and Gillette paid more than $100,000 for the TV rights.

Caldwell Experiments

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 18 (AP)—Head Football Coach Charlie Caldwell experimented yesterday with possible Princeton line-up shifts for Saturday's game with Lafayette. He moved reserve offensive players Joe Masi of Greenwich, Conn., a passing quarterback, and Ned Janotta of Kenilworth, Ill., sub for All-American Dick Kazmaier at half, into the defensive secondary. The squad was restored to virtually full strength with return of offensive ends John Emery of Montclair and Len Lyons of Bronxville, N. Y., to duty.

Zaslofsky Set For Knick Game in Albany

Max Zaslofsky, who will appear with the New York Knickerbockers against the Boston Celtics Friday night at the Albany Armory, has the distinction of being the only player to make the NBA's all-star first team four straight seasons.

He joined the Chicago Stags in 1946 and immediately became one of the loop's outstanding performers, scoring 877 points for a 14.4 average. The next season, 1947-48 games for a 20.9 average. A year later he was third behind George Mikan and Joe Fulks.

Tickets for the game are on sale at Siena College in Loudonville and Johnny Evers and the Ten Eyck Hotel in Albany.

Nimrods Await Small Game Season; Supply Rated Greater Than Usual

Albany, Oct. 18 (AP)—New York sportsmen will take up their shooting irons tomorrow and salute the opening of the hunting season on small game, ducks and geese.

An estimated half million hunters will take to the woods and fields this year and they'll find more game than usual.

The State Conservation Department said yesterday the supply of pheasants, grouse, cottontails and gray squirrels appeared greater than in many years.

Upland game may be taken from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on opening day, and from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. thereafter.

Duck hunters, however, may not open fire until noon Friday. Hours for the rest of the season are from half an hour before sunrise to half an hour after sunset.

The duck season closes Nov. 5, but gets under way again Dec. 7 and continues through Dec. 24.

State officials said New Yorkers probably wouldn't get a shot at a mass of ducks reported migrating from the prairie provinces of Canada. They are expected to follow a midwestern flyway in their journey south. New York's ducks come mostly from eastern Canada.

Sportsmen are required to obtain a $2 federal stamp plus the state license to hunt ducks and geese.

The pheasant season runs only two days—tomorrow and Saturday—in 29 western counties and four days in 26 eastern counties. The Long Island pheasant season begins Nov. 1.

Other Dates Given

The grouse season, which began Oct. 8 in the Adirondacks, opens tomorrow in the rest of the state, except Long Island. It closes Nov. 21 in the northern and western zones, and Dec. 2 elsewhere.

The woodcock season also opened Oct. 8 in the Adirondacks and closes there Nov. 12. Elsewhere, except Long Island, woodcock may be bagged from Friday through Nov. 12. On Long Island, the dates are Oct. 22 through Nov. 15.

Except in nine counties, cottontail rabbits will be fair game tomorrow through Feb. 29. In Chautauqua, Dutchess, Orange and Ulster, the season runs from Friday through Jan. 31. In Putnam, Rockland, Westchester, Nassau and Suffolk, the season begins Nov. 15 and ends Jan. 31.

The snowshoe rabbit season begins Nov. 26 in most of the northern zone and Dec. 7 in the southern zone.

The gray squirrel season opens Friday and runs through Nov. 26, except on Long Island. The dates there are Nov. 1 through Dec. 31.

Coons may be hunted Oct. 25 through Jan. 31 in the northern zone and Oct. 29 through Jan. 24 elsewhere. The trapping season starts Oct. 25 in the northern zone and Nov. 5 elsewhere.

Hooker Scores 56 as Koenigs Blast Silsby Motors by 102 to 40 Count

Esopus Firemen Win, 81 to 40

Spearheaded by LeRoy Hooker's great scoring orgy, Koenig's Insurance cagers hit the century mark in rolling up a 102 to 40 victory over Silsby Motors on Wednesday night in the YMCA Autumn Basketball League.

Hooker emerged from the lopsided tilt with a terrific show of power as he piled up a point-total of 56 markers. Hooker flipped in 25 fields and added six fouls to give him the big score.

Koenig and Camp followed Hooker in the scoring ledger with 18 and 11 points respectively. Dederick and Scheffel were high for the losers with 15 and 14 points each.

Koenigs jumped off to a slim 14-13 edge at the first period but led by 39-19 at halftime. Two big scoring bulges of 31 and 32 points in the last two quarters completed the rout.

Five Esopus Firemen cagers hit the double figures in the win over the National Guard five.

Wilson and Burger topped the list with 16 and 15 points while Dockman followed with 14, Maines 13 and Unrah 10. Van Wagenen and Albany hit the cords for 12 and 11 points for the losers.

Zaslofsky Set For Knick Game in Albany

Max Zaslofsky, who will appear with the New York Knickerbockers against the Boston Celtics Friday night at the Albany Armory, has the distinction of being the only player to make the NBA's all-star first team four straight seasons.

He joined the Chicago Stags in 1946 and immediately became one of the loop's outstanding performers, scoring 877 points for a 14.4 average. The next season, 1947-48 games for a 20.9 average. A year later he was third behind George Mikan and Joe Fulks.

Tickets for the game are on sale at Siena College in Loudonville and Johnny Evers and the Ten Eyck Hotel in Albany.

Nimrods Await Small Game Season; Supply Rated Greater Than Usual

Albany, Oct. 18 (AP)—New York sportsmen will take up their shooting irons tomorrow and salute the opening of the hunting season on small game, ducks and geese.

An estimated half million hunters will take to the woods and fields this year and they'll find more game than usual.

The State Conservation Department said yesterday the supply of pheasants, grouse, cottontails and gray squirrels appeared greater than in many years.

Upland game may be taken from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. on opening day, and from 7 a. m. to 5 p. m. thereafter.

Duck hunters, however, may not open fire until noon Friday. Hours for the rest of the season are from half an hour before sunrise to half an hour after sunset.

The duck season closes Nov. 5, but gets under way again Dec. 7 and continues through Dec. 24.

State officials said New Yorkers probably wouldn't get a shot at a mass of ducks reported migrating from the prairie provinces of Canada. They are expected to follow a midwestern flyway in their journey south. New York's ducks come mostly from eastern Canada.

Sportsmen are required to obtain a $2 federal stamp plus the state license to hunt ducks and geese.

The pheasant season runs only two days—tomorrow and Saturday—in 29 western counties and four days in 26 eastern counties. The Long Island pheasant season begins Nov. 1.

Other Dates Given

The grouse season, which began Oct. 8 in the Adirondacks, opens tomorrow in the rest of the state, except Long Island. It closes Nov. 21 in the northern and western zones, and Dec. 2 elsewhere.

The woodcock season also opened Oct. 8 in the Adirondacks and closes there Nov. 12. Elsewhere, except Long Island, woodcock may be bagged from Friday through Nov. 12. On Long Island, the dates are Oct. 22 through Nov. 15.

Except in nine counties, cottontail rabbits will be fair game tomorrow through Feb. 29. In Chautauqua, Dutchess, Orange and Ulster, the season runs from Friday through Jan. 31. In Putnam, Rockland, Westchester, Nassau and Suffolk, the season begins Nov. 15 and ends Jan. 31.

The snowshoe rabbit season begins Nov. 26 in most of the northern zone and Dec. 7 in the southern zone.

The gray squirrel season opens Friday and runs through Nov. 26, except on Long Island. The dates there are Nov. 1 through Dec. 31.

Coons may be hunted Oct. 25 through Jan. 31 in the northern zone and Oct. 29 through Jan. 24 elsewhere. The trapping season starts Oct. 25 in the northern zone and Nov. 5 elsewhere.

Bout Is Postponed

Detroit, Oct. 18 (AP)—The Kid Gavilan-Tony Janiro fight has been postponed to Nov. 7. Originally the non-title, 10-rounder was to have been staged here Oct. 31. The International Boxing Club said Janiro asked the postponement because he has a cold and needs extra time to get in shape. Gavilan is welterweight champion. Janiro is a middleweight.

Jayvee Harriers Trip Montgomery For Second Triumph

Kingston High School's Jayvee cross country team notched its second straight victory of the season Wednesday with a 23 to 38 decision over Montgomery High School.

The harriers of Coach G. Warren Kias dominated the first 10 finishers with the exception of first and fourth.

The rest of the field included the following:

Don Purdy (K), 13:03; Carlew (M), 13:23; Houlihan (K), 13:28; Rodriguez (K), 13:30; Zates (K) 13:49; Houghtaling (K), 13:54; Mooney (K), 14:11; Powell (K), 14:22; Comstock (K), 14:40; Harder (K), 14:57; Turck (K), 15:07; Schenck (K), 15:26; Planthaber (K), 16:14; Hieber (M), 18:55 and Burten (M), 18:56.

The Jayvees will meet Wallkill High School next Thursday in Kingston. The KHS varsity harriers were scheduled to meet Newburgh Free Academy here this afternoon.

Naccarato Held

Achilles Naccarato, 57, of 61 Newkirk avenue, was arrested at Marbletown yesterday afternoon by Detective Clarence Brophy and Deputy Sheriff Earl Conro on a morals charge. The case was adjourned until Saturday when he appeared today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino. Attorney Robert M. Ortale appeared for the defendant and Sherwood E. Davis for the district attorney's office. Authorities said the arrest followed complaints from the parents of young children.

Bombers Seek Survivors

Westover Air Force Base, Mass., Oct. 18 (AP)—Five air force bombers maneuvered in dangerous weather today—sometimes flying "blind"—in a race against storms to search for 11 airmen missing four days after a flight from the Azores. Increasing winds and rain swept into the search area about 1,000 miles east of Cape Cod. Another 85 search planes were unable to take off, Westover officials said. An air force spokesman reported "visibility is less than a mile in rain and the ceiling is low."

KAA Installs New Officers

CITY BASEBALL DINNER ATTRACTS NOTABLES

The guest table at the City Baseball League dinner teemed with outstanding personalities. Back row: Joe Messinger, the league's indefatigable secretary, and Warren Smith, former president, who awarded championship patches; seated, the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Martin J. Drury, who delivered the invocation; league president, Joe Kelly; Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk; Charles J. Turck, vice-president; and Dick McCarthy.

Bird Man

Carlsbad, N. M. (AP) — Jimmie Cox not only doesn't mind a bird but he actually goes after them. Superintendent of Mexico's game farm at La Huerta, Cox will soon go to the Middle East for six months of study and collection of game birds. Among other birds he hopes to bring back to New Mexico 500 chukars to provide the state with a chukar hunting season within ten years. The chukar is a fast and elusive bird of the partridge family and about 2½ times the size of a quail.

Joe Mannello and Vivien Slover Pace City Keglers With 625-522

Joe Mannello came up with his second straight 600 triple of the season Wednesday night as he led the individual parade of trundlers with a nifty 625 series in the CYO Holy Name wheel at the Bowlodrome. Joe pounded out scores of 206-222-197 for the top mark.

Tops in the distaff department last night was Vivien Slover of the Colonial Women's League who fired 208-124-190 for a 522 triple.

Mannello's 625 blast established a new high in that department for the CYO trundlers. Last Wednesday night he tied for high triple honors with a 606.

Doris Strubel Hits 506

Elsewhere in league play last night, Johnny "Red" Sangi missed out by two pins from typing the top mark of the night with a 208-209-206 string for 623 in the Central Rec Major; Helen McDougall 166-149-160 for 475 in the Silver Division of the Colonial Women's League; Gen Whitmore 129-134-165-428 in the Purple Division while Doris Strubel hit 181-168-157 to grab top honors in the Bowlodrome Pioneer Women's League with 506.

Other top efforts in the CYO firing included Ed Koskie with 225-584; D. Tomczyk 576; J. Fahey 210-558; J. Lukas 211-204-552; Pete Tatarzewski 208-551; Jim Noble 546; T. Guerrerra 221-543; Charlie Hertica 209-533; and Vince Burns 532.

Dot Rawding posted the runner-up score in the Colonial Women's League with 518. Ada Markle rolled 493; Mae Martalto 492; Charlotte Lapine 490; Kay Roosa 478; Mary Wyant 476; Bertha Schaller 473; Evelyn Gross 466; Betty Bailey 464; Doris Wolff 463 and Phyl Gehringer 461.

Also of note throughout the rest of the Colonial Women's League were Marie Bechtold with 457; Helen Broskie 453; Mildred Mackey 442; Dolores Janowski 420; Peggy Rosinski 409; Flo Beichert 420; Helen Buchholtz 393; F. Maley 387; N. Hussey 386; A. Mitchell 386; B. Monashefsky 386 and E. Fitzpatrick 381.

Four other 600 triples followed John Sangi's pacer in the Central Rec Major.

Phil Masters fired 208-236-621; Angie Ferraro 229-235-610; George Shufeldt 200-235-610 and Lew Hymes 205-214-610. Ed Murphy hit 203-594; Ken Joseph 200-220-592; George "Curley" Flemings 225-593; Frank "Tarz" Spada 222-575; Bill Lawrence 237-573; Charlie Grunenwald 224-571 and Frank "Boots" Leskie 212-570.

Trailing Doris Strubel in the Pioneer Women's circuit were Kay Norton with 445; Nellie Glennon 440; A. Kirn 438; A. Carpino 414; B. Macholdt 408; D. LaRocca 407 and F. Davis 406. Marge Burns and Dot LaRocca converted a couple of nifty splits, the 5-7-10 and 7-9 respectively.

Naccarato Held

Achilles Naccarato, 57, of 61 Newkirk avenue, was arrested at Marbletown yesterday afternoon by Detective Clarence Brophy and Deputy Sheriff Earl Conro on a morals charge. The case was adjourned until Saturday when he appeared today before City Judge Raymond J. Mino. Attorney Robert M. Ortale appeared for the defendant and Sherwood E. Davis for the district attorney's office. Authorities said the arrest followed complaints from the parents of young children.

Bombers Seek Survivors

Westover Air Force Base, Mass., Oct. 18 (AP)—Five air force bombers maneuvered in dangerous weather today—sometimes flying "blind"—in a race against storms to search for 11 airmen missing four days after a flight from the Azores. Increasing winds and rain swept into the search area about 1,000 miles east of Cape Cod. Another 85 search planes were unable to take off, Westover officials said. An air force spokesman reported "visibility is less than a mile in rain and the ceiling is low."

CITY BASEBALL DINNER ATTRACTS NOTABLES

The guest table at the City Baseball League dinner teemed with outstanding personalities. Back row: Joe Messinger, the league's indefatigable secretary, and Warren Smith, former president, who awarded championship patches; seated, the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Martin J. Drury, who delivered the invocation; league president, Joe Kelly; Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk; Charles J. Turck, vice-president; and Dick McCarthy.

Bird Man

Carlsbad, N. M. (AP) — Jimmie Cox not only doesn't mind a bird but he actually goes after them. Superintendent of Mexico's game farm at La Huerta, Cox will soon go to the Middle East for six months of study and collection of game birds. Among other birds he hopes to bring back to New Mexico 500 chukars to provide the state with a chukar hunting season within ten years. The chukar is a fast and elusive bird of the partridge family and about 2½ times the size of a quail.

THE PEOPLE OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK, BY THE GRACE OF GOD FREE AND INDEPENDENT, TO—

GREETING:

YOU AND EACH OF YOU ARE HEREBY CITED TO SHOW CAUSE at a Surrogate's Court to be held in and for the County of Ulster at the Surrogate's Office in the City of Kingston, N. Y., on the 29th day of October, 1951, at ten o'clock in the forenoon of that day, why a certain instrument in writing, dated October 16, 1950, relating to both real and personal estate, presented to said Surrogate's Court, should not be proved, admitted to probate and recorded as the last Will and Testament of Anna D. Bock, late of the City of Kingston, Ulster County, deceased, upon the petition of Kathe Winkler, of the hamlet of Stony Hollow, N. Y., the Executrix named therein.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, We have caused the seal of said Surrogate's Court to be hereunto affixed. WITNESS, [L. S.] HON. JOHN B. STERLEY, Surrogate of our said County of Ulster, at Kingston, N. Y., this 25th day of September, 1951.

H. LeROY GILL
Clerk of the Surrogate's Court

Bowling

Joe Mannello and Vivien Slover Pace City Keglers With 625-522

Joe Mannello came up with his second straight 600 triple of the season Wednesday night as he led the individual parade of trundlers with a nifty 625 series in the CYO Holy Name wheel at the Bowlodrome. Joe pounded out scores of 206-222-197 for the top mark.

Tops in the distaff department last night was Vivien Slover of the Colonial Women's League who fired 208-124-190 for a 522 triple.

Mannello's 625 blast established a new high in that department for the CYO trundlers. Last Wednesday night he tied for high triple honors with a 606.

Doris Strubel Hits 506

Elsewhere in league play last night, Johnny "Red" Sangi missed out by two pins from typing the top mark of the night with a 208-209-206 string for 623 in the Central Rec Major; Helen McDougall 166-149-160 for 475 in the Silver Division of the Colonial Women's League; Gen Whitmore 129-134-165-428 in the Purple Division while Doris Strubel hit 181-168-157 to grab top honors in the Bowlodrome Pioneer Women's League with 506.

Other top efforts in the CYO firing included Ed Koskie with 225-584; D. Tomczyk 576; J. Fahey 210-558; J. Lukas 211-204-552; Pete Tatarzewski 208-551; Jim Noble 546; T. Guerrerra 221-543; Charlie Hertica 209-533; and Vince Burns 532.

Dot Rawding posted the runner-up score in the Colonial Women's League with 518. Ada Markle rolled 493; Mae Martalto 492; Charlotte Lapine 490; Kay Roosa 478; Mary Wyant 476; Bertha Schaller 473; Evelyn Gross 466; Betty Bailey 464; Doris Wolff 463 and Phyl Gehringer 461.

Also of note throughout the rest of the Colonial Women's League were Marie Bechtold with 457; Helen Broskie 453; Mildred Mackey 442; Dolores Janowski 420; Peggy Rosinski 409; Flo Beichert 420; Helen Buchholtz 393; F. Maley 387; N. Hussey 386; A. Mitchell 386; B. Monashefsky 386 and E. Fitzpatrick 381.

Four other 600 triples followed John Sangi's pacer in the Central Rec Major.

Phil Masters fired 208-236-621; Angie Ferraro 229-235-610; George Shufeldt 200-235-610 and Lew Hymes 205-214-610. Ed Murphy hit 203-594; Ken Joseph 200-220-592; George "Curley" Flemings 225-593; Frank "Tarz" Spada 222-575; Bill Lawrence 237-573; Charlie Grunenwald 224-571 and Frank "Boots" Leskie 212-570.

Trailing Doris Strubel in the Pioneer Women's circuit were Kay Norton with 445; Nellie Glennon 440; A. Kirn 438; A. Carpino 414; B. Macholdt 408; D. LaRocca 407 and F. Davis 406. Marge Burns and Dot LaRocca converted a couple of nifty splits, the 5-7-10 and 7-9 respectively.

The Weather

THURSDAY, OCT. 18, 1951

Sun rises at 5:59 a. m.; sun sets at 4:59 p. m., E.S.T.
Weather, partly cloudy.

The Temperature

The lowest temperature recorded on The Freeman thermometer during the night was 50 degrees. The highest figure recorded up to noon today was 70 degrees.

Weather Forecast

New York city and vicinity—Considerable cloudiness today, tonight, and Friday, with little change in temperature. Highest temperature today and Friday 65-70. Lowest temperature tonigh near 60. Windy today and tonight.

Eastern New York—Fair tonight, lowest 40 to 45 north and 46 to 52 in the south portion. Friday rather cloudy and mild.

Accord Brown Swiss Bull Going to South America

An Accord county bull is bound for the Republic of Colombia, South America, according to an announcement from the Brown Swiss Association, Beloit, Wis.

A news release from the headquarters of the organization said Howard C. Anderson, Accord, a breeder, has sold a bull, Anderson Acres Dean Lad, to Fernando A. Garcia Y Co., Republic of Colombia.

Atomic Exercises Await Observers

Las Vegas, Nev., Oct. 18 (AP)—The weather seems right, the construction is finished — but the atomic exercises on the Nevada desert now await a swarm of official and unofficial observers.

Chairman Gordon Dean and other members of the Atomic Energy Commission are expected for at least part of the tests. Defense Department leaders—from Secretary Robert Lovett on down—have been invited, and, it was learned, so have hundreds of military observers from posts all over the nation.

Camp Desert Rock, where 5,000 troops are bivouacked, and the Yucca Flat test site are still off limits to newsmen, however.

Meanwhile, it was established that the forthcoming experiments will not only test A-weapons in tactical use with field troops, but will be directed against certain construction built at Yucca Flat.

The construction includes buildings of one to several stories, bridges and viaducts. Many contain built-in instruments to record atomic after effects.

Expensive Guerrilla War

Kuala Lumpur, Malaya (AP) — The war being waged by British troops and security forces against Communist terrorists in Malaya seems to be getting more and more expensive. The cost has been running over $100,000 per day, but it's still on the upgrade. The federal government is asking the legislative council to approve $27,000,000 in supplemental funds.

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS of OUR Business

A Customer	is the most important person in any business.
A Customer	is not dependent on us—we are dependent on him.
A Customer	is not an interruption of our work—he is the purpose of it.
A Customer	does us a favor when he calls—we are not doing him a favor by serving him.
A Customer	is part of our business—he is not an outsider.
A Customer	is not someone to argue or match wits with. . . . .
A Customer	is a person who brings us his wants — it is our job to fill those wants
A Customer	is deserving of the most courteous and attentive treatment we can give him.
A Customer	is the life blood of this and every other business.

You have convinced us that devotion to these ten commandments is good policy. You have given us your confidence and support. This support, in turn, has made possible our outstanding growth during the past 19 years!

THE TEN COMMANDMENTS of OUR Business

A Customer is the most important person in any business.
A Customer is not dependent on us—we are dependent on him.
A Customer is not an interruption of our work—he is the purpose of it.
A Customer does us a favor when he calls—we are not doing him a favor by serving him.
A Customer is part of our business—he is not an outsider.
A Customer is not a cold statistic — he is a flesh-and-blood human being with feelings and emotions like our own.
A Customer is not someone to argue or match wits with. . . . .
A Customer is a person who brings us his wants — it is our job to fill those wants
A Customer is deserving of the most courteous and attentive treatment we can give him.
A Customer is the life blood of this and every other business.

You have convinced us that devotion to these ten commandments is good policy. You have given us your confidence and support. This support, in turn, has made possible our outstanding growth during the past 19 years!

NEW Window Beauty FOR YOUR NEW HOME

. . . with ANDERSEN GLIDING WINDOWS

All the beauty of a casement—at a lower cost—that's the new Andersen Gliding Window. You've never seen a window like it. It glides sideways in a track. No weights or hinges, just operates on simple steel glides. Double glass replaces storm sash and stays on the year around. For cleaning, just lift the sash right out.

This new Andersen Gliding Window is complete with weatherstripping and hardware. All wood permanently treated against termites and decay. Large sizes never before available with conventional windows.

See the Andersen Gliding Window today.

IT OPENS LIKE THIS
Turn handle, pull right hand sash toward you. Presto! It slides right past other sash. So simple it's unbelievable.
